This is for You

At least it is of vital importance to you, if
you consider the purchase of a piano, player-
piano, piano player, or music for a player.
We are Eastern Distributors for four leading
manufacturers, and ten different makes of
player-pianos. The only place where you can buy a new Krakauer, Sohmer-Cecilian, Gabler-Cecilian, or Behning Player Piano, is at our warehouse. We have a number of
used pianos of nearly all leading makes at prices below all competition. We are also Eastern distributors for the "Conorized" guaranteed player rolls. If you have never heard a "Conorized" arrangement, you do
not yet know the possibilities of the piano-player. Call and try some records at your convenience. LINCOLN & PARKER, 113

Remember Nov. 12 and 13

There is an increasing demand for tickets to "Yankeeland", the two-act
comic opera by Messrs Bentley
and Wade, which is to be given at the Hunnewell clubhouse, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Nov. 12 and 13, for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A.

Seats may be secured at the association rooms for 35, 50 and 75 cents.

The opera is well known and as it is to be presented by local amateurs of recognized ability, patrons may be sure
of a clever and entertaining performance. Then, too, there is offered an excellent opportunity to aid the Y. M.
C. A. in its splendid field of work.

PUBLIC OPINION

Massachusetts Newspapers Owned and Edited by Massachusetts Citizens Editorially Defend LIEUT. GOV. DRAPER From the Assaults of Yellow Journalism.

Taunton Gazette.

Guild and Draper bid fair to make a good run in this state this fall, a better run as a team than they did last year. Gov. Guild is fully as popular with all classes as he has been at any time and Mr. Draper's policy of telling his own story in opposition to the vitriolic attacks upon him of the past year has had a pretty good effect in a direction where it counts and it is believed that his vote will show an increase in size this fall.

Worcester Gazette.

It must be a matter of gratification to the friends of Eben S. Draper the way sentiment throughout the state is turning his way. As he becomes better known his strength increases.

His better acquaintances among the people, who don't all live around Boston, is demonstrating to them that he is a pretty good sort of fellow and that he has brains and courage. Draper is growing in popularity and it is right he should. He deserves it.

Old Colony Memorial.

Lieut. Governor Draper has been re-

L'Independent, Fall River.

(Translation)

The newspapers of Massachusetts are unsparing in their praises of the ability of Lieutenant Governor Draper, and it is not surprising to those who have followed the career of that distinguished man. For many years Mr. Draper has been at the head of all the popular movements. As president of the Volunteer Aid Association, during the Spanish-American war, he showed himself pre-eminently a man of action. He found the necessary funds for the purchase and equipment of a hospital-ship for the Massachusetts troops. And the wounded soldiers treated at Montauk will never forget the good care which they received. It is known that through the keenness of Mr. Draper, the hospital-ship was sold at the close of the war, and the money thus gained was given to the relief of the unfortunates, unable to work, and their families. It was a philanthropic act, which will never be forgotten. In this instance, as usual, Mr. Draper acted as a man of clear-sighted purpose. He has never, like many others, rested with more conspicuous in the development of this great industry than the Lieutenant Governor, and this ought not to be considered a crime in this intelligent age.

Fitchburg Sentinel.

The words of commendation that are being handed out to Lieut. Gov. Draper were not unlooked for by those who have been associated with him in years past. For a number of years, Mr. Draper has been first and foremost in about every undertaking of a public character. His services at the head of the Volunteer Aid Association, during the Spanish War displayed the real character of the man. His incessant work in raising funds, purchasing and fitting up a hospital ship to care for the Massachusetts soldiers, and the relief work at Montauk will never be forgotten by the unfortunate sufferers who received the best care and attention that money could afford. It is well known that it was through Mr. Draper's foresight that the hospital ship was disposed of at the close of the war, and the money that was received has been used to care for those who were afflicted permanently, and their dependents. It was a humane work for a humane purpose. In this, Mr. Draper applied the same business methods as he always does in every undertaking that is committed to his charge.

New Pastor

Rev. J. Edgar Park of West Andover, who was recently extended a call to become pastor of the Second Congregational church at West Newton, has sent a letter of acceptance to the society. He will begin his pastorate here the middle of November.

The Second Congregational church, which is among the oldest in the city, has been without a resident pastor since last winter, when Rev. Theodore P. Prudden retired from active duties after many years' service in the parish.

Rev. Mr. Park is a native of Belfast, Ire., where he was born in 1879. He was educated in Belfast academy, and later entered Queen's college in Belfast, where for three years he was mathematical exhibitor. Later he entered the Royal university of Ireland in Dublin and was graduated with honors in modern and oriental literature. He has taken post graduate courses in the universities of Leipzig, Edinburgh and Princeton. He is a graduate of Princeton theological seminary, and has also pursued theological courses in the Free church theological college in Edinburgh and the theological college in Belfast, where he won an exhibition and a gold medal.

For one year Rev. Mr. Park was a missionary in the lumber region of the Adirondack mountains, during which time he was pastor of the mission church of Stark, N. Y. During the last three years he has been pastor of the West parish church, West Andover.

He was married in Andover in 1906 to Miss Grace Burtt, a graduate of Wellesley college in 1900. They have one daughter.

Rev. Mr. Park's father, grandfather and great-grandfather were all Irish Presbyterian ministers. They all occupied the high position of moderator of the Irish church, and the two latter were professors of theology in the Belfast seminary.

The enrolment of students at Burdett College, 18 Boylston Street, continues week after week. President Burdett, anticipating the increased attendance for this year, equipped two extra rooms in order to accommodate all who wished to join this school of modern methods in Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Typewriting. The substantial quality of the education imparted at Burdett College has placed this school among the leading ones of its kind in the world.

Organ Recital

The main auditorium of Channing church was well filled with a representative audience Tuesday evening at an organ recital given by Mr. Henry T. Wade, organist of the church assisted by Mr. Heinrich Schurmann, Tenor soloist. The program, which was of unusual artistic merit, was as follows: Prelude in D minor—Mendelssohn Adagio—Saint Saens. Allegro (Second Concerto)—Handel. Scherzo—Guilmant. Tenor Narrative "Lohengrin"—Wagner. Pastorale—Driffeld. Fantaisie Rustique—Wolstenholme. Romance—Lemare. Marche triomphale—Hagg. Be thou faithful unto death (St. Paul)—Mendelssohn. Largo—Handel.

Charles E. Lauriat Company have just issued two catalogues of unusual importance which serve to call particular attention to the specialties which they have been lately making in their store. One is of standard New England books and the other of fine old books from London. Either or both will be sent to any address free, and they are well worth sending for.

O. S. SNEEGANT, Vice-Pres.
July 8, 1907.

EBEN S. DRAPER
Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts.

ceiving compliments of the highest order from all parts of the state, as the people have become better acquainted with the man and his high character. This personal friendly feeling is not confined to men of his own party, for his political opponents have nothing but kind words for Mr. Draper, personally, however much they may differ from him on political questions. Eben Draper is a man who believes in a "square deal" and the more the public becomes acquainted with the man and the honest purpose that characterizes his every act, the more they appreciate the value of his services as a brave public spirited citizen.

North Adams Herald.

The Pittsfield Eagle brings forward the right idea in a short editorial headed "A crusade against Draper". The Eagle announces that the publicity being given the Drapers and Hopedale at the present time is probably prompted by the misrepresentations of the Drapers and their shops by a number of articles that have appeared in a Boston newspaper, the object of which was apparently to prejudice the future political chances of Lieutenant Governor Draper. The Eagle declares that whatever may be the claims of the lieutenant governor from promotion to the governorship, it is no more than fair that the public be made acquainted with the exact social and business conditions at Hopedale, and all fair minded people will agree with the paper in this statement.

Greenfield Recorder.

Mr. Draper appears to have started on a somewhat independent campaign with the entirely commendable purpose of getting himself squarely before the voters of the state. Few men have had the fortune to be so little understood and little appreciated for their true worth as has the present lieutenant governor. There is much to be said for him that would not be at all sure of being said in the ordinary course of a campaign with the governorship as the chiefly contested prize. Mr. Draper is at least entitled to be known in his true light and there is nothing surer to swell his vote than just that understanding.

folded arms, doing nothing, but when a situation called for action and energy, he sent aid to the wounded soldiers, and we know with what zeal and success he accomplished it. The lieutenant governor is a citizen who should deservedly be honored, by Massachusetts in particular and the public in general.

Chelsea Record.

After reading the unjust effusions in the Hearst newspapers it is refreshing to see a Democratic newspaper like the Milford News come out in defence of decent politics. The editor of the News is a resident of Milford, and is intimately acquainted with the high standing and character of its citizens, and the continual misrepresentation of the Draper Company and their employees is repulsive to his sense of justice.

Athol Chronicle.

A change in the political current seems to be carrying Lieutenant Governor Draper nearer and nearer to the front, due chiefly to his becoming better known to the voters. Had Mr. Draper not been misrepresented in previous campaigns, he would not have been behind his running mate—Gov. Guild—when the returns were footed up. He is making a vigorous campaign this fall, not only helping his candidacy, but that of the Republican ticket as a whole, and it would not be surprising if he ran ahead of the ticket.

Fall River Herald.

The people of our State are beginning to realize that the town of Hopedale and the Draper Company are not such a public menace as was pictured last fall. This is always the case when the people take time to differentiate truth from slander. The fact that Eben S. Draper, one of the proprietors of this great enterprise was a candidate for an important state office, was the real cause of the misguided attack upon a town that has no superior in all New England. Those who are intelligent enough to comprehend the value of Massachusetts industries, know full well that the Draper Co., from its inception to the present time, has been and is a most valuable asset to the State and its people, and no one man has been

THEATRES

Tremont Theatre—An announcement as important as any that has been made since the inauguration of Advanced Vaudeville is to the effect that negotiations have been completed by Klaw &amp; Erlanger for the presentation in this country in connection with Advanced Vaudeville of the great English ballets from the Alhambra and Empire Theatres in London. This means that these beautiful and elaborate spectacles will be presented in connection with the regular performances and as an addition and part of them. This really marks the introduction of a new feature of entertainment in America's amusement world. The ballet has long been one of the biggest drawing cards of all the British stage offerings and now that it is to be introduced into America, it will be shown on even a more elaborate scale. Arrangements have been made for fifty of the premiere dancers of Europe to come over for the opening of the ballet season in America. This number will be augmented by the pick of the dancing talent of this country, and all will be trained and harmonized into an ensemble of bewildering beauty and surpassing grace. Agents of Klaw &amp; Erlanger will continue in Europe searching for talent available for the ballet here, and it will be continued as a permanent institution in the career of Advanced Vaudeville in America. These magnificent spectacles will soon be seen here at the Tremont Theatre. There are daily matinees at the Tremont with a special schedule of prices for ladies and children.

Boston Theatre—The announcement of a production of the famous English melodrama "The Soudan" at the Boston Theatre next week will be of interest to a vast public to whom this great play has as yet been known only by the fame it gained years ago in both England and America. Manager Morison has spared neither time, labor nor expense to make this production of "The Soudan" far superior to any ever given the play on either side of the ocean. All of the fourteen scenes called for have been built and painted from the original designs. Notwithstanding the great expense incidental to this production Manager Morison has decided to make no advance in prices. Daily matinees will be given except on Monday for the accommodation of suburban patrons.

Keith's Theatre—There will be a wealth of good things in the bill at Keith's next week. "A Night on a House Boat" will be the big novelty. The scene represents a magnificent house boat moored in a beautiful lake, while the action details the happenings of a night before the Fourth. There are a dozen in the company, many catchy songs and very effective costumes. There is no more popular singer with the patrons of Keith's than Camille D'Arville, who has not been seen in Boston in several seasons. Will H. Murphy, Blanche Nichols and company are to present their roaring farce, "From Za Za to Uncle Tom's," than which a funnier act has never been staged. The Four Fords have won the reputation of presenting the greatest dancing specialty in vaudeville. Warren and Blanchard, two clever blackface comedians; John E. Hazard, an up to date monologist; Lambert, one of vaudeville's greatest musicians; Holden's Mammikins, the best in the line; Macart's

Monkey Show, a great troupe of trained baboons and apes; the Keeley Brothers, who have made bag punching a fine art; the Meech International Trio, novelty gymnasts; Banks and Newton, singers and dancers; Harriet Jones, a pretty balladist; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Tracy, in a bright sketch, and new pictures by the Kinetograph will complete a big bill.

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The people of this senatorial district have an opportunity—the first in a decade with one exception—to elect a business man of wide experience to the state senate. The Republican nomination for years has been given to members of the legal profession and the pressing need of practical business men in the state service has been ignored. The lesson taught by last year's defeat has been heeded this fall in the nomination of ex-alderman Charles S. Dennison by the Republican party and we believe the voters of this district will show their appreciation of the change in policy, by casting a large vote for Mr. Dennison. At the same time, too much emphasis cannot be given the fact that every Republican should cast his vote next Tuesday, as the opposition is well organized and will put up a determined fight to elect its candidate. The contrast between the two leading candidates are marked. Mr. Vahey is radical in both word and deed. Mr. Dennison is conservative and cautious. Mr. Vahey is sensational. Mr. Dennison is retiring. Mr. Vahey is fond of the lime light of publicity. Mr. Dennison is modest. Mr. Vahey is theatrical. Mr. Dennison is practical. There are other characteristics which mark both men but we feel confident that we have outlined enough to indicate that Mr. Dennison is the candidate whose opinions and whose judgment on the important matters of legislation will more nearly coincide with those of the majority of voters of Newton and the district.

In the excitement over the senatorship next Tuesday we trust the full Republican vote will be cast for the re-election of Governor Guild. Aside from the fact that the Governor's record deserves commendation, especially from voters of Newton, the governor's vote on Tuesday will form the basis upon which Newton's delegations to the various conventions of 1908 will be made. When it is remembered that delegates will be elected next spring to the presidential convention, it will be a matter of deep regret if our strength is frittered away by useless Republican votes for Mr. Whitney.

Eighty boys attended a banquet tendered the junior and intermediate members of the Newton Y. M. C. A. in the association hall Saturday evening. An elaborate feast was served with Seth Wood, chairman of the social committee, presiding. Addresses on the boys' side of the association work were made by Carl L. Ellison and Rev. H. Grant Person. Musical specialties were given by Richard Hill and Harry Morgan.

Among Women

The Ladies' Home Circle will have a whist at Mrs. Lyons' 2181 Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, on Wednesday, Nov. 6, at 2:15.

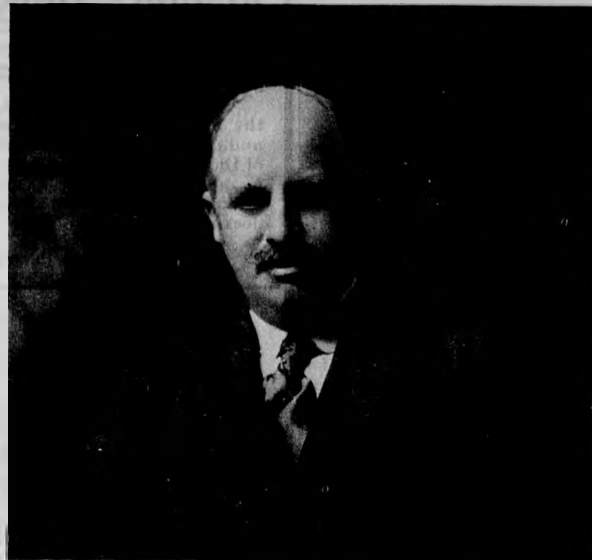

The first meeting of the Newton Equal Suffrage League was held at the home of Mrs. G. F. Lowell in Newtonville on Wednesday evening. The program consisted of songs by Mrs. Elizabeth Barker and addresses by Mrs. May Alden Ward and Mr. Henry B. Blackwell.

Mrs. Ward told of the development of the women's clubs and the great variety of work which they have accomplished. They have broadened the outlook of women, have given them inspiration from the contact with others' minds, have made them hospitable to differences of opinion, broken down artificial barriers and brought the women of different churches together to work for common interests. Then some of the tangible things which the clubs have done include the work for better conditions in the schools and in the communities, the instruction in domestic science, sewing, manual training in the schools; the decorating of the buildings, the establishment of public libraries and of traveling libraries, kindergartens, and vacation schools. The Federations have brought together women from larger territories and the same things may be said to have resulted as in the case of the smaller communities, until now the General Federation has become a recognized power in the country.

Mr. Blackwell told of some of the injustices which have been done women and traced gains that have been made in these directions. He expressed the opinion that women will not receive full justice nor just recompense for labor until they have the ballot. What is needed at the present time is a purification of politics and to accomplish this the women are required.

A social hour with light refreshments closed an enjoyable evening.

A STIFF CONTEST

CHARLES S. DENNISON,
Candidate for the Senate.

Newton citizens may well be alarmed over the activity of the opponent of Mr. Dennison throughout the senatorial district.

Mr. Dennison reluctantly accepted the nomination after much insistence urging by his fellow citizens.

To have him defeated now would deter other good men from becoming candidates for public office in the future and would cause great chagrin to his host of friends.

In the western end of the district, Mr. Vahey's friends are making cheap appeals to prejudice the voters against Newton and Newton's citizens.

Mr. Vahey will masquerade on the ballot as a nominee of "Republican Independents." This is simply a political trick calculated to deceive the voters. Mr. Vahey's friends have credited him with nearly all the important legislation of last year altho those statutes were all enacted by a Republican House and a Republican Senate and signed by a Republican Governor.

Attempts are being made, for political purposes, to arouse discontent among the satisfied employees of the Dennison works at South Framingham.

A circular attacking Mr. Dennison and praising his opponent may be expected at the "eleventh hour" when it is too late to reply.

With such efforts put forth elsewhere in the district, it behooves every Newton citizen to cast his ballot next Tuesday for Charles S. Dennison.

We know him too well in this community to be misled by tales against him or by stories of the superiority of his opponent.

Charles S. Dennison has lived in Newton since his birth in 1858.

Read Fund Lectures

The Read Fund Lecture Committee has provided this year an unusually interesting course of lectures upon the subject of Zoology. The lectures are to be delivered by Professor G. H. Parker of Harvard University. Professor Parker is one of the most popular lecturers at Harvard. The students who take his courses are most enthusiastic about them. He has arranged for the lectures in Newton a remarkable collection of lantern slides. The details of the lectures are given in the advertising columns of this paper. We think the people of Newton are to be congratulated on having the opportunity of hearing Professor Parker, and we have no doubt his audience will be limited only by the size of the hall. The first lecture will be given next Monday evening. Admission is free to all.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Carter on Clark lane, Waltham, last Monday evening Miss Ellen Anderson of Washington street, Newton, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Longfellow Crocker of Portland, Maine. Rev. Francis E. Webster was the officiating clergyman. The maid of honor was Miss Mabel Gillespie and the best man Mr. Carl Crocker. The ribbon girls were the Misses June Morse of Portland, Fitzpatrick of Belmont, Alice Lincoln, Beatrice Clapp, Grace Hemenway and Helen Crocker of Waltham.

Cruelty to Animals

George Corkery of Cambridge was in the police court Monday morning on a charge of cruelty to a horse. Several residents of Bellevue street had complained that Corkery had lashed his horse while driving a heavy wagon up the hill on that street.

Mrs. Mary A. Leonard testified to bringing a pair of opera glasses to bear upon the wagon in order to find out the name of the owner. She told the court that she spoke to Corkery about laying his whip on the horse and that he listened politely to her remarks. She thought that as he was not saucy he should be dealt with leniently. Henry F. Wellington testified to seeing Corkery whip the animal.

A fine of $10 was imposed. Corkery paid $5 and was given until Nov. 4 to pay the rest. Judge Kennedy publicly thanked the neighbors for calling attention to the matter.

His education was in the public schools and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. First as a machinist, then as a salesman, in 1893 as a Director, and since 1897 as treasurer, he has grown up with and helped develop the tremendous business of the Dennison Manufacturing Co., with its extensive plant at South Framingham and its offices in Boston, New York, St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia and London.

The payroll of the company at South Framingham is over $900,000 annually. As a useful citizen of Newton Mr. Dennison has won distinction.

In church work and club life he has been very active.

In every philanthropic and charitable work and every public improvement, he has for years been prominent.

At the present time, he is serving on the Central Committee having in charge the raising of $60,000 to purchase and present to the city, the Claflin estate.

For three years, he has served in the Board of Aldermen.

His character, his business success and his good fellowship have made him one of the most highly esteemed and most popular men in Newton.

The greatest problems to come before the next Legislature are those relating to transportation and other commercial interests.

Sound business judgment and not political expediency should determine the action of our Senator on these questions.

A business man of large affairs, of long experience, of sterling integrity, aggressive but not radical, Charles S. Dennison will be a Senator of whom the First Middlesex District may be proud. Let Newton pile up a big majority!

Narrow Escape

Harry Woodward, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Woodward, 23 Pearl court, while playing in the street opposite 320 Center street Sunday morning is said to have run suddenly in front of an approaching automobile. The child was knocked down and run over. He was picked up by Charles Sheridan of 79 Glen street, Watertown, who was passing, and taken into a drug store. Here a doctor attended him, and later he was taken to his home. The child sustained no broken bones. It is said the automobile was owned and driven by Loren D. Towle of 150 Hunnewell avenue.

Hospital Aid Association

The annual whist and dancing party of the Newton Hospital Catholic aid society in Bray hall, Newton Centre, last Friday evening, was attended by several hundred guests. The affair was one of the most successful of the many given by the society. The proceeds, which will amount to a substantial sum, will be used to carry on the charitable work of the organization.

From 8 to 10:30 whist was played, the winners being Louis A. Vachon, Messrs Dargin, White and Murphy, Mrs. Kevland and Misses Turner, Flanagan and Campbell. Dancing was continued until a late hour, music being furnished by an orchestra directed by J. George Kutz Jr. The floor was in charge of Martin H. Garrity, assisted by Maurice B. Coleman and Thomas M. Holden.

Refreshments were served by a committee comprising Mrs. H. M. Garrity, Miss Mollie Leary, Miss Katherine Ryan, Miss Nettie Hurley, Miss Josephine Stuart, Miss Alice Burns, Miss Julia Enegeess, Miss Nora Hurley and Miss Nellie Leary. The committee in charge of the whist comprised Miss Leona Sheehan, Miss Josephine Stuart, Bernard Early, Alderman James R. Condrin, Alderman Thomas J. Lyons, John E. Buckley, Miss Ella F. Olmstead, Miss Julia Enegeess, Mrs. T. M. Holden, Dr. Joseph Stanton, Miss Mollie Morrissey, Miss Nora Coleman and Mrs. Louis A. Vachon.

The officers of the society, by whom the general arrangements were completed, comprise Martin H. Garrity pres, Miss Josephine H. Stuart first vice pres, Maurice B. Coleman second vice pres, Miss Ella F. Olmstead sec and Mrs. Teresa G. Marshall treas.

Politics

The democratic city committee held a meeting of more than ordinary interest this week, in Mague hall, West Newton. A special committee was appointed to select a democratic candidate for mayor. It was decided to hold at least three rallies during the campaign.

The members of the Newton Club are to tender a reception to their president, Charles S. Dennison tomorrow evening. The Governor and Lieutenant Governor are to speak that evening at Cambridge and Watertown, and after those meetings will pay their respects to Mr. Dennison at the clubhouse.

The Watertown Town committee invite all interested to attend a Republican rally tomorrow evening at their town hall at which Gov. Guild, Lieut. Gov. Draper, Congressman Weeks and Hon. S. L. Powers will speak.

Messrs Charles W. Leonard and Charles F. Avery have been prevailed upon to stand for the board of aldermen in Ward 2 to succeed President Carter and Alderman Hall who retire this fall.

D. R.

Sarah Hull Chapter D. R. was entertained at the home of Mrs. Arthur C. Hill, 60 Abbott road, Wellesley Hills, on yesterday afternoon. The hostesses were Mrs. Arthur C. Hill, Mrs. Thomas M. Elwell, Mrs. George B. King, Mrs. Frank Ridlon, Mrs. Francis E. Stanley and Miss Anna M. Whiting.

After a business meeting presided over by Mrs. Albert E. Hayward, the regent, a very attractive and sensible program was enjoyed. Mrs. Carroll J. Swan sang several charming selections, Miss Anna Whiting told a ghost story and Mrs. Phelps read another. Miss Bertha Cook of Cambridge recited. Mrs. Francis E. Stanley read a paper on "The Origin of Halloween" and Mrs. Franklin E. Smith read one on "Ancient Customs of Halloween."

The house was beautifully decorated with flags and autumn leaves. Refreshments were served in the dining room from a table decked with jack lanterns and Halloween emblems.

Clubs and Lodges

A most enjoyable ladies night was held Tuesday evening at Masonic hall, Newtonville by Gettysman Commandry Knights Templar. There were about three hundred present and an entertainment given by the Mendelssohn quartet and Dr. Strong of Waltham, magician, was well received. A feature of the evening was the presentation to the Commandry by the ladies who accompanied the knights on the recent Saratoga pilgrimage, of a beautiful silk ensign. Mrs. W. F. Hadlock of Auburndale made the presentation address. Another feature was the presentation to Recorder Asa C. Jewett of a magnificent mahogany roll top desk, chair and complete fittings.

Dr. W. F. Jarvis presented the desk in a neat speech. Mrs. Hadlock was presented with chrysanthemums by Mrs. Chas. F. Ward and Eminent Commander J. Franklin Ryder was similarly honored by Mrs. Hollis E. Dennen.

Packard--Wetherbee

Miss Annie Linton Wetherbee of Newtonville was married to Mr. William H. Packard of Hartford, Ct., last Saturday evening at the Newtonville M. E. church, Rev. A. L. Squier, the pastor officiating. The bride was attired in sheer muslin made empire style with real lace and train. She wore white satin slippers, the conventional veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was escorted to the altar by her brother in law, Mr. Elmo A. Carter of Everett. Miss Alma L. Wetherbee, twin sister of the bride was the maid of honor, and wore pale yellow and white silk with deep lace sleeves over yellow, yellow slippers and gloves and carried a large bunch of Jack Roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Wood of Newtonville, Miss Emma LePlante of Springfield and Miss Pauline Corey of Wintthrop. They wore simple white dresses, and carried bouquets of pink roses in sprays. The best man was Mr. George Packard of Hartford brother of the groom and the guests were seated by Messrs Harold and Walter Moore of Newton and George Curtis of Highland Academy, Worcester. A reception followed at the bride's home, 10 Washington park immediately after the ceremony, the house being decorated with autumn leaves and flowers. The receiving party besides the bridal couple were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Packard of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mrs. J. L. Wetherbee and Miss Alma L. Wetherbee. A feature of the reception was a huge wedding cake of beautiful and elaborate design, the gift of the bride's employers. Mr. and Mrs. Packard started that night on a wedding trip to Canada and New York state, and will make their future home in Hartford.

Mrs. W. H. Blodgett

Mrs. Adelaide Nickerson Blodgett, wife of William H. Blodgett, died at the Woodland Park Hotel last Monday after a somewhat protracted illness. She was a native of Fitchburg but had made Newton her home for many years. Deceased was a prominent member of Eliot church and was president of its Woman's Association. She was also president of the Woman's Home Missionary Association, past president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, the Social Science Club and at one time was treasurer of the State federation. She is survived by her husband, one daughter Mrs. Seelye of Springfield and one son Dr. W. Ernest Blodgett of Detroit, Michigan. Funeral services were held from the chapel at Newton Cemetery, Thursday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. Dr. Wolcott Calkins and Rev. H. Grant Person officiating and there was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The floral tributes were numerous and of beautiful design.

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget Joyce, widow of John Joyce, a well known contractor for many years, took place Saturday morning. Following services at the family home, 18 Thornton street, requiem mass was celebrated at 9 at the church of Our Lady, where Mrs. Joyce has been a constant attendant many years. Mrs. Joyce was a native of Ireland, but had been a resident of this city about 45 years. She died at the age of 64 after a lingering illness and is survived by one son and four daughters.

Senator Vahey's Record

IN THE SENATE OF 1907.

Introduced the following bills:

- To cancel the lease of the Boston & Albany Railroad;
- To prevent the merger of the New York, New Haven & Hartford with the Boston & Maine Railroad;
- To prevent monopolies in coal, ice, oil, milk, and other necessities of life;
- To abolish the death penalty;
- To wipe out bucket shops and bucket shopping.

A few of his votes follow. He worked and voted for the following bills:—

- To abolish bucket shops;
- To exempt from taxation the property of Grand Army veterans to the extent of $2000 instead of $1000;
- To prevent lowering the standard of milk as required by law and recommended by the State Board of Health; he voted with the milk producers against the contractors;
- For a bill concerning new trials in civil cases where the verdict has been set aside for excessive damages, that the next trial should be on damages only;
- To regulate the lease and sale of machinery so that there could no longer be a monopoly of shoe machinery;
- For the joint use of tracks by street railway companies under the supervision of the Board of the Railroad Commissioners;
- To sustain the Governor's veto on the bill relative to the clerk's salary in the Superior Court for Suffolk County;
- To prevent street railway companies carrying freight in public streets against the wishes of the mayor and Board of Aldermen of cities and the Board of Selectmen of Towns;
- To require street railway companies to equip their cars with lifting jacks and other apparatus in case of accidents on the public highway;
- To prevent the merger of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Co. with the B. & M. R. R.;
- To grant a preference in the Civil Service to veterans of the Spanish war;
- To authorize the jury in capital cases to qualify a verdict of murder in the first degree by adding thereto the words, "without capital punishment."

(For the first time in the history of Massachusetts this bill passed the Senate and came within one vote of becoming a law.)

THE CANADIAN FUR STORE

Canadian Furs at Canadian Prices.

The high quality of Canadian Furs is well known to Americans. A custom's duty of 35 per cent prevents Americans who do not visit Canada from buying Furs there. Our American house, 167 Tremont Street, Boston, will interest American buyers of Canadian furs. Here we receive our supply of raw skins from our own Canadian houses where they are collected direct from the trappers and admitted to the United States duty free in the undressed state.

All garments for our American business are manufactured by skilled American designers and finishers, and in selling direct to the wearer we eliminate intermediate profits.

Owing to its rigorous climate Canada produces the finest furs known to commerce. Silver Fox, Hudson Bay Sable, Mink, Otter, etc., are seen at their best. In dealing direct with us you secure the advantages that flow from a large and influential business following in our own stores in four Canadian cities, and a feeling of security and reliability that is always present when dealing with a house whose reputation has been merited by a constantly increasing patronage extending over a period of forty-two years, and whose products have been awarded five gold medals in different Canadian Expositions.

In comparing prices remember that quality is of first importance. Canadian Furs average 35 to 50 per cent higher grade than those of more temperate climates, because nature produces the quality; the furriers make only the garment, and the dyer's art can make a southern mink to imitate the Canadian article. To insure reliability and value, buy Canadian Furs from Canadian furriers.

Women's Department

Edited By Miss Grace M. Burt

The Newton Graphic extends its greetings to the club women of Newton and wishes them success in all their undertakings the coming season. In this column it is the purpose of the editor to present not only what is being done in our individual clubs throughout the city but also to keep the women of Newton in touch with the larger work of the State and General Federations; and to keep the readers informed of the plans for the coming Biennial Meeting. Reports of all club work are earnestly desired for this column and it will not be fulfilling its mission until all the clubs respond. They should be sent to Miss Grace M. Burt, 94 Charlesbank road, Newton, by Wednesday of each week in order to secure publication the same week. However, anything received later will be included in the following issue. Notices of the Federation meetings will be given and all necessary information for the sending for luncheon tickets, etc.

The Fall Meeting of the Newton Federation will be held on Monday afternoon and evening, November 11, at the home of Mrs. G. F. Lowell, 525 Walnut Street, Newtonville, from 2 until 10. At this time articles remaining from the Clafin Bazaar will be offered for sale, supplemented by cake, candy and preserves, with tea during the afternoon, and a chafing dish supper served by prominent gentlemen of the city from 5 to 8 P. M. Musical programs will be given both afternoon and evening. While this sale takes the place of the regular fall meeting of the Federation, it is open to the public and the proceeds will be used for the Clafin Fund and for the Federation.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands met on October 28 when the subject of "A Twentieth Century Home" was considered under three heads, "The Ideal Home," "Foods," "The Home of the Future." Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Moulton of Walnut street, the topic being, "The Autobiography of Andrew D. White."

The first meeting of the Social Science Club will be held at the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday morning, November 6.

The opening meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will occur on November 8 at the old Unitarian church. The program will include vacation papers by members. A social hour with tea will follow.

The Waban Woman's Club will hold its opening reception at the home of Mrs. William Gifford of Crofton road, Waban, on Monday afternoon, November 4.

The Review Club of Auburndale held its third meeting of the season, in the chapel of the Congregational church on Tuesday morning. After a short business meeting, Miss Emma E. Porter, of Newton Centre, gave an interesting lecture on "Paintings in Italy, Spain, Germany and Belgium, from the time of the Sixteenth Century."

On Saturday, October 26, a large and enthusiastic party of club women went to Milton by the 9.29 train to attend the fall meeting of the State Federation. The fine autumn day brought out an usually large number filling the Town Hall to overflowing and they were well repaid in the interesting program presented.

While the women were assembling music was furnished by Miss Una J. Kelley, piano, and Mr. Bruce Reynolds, violin. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. May Alden Ward, the newly-elected president of the Federation, whom the club women are glad to welcome once more to the presidency. Greeting was extended by Mrs. Grace V. Hubbard, the president of the Milton Women's Club, the hostess of the day. Mrs. Ward responded gracefully and said that the club movement is no longer an experiment, but it is now felt as a power for good in the community. There are at present 34,000 club women in the Massachusetts Federation, which comprises 230 clubs.

The morning was given up to the consideration of the subject of "Moral and Civic Training of Children in the Schools," as presented by Miss Jane Brownlee of Toledo, Ohio. Miss Brownlee is a woman of charming personality and she was listened to with close attention, for everyone felt the value of all she said and knew instinctively that she spoke from out of wide experience. She said in part:

That the form of training which she was to speak of had been in use for eight years in the city of Toledo and for shorter periods in other parts of the West. They have shown that the child may be reached in spite of heredity. It costs nothing in money, little in time and teaches nothing of creeds. It is used from the second grade up and is adapted to the age of the child. As in many other things much depends upon the teacher to make it successful. She should not make the mistake of talking at the children too much, but bring out their ideas by judicious questioning. Five minutes each morning is given to these talks and the aim should be to arouse in the child the idea that he is spirit, but that he has a body and a mind to use for high purposes and to show that the real child is immortal. She begins with the child's body and teaches that it is one of his little servants, useful to him as long as he lives. Then she shows how they should care for their bodies, by feeding them the right food; why they should put them to bed early, and in some measure how to care for themselves when the parents fail in their duties. In this connection simple talks of hygiene are given. Then it is pointed out that there are certain things which no one else can do for them, as eating, breathing, sleeping, and in this way the self-responsibility is inculcated. The wonderful beauty of the body is emphasized and they are taught to reverence it. In the same way after the children have grasped these ideas, the mind is treated. As the body has to be fed, so does the mind; in this way the children learn why they have to go to school, they must learn as much as they can to make the mind strong. The result has been that the children work well because they know why. Gradually they learn to do right because it is right. The next step is the real child. It too, must be fed in order to be strong. In this case the food is the thoughts, therefore they must be good thoughts. You make yourself by your thinking. Love builds up and hate tears down. After these lessons time is spent on the virtues, cleanliness, kindness, obedience, courtesy, truthfulness and self-control. From the lesson of the necessity of cleanliness of body and mind she brings out the value of clean, pure thinking. Miss Brownlee made an earnest plea to the mothers for the necessity of securing obedience from the children. When the child understands, she said, the reason for obedience, it is easy to secure it, but occasionally there comes a time when it is necessary to say, "Thou shalt," "Thou shalt not," and then implicit obedience must be had. The children are taught that there can be no good, strong character that is not built on truthfulness.

Miss Brownlee outlined a system of school government, based upon the city government idea, which she has used in the upper grades with eminent success. It differs little from the "School City Idea" that is familiar to Massachusetts, but omits the police and court departments which she considers injudicious.

Her advice in closing was to stop building palaces of school houses and put more of the money into securing good teachers. The teachers are not getting the credit they should. Do everything you can to make the teacher bright and strong, that the child may have the best. The earnest teacher thinks the child the most blessed thing in the world.

The discussion that followed was opened by Mrs. May L. Sheldon, chairman of the Education committee of the Federation. She brought out the facts that the public school should give knowledge, efficiency and character and called attention to a pamphlet which outlines Miss Brownlee's ideas.

Mrs. Caroline S. Atherton, first vice-president of the Federation and former chairman of the Education committee, showed the women where to make the personal application of what had been heard. "Go home," she said, "and through the clubs create a sentiment and insist on some sort of moral training in the public schools. Dare to do the thing that ought to be done. If we create the right sentiment in the community, then it will come. Go home believing that this is one thing we can do today."

Mrs. Richard Cabot of the State Board of Education answered some of the objections to the introduction of such training and suggested the advisability of having courses of ethics introduced into the normal schools to fit the teachers for this work. Mrs. Chase, another member of the committee, showed how the training in personal morals leads out to training in social morals.

The pamphlet referred to may be obtained by sending ten cents to George W. Sheldon, Springfield, Mass. It is entitled "The Brownlee System of Child Training."

At the close of the morning session luncheon was served under direction of the hostess club in the high school building adjacent to the Town Hall.

The afternoon program included a group of songs by Miss Bertha Wesselhoeft Swift, with Miss Margaret Gorman accompanist, a talk on "Trade Training for Girls" by Miss Florence Marshall, director of the Boston Trade School for Girls, and an illustrated lecture by Dr. H. B. Frissell, on "The Hampton Idea of Industrial Training."

Miss Marshall said that from 60 to 80 girls out of every 100 are earning their own living at the present time. The kind of work open to most of them is unskilled labor where there is no opportunity to develop the mind. This comes from the fact that the public schools give no foundation for skilled industry. The aim of this new Trade School, which was established three years ago, is to give training in the fundamentals of dressmaking, millinery, machine operating, straw hat making and place the girl where she can begin life in positions paying $4 a week and over with the opportunity for advancement. The young person begins to get restless at 12 or 13 and on this account we should be apprehensive of measures that restrict child labor unless something constructive takes its place and they are given something to do that is worth while. It is a duty to see that these girls become efficient women.

Following this address came Dr. Frissell's illustrated description of Hampton Institute and its work. He prefaced his talk by a word of appreciation of the work of the women of this country. Hampton would have been utterly impossible, he said, without the help of the women. The great problem which Hampton is demonstrating is how people of different races can live together in mutual helpfulness. The lecture was full of interest, the pictures portraying more adequately than words exactly what is being done there. In closing Dr. Frissell paid high tribute to the work of Booker Washington at Tuskegee.

The 1908 Budget

Mayor Warren submitted his recommendations of the expenses for 1908 at the last meeting of the board of aldermen. The total is $61,704.75 larger than the budget for the present year and $217.95 less than the departments requested. The total recommended by the mayor amounts to $1,163,713.80. The schools as usual, call for the largest outlay, over $290,000, or some $32,000 more than the present year. This is caused principally by a pro rata increase in salaries and the cost of furnishing the new school buildings to be ready next year. The street department with $238,186, is second in size, the largest items being, Maintenance Drains, $10,500, new drains, $24,700, maintenance streets, $60,000, sidewalks, $14,000; snow and ice, $9,000, street lights, $52,500, street watering, $17,000 and moth work, $10,000. While no specific recommendation is made regarding the rate of wages to be paid the city laborers, it is evident from the increase in items from which labor is paid, that something is contemplated. This increase, however, if granted will be given solely to able bodied laborers and will not establish a minimum scale. Interest and sinking fund requirements call for $294,087.90 an increase of about $16,000 which is caused by the two new school buildings. The mayor has been generous in salary increases, the Street Commissioner, City Engineer, Public Buildings Commissioner, Sealer of Weights and Measures, Inspector of Plumbing, sanitary inspector and assistant librarians receiving small additions. The estimated receipts show a gratifying increase, from $381,700 to $409,785, the water income being largely responsible with an increase of $17,000.

The Newton league schedule for the big pin bowling tournament has just been issued. The tournament will last 14 weeks and will be participated in by the Allston Golf Club, Hunnewell Club, Mauds Club of Wellesley Hills, Newton Club, Newton Boat Club, North Gate Club and Riverdale Club of Brookline.

A can of gasoline which he had in the machine caught fire in some manner and the machine was soon in flames. The chemical company was called but the fire was put out by Mr. Leavitt and persons who went to his aid, before the firemen arrived.

—Miss Mary A. MacDonald, daughter of Mrs. Angus MacDonald, died at her home on Newtonville avenue last Friday. She was a native of Sidney, Cape Breton, but moved here several years ago and was a dressmaker by trade. She had been ill for several months. Services were held from the Church of Our Lady Monday at 9 o'clock and the burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

—A social meeting of the Entertainment club, given to the members by the officers, took place Friday evening in the Channing church parlors and was largely attended.

—The men of the First Church, Newton Centre, held a most enjoyable banquet in the church parlors last Monday evening. Mr. George S. Smith was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair and over one hundred prominent citizens of the village were present. The principal guest and speaker was Hon. John N. Cole of Andover, speaker of the House of Representatives and addresses were made by Rev. Edward M. Noyes, pastor of the church and Rev. George T. Smart D. D. of Newton Highlands. A male quartet furnished delightful music while the dinner was being served.

—Mr. Cole's address will be given in full next week.

—Interesting addresses on "The Political Phase of the Labor Question" were made at a mass meeting of the carpenters of this city, Waltham and Watertown, held under the direction of the carpenters' district council in Carpenters' hall, Nonantum building, Wednesday night.

—Speeches were made by George G. Hall, socialist candidate for auditor, Roswell C. Ross, Leonard H. Johnson and J. D. Cowper, general organizer of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, all of whom attacked capitalists and trusts and urged the workmen to become active in politics in order to secure a larger share of the benefits of their own labor. Senator James H. Vahey of Watertown made a stirring address regarding the situation in the 1st Middlesex senatorial district.

This is for You

At least it is of vital importance to you, if
you consider the purchase of a piano, player-
piano, piano player, or music for a player.
We are Eastern distributors for four leading
manufacturers, and ten different makes of
player-pianos. The only place where you can buy a new Krakauer, Sohmer-Crellan, Gibler-Crellan, or Behning Player Piano is at our warehouses. We have a number of
used pianos of nearly all leading makes at
prices below all competition. We are also Eastern distributors for the "Commodore" guaranteed player-piano. If you have never heard a "Commodore" arrangement, you do
not yet know the possibilities of the piano-
player. Call and try some records at your convenience. LYMAN & LYMAN, 115

10,000,000 Pound Testing Machine For Watertown Arsenal.

It is proposed to add to the equipment of the Testing Laboratory at Watertown Arsenal a colossal machine, capable of testing the largest sized bridge members and columns for architectural purposes, a machine far exceeding in strength any which has heretofore been constructed or undertaken, either in this country or abroad. Resolutions to this effect were recently passed at a meeting of engineers, steel makers, railroad officials and others, which was held in New York City. It was the unanimous sentiment of this representative body that a large testing machine should be constructed, capable of meeting the demands of the engineering profession as found in structures of the largest proportions which are now being executed, and a machine which should be capable of supplying data for the further extension of engineering projects on a scale grander than heretofore witnessed.

It is very gratifying to the Arsenal authorities that the consensus of opinion has favored the Arsenal as the most suitable place for the location of this great machine, and it is a matter which will do credit to New England itself to have it in successful operation within its borders. The reputation of the Watertown Testing Laboratory is already worldwide. It has during the past twenty-five years furnished reliable data upon the strength of all classes of material of construction. The tests embrace material for military purposes as well as all branches of civil engineering and architectural uses. The results of this Laboratory are quoted in the technical press, they appear in text books, and are largely incorporated in special treatises on the strength of materials. The reports of the Testing Laboratory, which are published annually, now comprise twenty-six volumes, and are valuable books for reference where comprehensive and exact information is needed on the strength of materials.

The results of the Laboratory are available to all engineering students and others through the copies which are placed in those libraries known as "Designated Depositories for Government Publications", and copies are also furnished upon application to individuals for their private use.

The construction and location of a 10,000,000-pound machine at Watertown Arsenal is the logical extension of the work which has so long been there conducted. The size of the undertaking may be judged of by considering the cost of this piece of machinery which, together with its equipment, will call for the expenditure of about one quarter of a million dollars. This is a large sum to be expended for machinery intended for destructive purposes, but when it is considered that the lives and safety of all depend upon the strength and integrity of engineering structures, the cost of apparatus for accurately determining the strength of our engineering structures represents but a small part of its real value.

The construction of this machine was not prompted by the recent unfortunate occurrence at Quebec, but that disaster gives emphasis to the need of tests of material on such a scale as witnesses in current engineering practice of the day.

The construction of this machine will mark a distinct advance in work of this class, and place New England in possession of the finest equipment in the world. Congressman Weeks has given his endorsement and assistance in this matter, and the Ordnance Department, under whose jurisdiction the arsenals are placed, is also much interested in securing this valuable piece of machinery for Watertown Arsenal.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—Zelle De Lussan, who has recently been prominent in grand opera, is to make her first appearance in Boston as a vaudeville artist. She recently made her debut in this line of work in Chicago, where she scored a positive triumph. "For Love's Sweet Sake" is the title of the dramatic sketch to be played by that great character actor, W. H. Thompson, assisted by Thomas H. Ince and company. This is one of the best playlets vaudeville has ever seen. The Novellos and the Willy Panzer Troupe will present the two big "sight" acts of the bill. The Novellos act is a miniature circus, with elephants, horses and tumblers in its make-up. Willy Panzer and his assistants do some of the most remarkable stunts in the acrobatic line that have ever been accomplished. Jesse Lasky's "Pianophonds" who made such a hit last spring will return with all new songs and piano selections, to say nothing of fresh costumes. "Pilu" is the name of a dog educated by Prof. Ancelotti. His intelligence is so great that he is known as "The mind reading dog." James and Jennie Lee, in a novel wire act; Carroll and Baker, Helrew character comedians; Weston, Walters and Weston, in a sketch; Leo St. Elmo, a versatile musician; the Parson Sisters, comedienne, and the Kinetograph, with new pictures, will all be on the list.

Tremont Theatre—These are important days in Advanced Vaudeville, especially at the Tremont Theatre. The great festival inaugurated last Monday will be followed next Monday with an entertainment of equal magnitude and equal excellence, strange as the statement appears, for it was thought that last week's attractions could not be equalled. The resources of Klaw & Erlanger seem almost limitless. For the week the bill will be headed by Vesta Victoria, the celebrated English comedienne. Others to keep her company will be Wilfred Clarke & Co., Clarke the most popular comedian in vaudeville; Maude Lambert, the favorite prima donna; Collins and Hart, the two "strong men"; W. S. Harvey & Co.; the Howard Brothers, banjoists; James F. McDonald, the Boston boy with Irish wit; Baptiste and Francoise, head-balers and others. There are daily matinees at the Tremont where these remarkable entertainments are given at popular prices. These are excellent times for ladies and children to attend and avoid the crowds of the evenings.

Boston Theatre—The Boston Theatre stock company has made another big success in the production of "The Southerner" and Manager Morrison has kept all the promises he made in announcing a presentation of this play. There are few theatres in the country that afford such opportunities for the great scenes incidental to this play as that at the famous old Boston Theatre, which has probably seen more of this class of productions than any other theatre in America. The members of the company enter into their characters in "The Southerner" in a way that realizes to the fullest extent the strong dramatic story planned by its authors and many of the leading members of the company have gained new honors in their characters in this play. Stage director Snader has shown himself to be a producer of spectacular plays equal in every way to the best known in the ranks of American stage managers for a generation, and the great stage pictures incidental to the fourth act are marvels of artistic composition.

Orpheum Theatre—The acknowledged leader of European acrobatic acts is the Nebgetti troupe, which the Orpheum management has the honor to announce as the headline feature. This aggregation of acrobats began where all other athletes stop. They are a succession of sensational and startling stunts. Irene Franklin and Bert Green will contribute another act absolutely new to New England in which the son's selections of Miss Franklin, rendered in a new and original manner promise to create a furor. Fun fast and furious accompaniments Norton and Nicholson in their act "A Dramatic Cartoon"; Bobby North, the Helrew comedian, returns with a new budget of droll stories and laughable parodies; Byron and Landon will materially add to the array of laugh provokers with their hilariously funny creation "The Dude Detective"; Edwin Keough and a big supporting company will appeal to the lovers of the drama with an act that contains plenty of comedy relief in the Irish playlet "A Bit O'Blarney." Among the other artists may be mentioned Martelli, the wire walker, Patsy Doyle, Ryan and White, not to say anything about the new motion pictures by the kinetograph.

In equipment, as well as in courses of instruction, the standard at Burdett College of Business and Shorthand, 18 Boylston street, Boston, is "the best only." Last week, two elegant mahogany desks were added to the super appointments of the executive department. One is not surprised at the phenomenal growth of Burdett College because an institution in which such a progressive spirit is manifested must necessarily attract to itself students who are ambitious to be trained along modern lines and in the most helpful environment.

Hunnewell Club

An enjoyable Neighborhood night was passed Tuesday evening with Mr. W. F. Dodge, violinist furnishing the entertainment. The election returns were received by special wire.

Mrs. Conant Killed

While riding in an automobile last Sunday with her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Barnes of Carleton street, Mrs. Herbert E. Conant of Maple street was suddenly killed, when the machine collided with a telegraph pole. The accident occurred about noon. Mr. Barnes was driving and Mr. and Mrs. Conant were on the front seat of a Stanley runabout. Mr. Barnes attempted to pass another car going in the same direction and had plenty of room at first, but was crowded off the roadway when the automobile ahead swerved to avoid a mud puddle in the road. He was unable to return to the road before coming in contact with the pole. All the occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Conant, striking the pole with her head causing instant death. Mr. Barnes received two cracked

Canadian Furs at Canadian Prices.

The high quality of Canadian Furs is well known to Americans. A custom's duty of 35 per cent prevents Americans who do not visit Canada from buying Furs there. Our American house, 167 Tremont Street, Boston, will interest American buyers of Canadian furs. Here we receive our supply of raw skins from our own Canadian houses where they are collected direct from the trappers and admitted to the United States duty free in the undressed state.

All garments for our American business are manufactured by skilled American designers and finishers, and in selling direct to the wearer we eliminate intermediate profits.

Owing to its rigorous climate Canada produces the finest furs known to commerce. Silver Fox, Hudson Bay Sable, Mink, Otter, etc., are seen at their best. In dealing direct with us you secure the advantages that flow from a large and influential business following in our own stores in four Canadian cities, and a feeling of security and reliability that is always present when dealing with a house whose reputation has been made by a constantly increasing patronage extending over a period of forty-two years, and whose products have been awarded five gold medals in different Canadian Expositions.

In comparing prices remember that quality is of first importance. Canadian Furs average 35 to 50 per cent higher grade than those of more temperate climates, because nature produces the quality; the furriers make only the garment, and the dyer's art can make a southern mink to imitate the Canadian article. To insure reliability and value, buy Canadian Furs from Canadian furriers.

Black Lynx Throws and Muffs from $22.50
Mink $28.50
Ladies' Fur Lined Coats $63.00
Men's $75.00

Catalog mailed post free. When writing for prices please mention kind of fur garments you are interested in.

Women's Department

Results of the Federation Bazar.

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs announces that the total proceeds of the Bazaar held at the Clafin Estate in May amounted to $285.55. Of this $1531 has already been paid over to the committee on the Clafin Fund. The final division of proceeds will not be made until after the supplementary sale to be held at the home of Mrs. G. F. Lowell, 525 Walnut street, Newtonville, on Monday, November 11, notice of which is given elsewhere. The Executive Board voted that the amount realized from the auction sale of the "Mirrors" on Governor's Night, $531, should be given in part to the committee and that the remaining proceeds be divided equally between the Federation and the Clafin Fund in accordance with the original vote. The Federation feels that real results of the Bazaar cannot be measured in dollars and cents, that the gain from unifying the various villages in a common object, the attention that has been drawn to the possibilities of this estate as a gathering place for all the Newtons and the great social success of the affair have far exceeded all anticipations.

SPEAKER COLE

Address at Newton

Some Modern Tendencies of Legislation

Mr. Cole spoke substantially as follows:

Probably there has never been a time in the history of our country when positive tendencies of different classes toward different forms of government from what exist to day, were so noticeable as at the present time, and it has seemed to me that it might be profitable for us for a few minutes tonight to discuss briefly the significance of some of these tendencies.

No man can be a part of a state or national legislative body these days—and I might almost say, nor could a man be a part of any body dealing with government—without becoming impressed by the rapidly growing tendency toward a shifting of responsibility; and this is particularly true of that responsibility which involves a stand against any movement that takes issue with the popular clamor. You probably do not need to go outside the bounds of your own city to realize the truth of this statement. Certainly, it is noticeable in every city with which I am at all acquainted and most emphatically is it noticeable in the legislative body with which I have a larger acquaintance. Votes are taken almost daily that fail utterly to represent the honest sentiments of the men who are voting.

Take, for example, the recent votes upon the Sunday law, the recent votes upon liquor legislation, the votes of every session affecting moral questions. They are frequently votes which, instead of representing the honest conviction of the individual chosen to speak his own personal convictions, represent a pandering to whatever the popular demand may be in the constituency upon which he is dependent for his office. While it may be claimed that each representative is primarily to represent his own particular constituency, and thus is justified in yielding to the peculiar and particular demands of that constituency, we may well question whether the most efficient action for the good of all is to come out of the narrow view.

We may certainly see in this condition of our legislative bodies today justification for the charge I made at the outset, that men are shirking responsibilities attaching to their official positions as never before. I sometimes doubt if it would be possible in this country today to find men enough to sign the Declaration of Independence of their own colition, without one or more of them insisting that it should go back to the people for referendum, or be passed upon by some industrial league or social science club.

It seems that it is altogether too easy for many of our students of government to get the evolution of the state wrong end to. From many sides we are being called upon to legislate on the theory that the source of all state power is the commonwealth, and, broadening out this theory, the source of all national power is the national government. But in adopting this theory, we are entirely forgetting that the state and the nation are the creatures of citizens.

Our early settlers began here in a co-operative way. Each man took his share of the burdens and profits; each man was supposed to contribute of his money and labor to the common good of all. The government came after the individuals, it was their government. As their numbers increased, it became necessary that there should be chosen heads to lead and rule. Further increases in numbers added to the authority of the heads, and made the government more complex. First the town, then the state, and then the nation; but always, in every case, whether town or state or nation, the foundation was the people.

The complexities of government early began to disturb those in authority. One movement after another has involved the state into the danger of becoming a great father of all the people in the state. Commissions to represent the state in directing the affairs that affected different classes throughout the entire Commonwealth began to be established early in the nineteenth century, and from then until now they have followed one after another, until today Massachusetts is stretching forth a fatherly hand over nearly all of the activities of the state.

Webster has defined paternalism of the state as "the assumption by the governing power of a quasi-fatherly relation to the people, including strict and intimate supervision of their business and social concerns; upon the theory that they are incapable of managing their own affairs". While it is a fact that we are today, in a way, a paternal government, we may well pause for a moment at this time and question as to which road it is wise for us to travel in the future. Shall it be through a complete abandonment of the representative form of government?

Shall it be by the road that makes particular commissions, so wisely established and so long of great value in the administration of our semipublic affairs, commissions to control and direct?

Shall it be to enlarge their powers to advise and instruct, interpret and arbitrate, with the actual lawmaking still left to our government, and the actual law-enforcing still left to the people themselves?

The trend is undeniably in the first-named path. May I most emphatically express my wish that it should turn into the latter course!

Let us consider for a moment the conditions in our own Commonwealth in their bearing upon these queries. It seems to me that it is a mistaken idea that Massachusetts is a government of commissions. Many commissions we certainly have, and it is possible that some of them exercise altogether too arbitrary powers; but the work that some others have done may well lead us to take large satisfaction over the system, and to urge that now is a good time to extend its workings for the best interests of our government.

It has been interesting to me to study what has been accomplished by some of the commissions of the Commonwealth. When we are urged to pass certain laws tending to a larger control of local affairs by the state, tending to a more fatherly interest in the individuals of the state by a central government, it is quite the custom of interested parties to charge that the state is already committed to controlling city, town and personal affairs through its boards, such as the Board of Education, Railroad Commissioners etc. Is this true?

Take the Board of Education, established in 1837, for an illustration of the State's policy. While its powers have changed at different times since that year, it has always pursued its mission as a board to recommend, advise and consult, rather than to control. It was one of the first commissions established in the Commonwealth. The policy that was inaugurated with it has been carried out in the establishment of almost every other one of the fifty or so commissions. The State might wisely and profitably draw the lines closer in control of its own particular business, but that is another subject; but it has never attempted to supersede the powers of communities to govern, by the work of any of its commissions, and it never should do so.

There are every year before the Legislature many measures to change our government into a more and more paternal government. Faddists and theorists with abundant means and an even larger abundance of leisure are pushing their pet schemes for constant attention. Not all are bad, many are wise, and would be beneficial; but we may well pause before we approve the introduction of any further ideas into our system that add to the fatherly features of our state government. We are dangerously near to the line where individual rights will suffer by a further extension of this system.

Glorious work has been done through the great and successful movement in this Commonwealth for the care of children, improved labor laws, education and charity. The work is not ended, but it must continue only in the lines already so wisely followed. Let the State foster and encourage, study and suggest, but never control, where by precedent and long practice the rights of any lesser constituency are to suffer.

The people are the source; let us keep every possible work of our government close to them, under the system that for a century and a half has so wisely and beneficially governed us.

The second tendency that we may all profitably study is that which would lead us to absolutely destroy our present form of lawmaking and substitute for it, legislation directly by the vote of the people.

This proposition is now up for discussion in our State in the form of a so-called "public opinion" bill. Its provisions would give to a thousand voters the right to have placed upon the state ballot any questions of public policy for a "yes" or "no" by all the people.

Two distinguished citizens of our state have recently debated this question before a gathering of labor men, to whom this question has seemed to appeal with peculiar force. But the question has an importance far greater than such importance as would restrict it to the consideration of any particular body of men within the Commonwealth. It is of such importance as should attract the attention of every citizen and command the investigation of every thoughtful person. It is a fascinating proposition to set forth as it falls from the lips of the professional orator or is thundered by the tongue of the professional demagogue. From either source it commands attention this idea and this thought that such a law would put back into the hands of the people their power to control.

The more I study the proposition, the more I am convinced that the directly opposite result would follow in the path of such legislation as this.

Let us recall the trend of government from the beginning until the present time. The three great fundamentals in our government have been the law-making body, the judicial body and the executive. No one of these could ever have been of sufficient power to succeed of itself.

Take away from the representatives of the people their power, and the independence and efficiency of the courts would soon be destroyed, leaving as the one great authority and final resort in all cases, the executive department. History makes record of nothing but failures in forms of government where the representatives of the people have been deposed from power.

The framers of our constitution recognized the efficiency of these three factors as providing the proper checks and balances which would secure the fullest rights of all the people. They recognized at that time more than a century ago the danger that would come from hasty and ill-considered legislation. They dreaded the centralizing power vested in one executive, and they dreaded equally the force and oppression that might come from a carrying out under all conditions the power of an unrestrained majority.

It is very well to talk of the force that there is at the present time in public discussions as may be carried on in public meetings and newspaper columns. I believe that I possess some knowledge of the operation of these two factors in the spread of information upon public questions, but no man can recall the publicity attending all great discussions of fifty and a hundred years ago, and before that time, without becoming convinced that with all of our boasted knowledge, each man of his neighbor, and each and all of the entire world, there is still little deliberative consideration given to the great questions of the day.

Talk of the influence of the newspaper good or bad upon the adjustment of public questions! There has never been a time in the history of our country when the effort has not been made to substitute the proper forms of government the improper forms of one sort or another of influence.

Today, one of the most dangerous forces attempting to control legislation is the irresponsible and oftentimes selfish newspaper, and the irresponsible and often times selfish organization founded in a desire to promote certain legislation and maintained to elect or defeat members of the General Court who oppose such legislation. Today there is held over the heads of scores of members of the General Court threats of dire disaster if they do or do not approve certain measures. The whole principle upon which they exist as legislators is being overthrown by this sort of coercion.

Undoubtedly the duty of the present day legislator is greater than that of any of his predecessors and I believe that he recognizes it as such. But the responsibility for his actions is his. He needs counsel, he needs advice, he needs co-operation from his neighbors, from his friends, from his constituents, from all sources where light can be shed upon the matter under consideration or where information can be gained that will help in framing his judgment, but he needs such help in the spirit of finally giving to him the right of judgment and not in the spirit of utter condemnation if his judgment differs from that of his advisers.

We must not forget that the right of rule was originally established throughout the greater part of our great land in the hands of the favored, yet that greatest leader of the early century in American development, never spoke a nobler truth than when he deplored the exercise of influence on the part of high places to control legislation and government.

In our very state a hundred and twenty years ago when disturbances in Massachusetts were of the most serious concern to the government at Washington, a distinguished ambassador sent here by the first citizen of the United States reported to President Washington that he thought it was possible to enlist some sort of influence that would adjust the difficulties in Massachusetts, and Washington, in words that will stand for all time, replied:

"You talk my good sir, of employing influence to appease the present tumults in Massachusetts, I know not where that influence is to be found; nor if attainable, that it would be a proper remedy for these disorders. Influence is not government."

We may well add to those words "Neither is influence legislation."

I said that the right to govern in the early days was established by custom among the favored classes. When Lincoln, the great commoner, reorganized conditions in that second vital period, the right to govern was taken from the favored classes and established in the common people. Whatever may be the comment and however men may rail at the present time, I believe the right to govern never was more securely in the hands of the common people than it is today. If it shall be the purpose of these people to destroy the principle of representative government so long established in this state and nation and substitute for it some other form untried and believed by many to be unworkable, I still have faith through this source of all power to govern, that the future of the state and nation will still be secure.

But to make this change carries an indictment not alone against those men who are representatives, it carries an indictment against all the people themselves. If there are men holding responsible positions as representatives of constituencies in Massachusetts not properly fitted for such places, the fault is that of the particular constituencies thus represented. The stream will never rise higher than its source. Massachusetts representatives will never rise above the people who choose them, in character, in conservation, or in genuine worth, but they will rise, and do rise, and today are established, I believe, on that level, and full of appreciation of the tremendous responsibilities that are upon them.

These are times when men are filled with fear and trembling, and lighting their lanterns go in search for the quest men. It has seemed to me that as individual responsibility in our government decreases, graft and dishonesty must necessarily increase. And so we may well question whether the trend toward a centralized paternal government is not largely responsible for the increase in dishonesty by public officials. The individual watchfulness on every hand in our early history kept the men straight. They were at all times responsible to their peers. That responsibility can only be continued as we keep our government close to the people, and restrain it in its drift toward a monarchy in the republic. The great upheaval of the public conscience is good, but let us not overlook that if it is a "public conscience" it is even more an individual conscience.

The conscience aroused, the next demand is for an arousalment to doing the duty that is ahead and made clear. Too many of our teachings of today insist that such duty is all on one side. Too much of the lurid glare is cast upon only one side of the picture. Let us be careful that in our demands for justice for the one side we do not swing justice far the other way and do injustice to the other side. Let us keep the Commonwealth close to her ancient moorings, and let us not be moved by every popular clamor that would breathe distrust and disaster. The world is still full of honest men, and here in this little corner of it from whence so much that is grand and inspiring has gone out to lighten the great world's lot of high character and lofty purpose, honesty is still in control. Massachusetts has ever had representatives she could trust. She will ever have such leaders as long as she tests them by the standards established in the Commonwealth for nearly three centuries.

New Rector

Rev. Albert N. Slayton, recently rector at Sandusky, O., began his pastorate in St. Paul's (Episcopal) church, Newton Highlands last Sunday and was greeted by large congregations both morning and evening.

He succeeds Rev. Clifford G. Twombly, who resigned the rectorship of the church last spring after a successful service extending over several years. Rev. Mr. Slayton several months ago resigned his rectorship in Sandusky for a special course of study at the Cambridge Episcopal theological school. Last month he accepted a call to the rectorship of St. Paul's.

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrian Desoe observed their 50th wedding anniversary at their home, Grove street, Newton Lower Falls last Tuesday evening. Owing to the recent serious illness of Mrs. Desoe the celebration was not carried out on an elaborate plan. The couple received numerous congratulations of relatives and intimate friends, however, and the event proved one of unusual enjoyment. Mr. Desoe is well known as the oldest engineer in point of service on the Boston & Albany railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Desoe have one son and one daughter, Arthur J. Desoe of Framingham and Mrs. F. A. Tripp of West Springfield.

Postmaster Dies Suddenly

Mr. George H. Morgan, postmaster at Newton Centre, died suddenly on the train from Boston late Tuesday evening. Mr. Morgan had been to Boston that evening and after the train had passed Brookline the passengers noticed a change caused by a sudden collapse. He was made as comfortable as possible but expired almost immediately. Death was attributed to heart disease.

George Henry Morgan was born in West Dedham, Mass., May 14, 1850, the son of John and Caroline (Dean) Morgan. He was educated in the public schools of Dedham and at Locke's Academy. He then was employed for six years on the Boston & Albany Railroad.

This experience was followed by eleven years as a reporter for the Boston Herald in the Newton district, until his appointment as postmaster at Newton by President Cleveland in 1884. This position he held by successive reappointments until the consolidation of all the offices of the city in 1897 under the Newton Centre office, when he became the superintendent of the Newton office, of which he had been the former postmaster. This superintendency was held by Mr. Morgan until 1901, when he was appointed the postmaster at Newton Centre with the postal district of nearly the whole city under his charge.

Mr. Morgan was a member of Nonantum Colony of Pilgrim Fathers, of Newton Lodge of Odd Fellows, of the Massachusetts Society of Sons of the American Revolution, and of the Channing Unitarian Club.

Mr. Morgan married Miss S. Annie Cartwright, and they have three children, Mrs. Edwin Reynolds, Elizabeth C. and Miriam Morgan.

A brother, Mr. John D. Morgan of Newton, and two sisters, Mrs. John M. Fiske and Mrs. John C. Hastings of Cambridge, also survive.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Unitarian church, Newton Centre, of which he was an attendant.

Postoffice affairs will be managed by Assistant Postmaster Guilford acting for Mr. Morgan's bondsmen until other arrangements can be made.

FOREWORD

Newton, the most charming suburb of Boston, lies some seven to ten miles from the gilded dome of the State House with railroad and electric facilities at most reasonable rates.

It contains some twelve distinct villages, each differing from the other in individual points of advantage and yet all forming a most beautiful whole.

Of all the suburbs of Boston, it offers to the business man a splendid site for a home, unexcelled opportunities for the education of his children, association with an intelligent and cultivated people, combined with a proximity to the metropolis whereby its pleasures can be enjoyed without experiencing any of its discomforts.

Newton's schools are noted throughout the state; its roads are the envy of other cities; its water and sewerage systems are exceptionally good and its city government sets the highest standard of the entire country.

This last fact deserves more than passing attention. While tales of graft and political corruption are rising on every hand, while political parties strive violently for control of the "City Hall," the municipal wheels of Newton turn evenly and honestly, without a hint or suspicion of wrong-doing. Experiments in municipal administration—the "Newport"—the "Galveston"—the "Des Moines"—ideas are not necessary here, as honest and capable gentlemen serve in its municipal directorate and honest and capable officers execute their decrees. Every penny raised by taxation in Newton is honestly and wisely expended for the benefit of all the tax-payers. Other cities may well emulate the example of Newton and demand and receive the services of its best citizens in its municipal government.

Hill, a portion of Waban, the south side of Newton Highlands and Thompsonville. Constant progress is being made towards the unsewered districts each year and within a few years, every portion of the city will be supplied with sewers. The assessment for the sewer is at the rate of fifteen cents per running front foot and five and a half mills for each square foot back to 180 feet from the sewer. This charge when once paid exempts the land from further assessment for sewer purposes.

WATER.

One of the interesting and at the same time, valuable features of the city water is the fact that it never sees daylight from the time it leaves the soil until it flows out the faucet. The supply is from numerous driven wells in the many acres of land in Needham owned by the city. The water in the wells flows by gravity into a collecting gallery, underground, and is pumped directly into the street mains. What remains after the needs of the city have been supplied finds its way into the large covered reservoir on Waban hill, with a capacity of nearly five million gallons. This water furnishes the supply for use during the night and when the pumps are not working.

Analysis of the water is made bi-monthly by the State Board of Health and a high rank is given Newton by that body. The water is low in both free and albuminoid ammonia, chlorine and iron, and is almost colorless as a general thing. While the water is fairly hard, detracting slightly from its value for laundry purposes, it is most excellent for drinking and domestic use.

Nearly 150 miles of water main are department is in charge of an efficient master and a corps of special teachers.

At the present time over two hundred and fifty pupils are enrolled in this department, and the practical results are entirely satisfactory. Without exception the graduates from the commercial course have been immediately successful, and have found positions of responsibility with leading banks, insurance companies and railroads. Several have received appointments to the State and Federal Civil Service in competition with older and more experienced candidates.

The Newton high school is becoming as well-known for its work in supplying well-trained young men and women for positions where trustworthiness, good judgment and technical business training are required as for its high standing as a college preparatory school.

The policy of the city to erect only substantial school buildings has produced some fine examples of school architecture. The High School, shown in another column cost over $200,000 and will house a thousand pupils. A Technical High School building to supplement the classical and general courses is now being planned at an estimated cost of over a quarter of a million of dollars. When completed, the youth of Newton will have the widest opportunity for education in technical as well as classical lines of any municipality in the country.

Claflin Field

The most important and interesting real estate transaction in the City of Newton during the last year has been the taking of steps to acquire the former Governor Claflin Estate on Walnut street and Elm road for the use of their city. In fact it is one of the most significant things that has happened in Newton for many years both because of the amount involved and as an example of civic pride and generosity.

A number of public spirited gentlemen conceived the idea that this piece of ground should be secured for the use of the public forever and realized that if it was not done now, the opportunity would be lost. The whole estate contains about twenty-three acres, probably the largest block of land in one holding near any of the centres in the city. In addition, it is of unsurpassed natural beauty and its fine old elms, from which the estate takes its name, are a treasure in themselves. The land rises from the surrounding streets towards an elevation in the centre upon which the mansion house now stands, and which it is expected some day in the future will be crowned by a noble building belonging to and for the use of the whole people.

For convenience in handling, the estate, has been divided into three sections. The first, on the corner of Lowell avenue and Elm road, containing about 280,000 square feet, has already been purchased for the sum of $20,000 and deeded as a free gift to the City of Newton, to be used as an athletic ground for the Newton High School. It is admirably suited to this use, being level and of the proper dimensions. The city accepted the gift and is now at work preparing the ground for football, baseball and other sports.

The second section, so called, extends from the first to Walnut street, taking in the site of the mansion house and all the Walnut street frontage belonging to the Residence of Mr. O. M. FISHER.

STREETS.

The city of Newton with its "sand papered streets" is the Mecca for users of automobiles, as well as for lovers of horse flesh. The city government has long been convinced that good streets were the best methods of attracting the notice of the home seeker. The smooth rolling carriage or the sight of the well groomed roadway gives the most favorable impressions to the passer-by. Newton has something over 200 miles of streets of which 139 miles are directly in charge of the city. There are nearly eighty miles of macadam roadbed and nine miles of telford, and about ninety miles of concrete sidewalks and crosswalks. The snow plow system has been perfected so that it is the exceptional storm which prevents the breaking out of the sidewalks in time for the morning trains.

Commonwealth avenue, a continuation of the same avenue in Boston, traverses the city from east to west with a boulevard construction of two roadways and a reserved centre space for an electric railway. The avenue winds in graceful curves thru a most delightful section of the city and in time will be one of the noted drives of the metropolitan district. On the north side of the city Washington street forms a wide and convenient thoroughfare for business and Boylston street on the south side, while at present undeveloped affords a splendid field for future growth.

SEWERS.

Newton is a part of the South Metropolitan system and has about three miles of the main sewer of that district within its limits. Its own sewerage system of something over one hundred miles of main pipe and laterals covers almost the whole city, with the exceptions of Oak now in use and it is the policy of the city to encourage building with prompt extensions of the water systems.

SCHOOLS.

The school department is in charge of a committee of fifteen with the actual management vested in a capable superintendent and 248 teachers are necessary to teach the 7,000 pupils who throng the 24 school buildings.

For many years the schools of Newton have ranked among the best in the Commonwealth, and the records of its graduates in the higher institutions of learning indicate that the standard has not been lowered. The certificate of the Newton High School admits the holder to every college where the certificate system is in force. In the colleges where entrance examinations are compulsory, Newton graduates have always stood well up in the list. During the past five years, fourteen of its graduates have been awarded scholarships at Harvard, and in the class of 1907 of that university, four Newton young men were entitled to degrees with distinction and to commencement parts. Another Newton graduate has been awarded two whole and two half scholarships at the Institute of Technology in two years. Moreover, the officials at Harvard and at the Institute of Technology often recommend the Newton High school as one of the best places in which to fit for their respective institutions.

In order to meet the needs of pupils who are not contemplating college courses, a commercial course has been added to the High School curriculum. This course, which includes four years' study in English, history, science and modern languages, is supplemented by thorough instruction in business correspondence and the principles of business law. Claflin Estate. It contains about 380,000 square feet.

The third section lies back of the houses occupied by Mrs. Clapp, Mr. Bishop and Mr. Lyons on Walnut street, running along Hull street nearly to Lowell avenue.

One of the principal motives of those interested in this project was to make the high school the beginning of a great educational group. This naturally suggested itself from the location of the high school on the other side of Elm road. No other institution in Newton touches all parts of the city as does this school, which is the crown of the city's educational system, and the only school in which the children from all parts of the city are brought together. Therefore, it is appropriate that about it should be gathered other educational institutions in which the whole city, as well as the high school pupils, has an interest.

The first building to go upon the Claflin estate will be a technical high school, which will probably be located on the Elm road side near the present high school. This will be a handsome structure, a worthy companion to the high school building itself, and striking the key note for all that are to follow. Its exact location will not be determined until the studies now being made by landscape architects have been finished.

This latter fact is indicative of the care and broad minded treatment which is to be given to this new civic centre. The city government and those interested in raising the money for the purchase feel that nothing should be done in the way of development or building until the whole scheme from a landscape standpoint is worked out, so that every road and path and building shall be in its proper place and contribute to the ultimate beautification of the park. great natural advantages and such a treatment, this civic centre promises to be unique and attractive beyond that of any other in this vicinity.

About $50,000 in all has been subscribed for the purchase of this property and there is an urgent, immediate call for about $7,000 more, to enable the committee to turn over to the city all the land lying between the new playground and Walnut street, taking in the entire frontage on the latter from Elm road to the first house, that now occupied by Mr. Lyons.

Space will not permit of naming the many people who have labored in this good cause but the subscription committee consists of Messrs. Frank A. Day, Chas. S. Dennison, Robert S. Gorham, Frank J. Hale, Charles E. Kelsey and James A. Lowell. The late E. B. Haskell, at the time of his death, was one of this committee. Reference should be made to the great Bazaar of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, in the old mansion, which reflected much credit on the ladies in charge and added substantially to the Claffin purchase fund, one-half of the proceeds being devoted to this purpose.

This whole enterprise is indicative of not only the public spirit of the citizens of Newton, but also of the disappearance of the village feeling, a consciousness of the unity of the city taking its place. The results of such united action as this will be far reaching and of great benefit beyond that arising from the thing itself.

Farlow Hill

The beautiful forty acre estate of the late John S. Farlow, was bought a few years ago by a syndicate, represented by Henry E. Bothfeld, Frank A. Day and G. Fred Simpson, Trustees, and it has been laid out into streets and house lots in accordance with plans of Aspinwall and Lincoln.

Well built public roads, with sewers, water, gas and electric light; a great variety of shade and ornamental trees, many of which are rarely found in New England; commanding sites, possessing unsurpassed outlooks; and long term restrictions as to cost, use and location of houses, are features of this easily accessible and unsurpassed development, which constitutes Newton's choicest residential section.

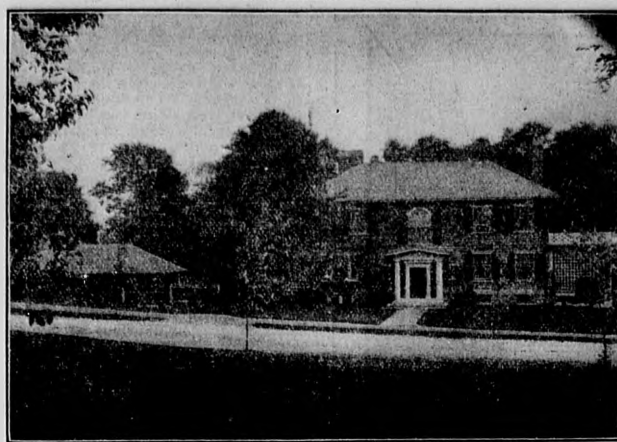

Some of the most costly residences in the city are located here, but there are portions of the Hill where attractive houses costing not less than $4000. may be built.

Plans and particulars may be had of Henry E. Bothfeld, Trustee, 101 Tremont St., Boston.

The Real Estate conditions in Newtonville today are peculiar and very unsatisfactory. Owing to the high cost of building material and labor little build-churches, a liberal city government, good (?) car service to Boston and covered by a net-work of street railways which radiate in every direction, our city does not suffer by comparison with other suburban municipalities. We have the location, we have the attractions, we have the land, we have the people—right here among us, and still others who are knocking at our doors. We want the buildings. Who shall erect them.

Owing to the very rapid increase in value of everything during the past few years, Realty stands practically without a basis and today few men are ready to say what the condition will be 5 years hence. Building material has gone up, only in proportion with all other materials and from the same causes. Building labor has gone up with all other labor, caused by good times. The laboring man when he is well paid becomes independent and the more he gets, the more he wants—how alike men are. Compare the laboring man with our financial kings. Let hard times come, and labor will take what it can get, material will go down because there are many, many possessors of material who must sell regardless of loss and one loss brings on another, and crash after crash, till everything is on a safe basis. Land is worth less today than it was twelve years ago. When everything else is going up, land is going down and vice versa, (mind you, exceptions to all rules).

Some years ago, land sold in Mass. around Boston at very high prices. It was about the time of the panic of 1893 when the conservative New Englander had money tucked away, which he had been accumulating since the previous panic of 1873 and had been all that time deciding to invest it in mortgages. Building material and labor were so cheap, that the speculators saw where they could build houses and get mortgages for more than the entire cost of land and buildings and therefore land went up with the tremendous demand created by speculators. Then came the reaction, the tremendous demand for labor and material started both going up and they have been going up ever since. That in turn caused land to drop in value, for no one wanted to hold vacant land and no one could build on a profit on account of the prices of material and labor.

The lull in the building industry has at last naturally created a tremendous demand for houses and tenements. Rents have nearly doubled in the last five years and they will go higher. Land will not increase in value for a long while, but all ready built houses will increase in value until they are on a basis of what it costs to duplicate them today. The man who owns vacant land which is eating itself up day after day, had better build and in this way he can make his lands bring him returns.

Now is the time to buy a home or build a home—but don't buy vacant land until you are ready to stick a spade in it. I had occasion recently to appraise a piece of land at $1000, and the owner told me with tears in his eyes that he had refused $1000, thirty years ago. Just think, that means a loss of $3000. in taxes and interest. Remember that there are thousands and thousands of acres of beautiful building land within thirty minutes ride and a ten cent car fare of Boston.

E. Arthur Robinson.

The Real Estate situation in Newton is generally encouraging, in that the volume of business during past season has exceeded the average.

While increased cost of construction has prevented all speculative building, it has induced purchase of many old houses at figures permitting renovation and improvement.

Owners of land for which there is no present demand have built some very attractive houses, which have found ready tenants for all the luxuries at minimum rent, several terraces or so called semi-detached houses have been built in different parts of the City, and at present such construction and two family houses are the only types offering sufficient returns to tempt timid capital.

Some very desirable land is being forced on the market by owners unwilling or unable to carry the heavy burden of taxation, and interest, but generally prices are well maintained. If Newton capital could be actively interested in the liberal encouragement of rational development of Newton Real Estate, the direct result would be reduction of tax rate and consequent attraction of men of wealth to build or acquire homes in Newton and thus further reduce tax rate.

Wiley S., and Frank Edmands.

Mrs. Wm H. Rand

The demand for real estate in Newton has been brisk during the year; the supply of up to date houses very meagre.

There is an abundant supply of old estates which may be had at a price which would warrant modernizing, but a very large majority of home seekers ignore them, not realizing that in many instances they would possess at less cost after modernizing it a house much superior to the average new house. I have in mind several houses in good state of preservation, beautifully situated with spacious grounds to which this might be applied. Few people realize that the modern house is not nearly as well built as that of thirty years ago. We have many of these grand old places which are going begging.

Newton with its many advantages is without doubt the most desirable residential suburb of Boston and we should see to it that it is kept so by erecting such structures as will allure a good class of citizens.

The fewer houses with more than two apartments the better for the future of Newton. The demand for single houses or apartments (with yard room for children) at from $15 to $20 per month far exceeds the supply.

With the vast amount of land on the market at a reasonable price, accessible to schools and railroads, it would seem that parties looking for investment would not only be public benefactors but get a fair return by building two family houses with from six to eight rooms with separate yard for each rent not to exceed twenty dollars.

Many young men wish to and would buy a home if an up to date house could be secured at from $3500 to $4000 by making a small payment down and small semi-annual payments at a fair rate of interest.

Philanthropic men, think of this matter, encourage the young man: at the same time insure the future of our beautiful city.

Mrs. Wm. H. Rand.

The real estate situation today is both good and bad, never was there a time when so few houses are offered for rent while houses for sale are not to be found so plenty as formerly and especially foreclosure sales and sacrifice prices are growing less in fact the whole situation has cleared considerably and this fall has found a steady call for houses to rent, and many have been turned away and driven back to town and apartment houses. On the other hand the expected sale of houses this fall has been disappointing. The financial situation may be the cause of a part of this but we find the change of living of late inclines people to rent rather than buy, many having country or shore places which they flee to early in spring. The auto also is responsible for a part. People can live out 10 to 20 miles back and yet reach town by auto in quicker time than from the Newtons, and country life seems to be much in favor now. Still there are many desirable young people knocking at our door to come in, but find it impossible to find homes. The investor cannot find it profitable to build single houses and much as we dislike it, there seems to be but one way to supply these wants and that by building attractive blocks or apartments relying on our landscape architect to help out the house architect and furnish an attractive as well as an inexpensive home with artistic surroundings. The financial situation and recent disclosures in high finance, must incline people to consider real estate as the only sound investment, and it would seem that the future looks brighter than for some years.

Henry H. Read.

C. W. Keeffe

The time has come when there is a demand for more houses in Newton the same as in other cities. Men who are interested in building say, there is just as much money in building houses now as when labor and lumber were lower, you can make it up on the high rent. The owner of a house raised the tenant a year ago from $25 to $30 a month, the tenant said he would move rather than pay the advance, he has been looking for a house ever since and has not got one yet. These are the conditions that exist in Newton. They are building very fast in other cities and there is no reason why we can not do the same in Newton, which is one of the cleanest cities in

The volume of inquiries for purchase has been rather more than usual, which is a good augury for the future but the actual purchasers this fall have not been as many as we could desire. Financial and stock market conditions have had their influence and would-be buyers are exacting and critical, nevertheless, there was never offered a better line of bargains in houses where, perhaps, the new may have been taken off but with the expenditure of a few dollars will make bright, attractive and modern houses and most of them obtainable at prices far below the cost of present building.

Land is slow and shows little increase in value as determined by demand.

It is a source of satisfaction to note the almost uniformly high character of the home-seekers, no undesirable foreign element, few cheap and vulgar people but the kind with whom we are glad to share the unrivalled advantages of our municipality.

In general the real estate market is in a healthy condition, almost no empty houses, plenty of land to sell at low prices and a crowd of home-seekers at our gates. The future has much of promise in it. One cloud dims the horizon, the smoke from the B. & A., in a vain endeavor to catch up with its schedule. May a few years more bring us electric suburban service. One of the greatest obstacles to this has been removed in the elimination of all grade crossings on the South Side. Cleaner and quicker transportation between here and Boston will make a great difference in the value of sell.

The effect on Newtonville will be very beneficial from a real estate standpoint, for this large area, surrounded by a territory now developing in a good fashion, is the key to the future real estate situation in that part of the city. Had it been cut up into small lots, with cheap houses, its influence would have been decidedly detrimental to the whole village. If, on the other hand, it is made into a thing of beauty, and eventually becomes the centre of the city's educational activity, it will have a powerful influence upon the whole district.

A barred Plymouth rock hen, the property of Roy S. Mann of Sterling, laid an egg 4 1/4 inches in length and 2 1/4 inches in diameter, containing three yolks.

ing for rental has been erected for some years, at the present time we have about 8 houses on our books for rent, when if we had moderate size and priced houses we could rent even this fall quite a number. We find quite a number of people prefer Newton for a residence, but when they come here cannot find houses and so are compelled to go elsewhere. If Newton is to grow something must be done to accommodate the people who would like to come here and locate.

Cement houses may be the means of curing the trouble, certainly it cannot be our tax rate for we are lower than two thirds of the cities and towns in the state. What we lack most in Newtonville is steam heated apartments of 2, 3, 4 and 5 rooms each with bath, modern, at rental from $20 to $40 per month. Sales of land or houses are slow this season.

Turner &amp; Williams.

John T. Burns

Briefly stated, the demand for modern "homes," that is for single houses strictly up to date, of from seven to twelve rooms is greater now in Newton than at any time during the past five years. The demand, in fact, is far greater than the supply at the present time, and the capitalist who will put his money into that class of houses is sure of a profitable investment and will always find a ready market for his property.

Much of this demand comes from local people who are anxious to invest their savings in comfortable, well-equipped, modern homes. Much also comes from people who now reside in Boston and whose business keeps them there during the day and who are anxious when night comes to get away from the noise and bustle and cares of the larger city and find relaxation in a suburban home. There are still others who come from cities and towns farther off, attracted no doubt, by the favorable location of our city and by its many natural advantages.

Newton has many attractions for these home-seekers. Rich in natural beauty, healthfully located, with schools second to none in the State, well built and well-kept streets, excellent sewerage, splendid

the state, and where we have the best of schools, the finest boulevards and plenty of land.

Tradesmen, working for business concerns, who are willing to pay from $20 to $25 a month for rent, can not get a house in Newton, they have to live out side the city. If these men are good enough to do your work you should find a place for them to live in. I have in mind a man who built a two apartment house in Newton which cost $5,000, it was rented before it was finished for $65 a month or $720 a year. This will show you how great the demand, also the interest on your investment.

If the City Government would investigate the electric roads, I think it would be possible to continue the West End tracks through Newtonville and Newton Highlands and back again to Boston, instead of stopping at Nonantum Square as they do now. That would induce people to build and buy as there is plenty of land that you could build houses on and that would pay you 10 per cent on your investment.

The money men of Newton should not wait for an outsider to do it, the same as Mr. Taylor of Worcester did, they should do it themselves.

C. W. Keeffe.

The demand for good houses to rent has been exceptionally strong and steady all summer and there have, as yet, been no indications of its lessening as the season advances.

The market is very nearly depleted of rentable houses although a few good ones, which have been held for sale during the season, are now offered at the eleventh hour.

New Quarters

The rapidly increasing business of the Vendome cafe at 358 Centre street Newton, has made it necessary for Messrs Crouse and Stoddard, its popular proprietors, to provide new quarters. An adjoining store, No. 350 Centre street has been completely and most tastefully remodelled, and opened last week to the great pleasure of many patrons. The room is neatly decorated in green, with woodwork to correspond, and a deep red frieze, against which handsome china plates and plaques are arranged, emphasizes the effect. The tables with clean white linen, bright silver and orated candelabra are most attractive in appearance and splendid lighting effects are secured by the use of inverted gas lights. Messrs Crouse and Stoddard will continue the excellent menus which have been a specialty of the former cafe and improved service facilities will greatly increase their ability to cater to the public. Breakfast is served from 6.30 to 10, dinner from 11.45 to 2.30 and supper from 5.30 to 8.30. A feature of the new cafe which is certain to be popular will be the facility to promptly serve small dining parties of which there has long been a great need.

The removal of the cafe from 358 Centre street has greatly increased the accommodations of the bakery managed by the same gentlemen. A new and popular feature is the ladies lunch counter for serving coffee, chocolate at two and four cents a cup, eclairs, sandwiches, etc., for which there is quite a demand.

A lecture illustrated by singing will be given by Misses Esther and Mary White next Thursday at 7.45 p. m. Subject: The Songs of the Stuarts and the Georges.

Hemenway--Cabot

Miss Susan Adelaide Cabot, the daughter of Alderman and Mrs. Charles D. Cabot of Newtonville was married to Mr. Charles Burnham Hemenway of Hartland, Vt., on Tuesday evening at the Cabot residence 510 Watertown street. The ceremony took place at seven thirty o'clock, Rev. Albert Hammett of the Universalist church officiating. The bride was gowned in ivory white messaline silk, with trimmings of embroidered net on the bodice and long sleeve. The long train was edged with ruche. She wore the conventional tulle veil with wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white bride roses. The flower children, Laura White Cabot and Gerald Hemenway Cabot of Windsor, Vt., were cousins of the bride. A reception followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Hemenway being assisted in receiving by Alderman and Mrs. Cabot, Mrs. O. F. Hemenway, mother of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cabot, the latter being a sister of the groom. The bridal couple stood under a ball of white chrysanthemums and the other rooms were tastefully decorated with yellow and pink chrysanthemums. The guests were presented by Messrs Harry D. Cabot of Newtonville, Herbert Slayton of Allston, Willard D. Cabot and Frank L. Cabot of Windsor, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Hemenway will reside at Hartland, Vt.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

The most important business before the aldermen at its meeting Monday evening was the budget for 1908. While there was a long debate on the general subject of appropriations, most of it was evidently intended for the galleries and
but one change was made in the figures recommended by the Finance Committee.

President Carter was in the chair and only Aldermen Holmes and Stone were absent.

Hearings were held upon proposed removal of trees on Centre St., Ward 7, Beacon St., Ward 6, and Bennington St., Ward 1, on petition of Louis S. Ross
to sell gasoline at 28 Clyde st., and o.
the Gas Light Co. for pole locations on St. James st. No one appeared and these hearings were closed.

At the hearings on construction of concrete sidewalks on Harrison st and Dickerman road, Eliot, under the betterment act considerable opposition was made.

Mr. Frank R. Moore: I have been before the Committee on Public Works in regard to the concreting of Harrison street and Dickerman road, and I represent tonight the people living on Harrison street. This street has been constructed now some sixteen years. The petition has been signed by practically
I think all, of those now living on that street. The sidewalks are merely a gravel sidewalk. On Harrison street there are seventy-four men, women and children using the sidewalk. The condition is such that the water does not drain
off, the people have to use the lawns
and all during the winter weather the sidewalks are in bad shape when the frost is in the ground and they have to walk on the lawns entirely. It seems the people have stood this as long as it was absolutely necessary and I ask for them
to have the concreting done.

Mr. J. B. Studley: I represent Mr.
George W. Dickerman and Mr. Benjamin Dickerman, who are two land owners upon the two streets, Harrison street and Dickerman road. Mr. Benjamin Dickerman is a very old man, over 82
years, and not able to be here, Mr.
George W. Dickerman lives in Syracuse,
N. Y. A large part of what Mr. Moore says may have been true up to a recent time, but as he stated the city has just finished rebuilding this street and put in a system of draining. Eight persons have asked for sidewalks on Dickerman road
and four on Harrison street. On Harrison street there are ten owners. I lots who have not asked for this and do not wish it, of these Benjamin and George W. Dickerman own five. On Dickerman road there are only four people who have asked for that sidewalk, there are eight lot owners who do not wish it, and they all think there is no need of concrete sidewalks in that neighborhood,
there is no public necessity that they should be built against the wishes or against the wishes of a majority of the owners of lots on those streets. It should be borne in mind that during the last week those streets have been assessed at the rate of thirty-five dollars on every lot for the cost of building the street, Mr. Benjamin Dickerman has been assessed $250, and at this time it seems inexpedient to spend more money on sidewalks, it seems the interests of Mr. Benjamin and Mr. George W. Dickerman are at stake more than anybody else and they should be considered.

Mr. William E. Moore: As Mr. Studley has just said these streets have just been improved and one of the provisions that was brought up about accepting the street was the subject of drainage. The streets have been macadamized, and the sidewalks have been very nicely covered with gravel and I consider them in very good condition, they are much better than they have been for the last ten years, people have not objected to them
very much before and as a property owner there I for one own lots and know.
We have just been through an assessment for sewers and now for the street improvement and in my case I have had to pay about $85 for the street which we thought was all right, but we do not think at this time that our tenants should put in this petition for sidewalks against our wishes. This street is not a thoroughfare, there is no outlet at the other end and no traffic excepting for the people who live there. And we do not feel that we should be called upon at the present time to put money into these things for which we shall receive no return and only the people who hire property want them.

Mr. Frank R. Moore: The people who have objected here are people who own property and lease that property,
they do not live on that street themselves, they are not called upon to walk
there, Mr. Dickerman may walk there once a month to collect his rents but Mr.
Moore does not walk there at all. Now
the people in my mind to be considered in this thing are the people living on these two streets, each one extending only about five hundred feet. There are over one hundred and thirty people, taking the two streets together, it seems these people are the people who should be considered. This cost of concreting is only a nominal one, a very slight cost and I understand in some instances the parties mentioned here as remonstrant
have raised their rents anywhere from three to four dollars a month which would pay for concreting the street, it seems as though they were going to get even some way. I have lived on the street for fifteen years and know what the condition of the sidewalks are, I cannot walk on them in bad weather.

The hearings were then closed and subsequently orders were ordered authorizing the work to proceed.

The Public Buildings Commissioner
submitted the applications of H. H.
Hunt to erect a studio on Oak Hill, and of John Dolan Coal Co to erect a frame
office building on Concord st, and favorable action was immediately taken.

The matter of approving the proposed incorporation of Abram Shrier et al as the Congregation Anshai Shepard, with the report of the Police Department thereon was referred.

The bond of Alfred M. Russell as constable with the American Surety Co
as surety was approved.

The request of the School Committee for transfers in its appropriations was referred.

Hearings were ordered for Dec. 2 on petitions of the Gas Light Co for poles on Waldorf and Langley roads, of the Telephone Co for poles in Waldorf and Norman roads, of E. C. Leach for removal of tree Crystal st., of F. E. Taft for removal of tree in Harvard st and of I. H. Snow to sell denatured alcohol.

Petitions of Charles Lawson for transfer of pool and billiard license to 299 Walnut st, of Reuben Forknall and Wiley S. Edmunds for renewal of Auctioneer licenses, of John W. Hannigan to move a building to Homer street and of W. B. Michells for wagon license and liquor transportation permit were granted without reference.

These petitions were referred:—Desmond et al for change of name of Cemetery avenue to Homer avenue, of Hannigan et al for sewer in Cemetery ave., of Florence E. Alexander for concrete sidewalk under betterment act on Pet-tee st., of William Claflin estate to move building across Elm road, of L. K.
Storrs attorney for damages to broken window, of J. R. Robertson for sewer in Riverside st., and of R. C. Spring for reimbursement of part cost of fence on Grove st.

The requests to apportion street betterments of Wilmot M. Brown, Dickerman road, 3 parts, Mary E. Fuller, Cook st, 10 parts, and Mary C. Ruddick, Harrison st, ten parts, were granted.

On recommendation of committees,
orders were adopted rescinding sidewalk
betterment on Bellevue st and levying
the same anew in different amount, authorizing printing of city documents for 1907, making certain transfers in appropriations of School, Police and Fire departments, authorizing water mains in Commonwealth ave ($350) and Whitlowe road ($315), authorizing sewers
in Lexington and River streets, making certain awards for land taken for sewers at Waban, granting the Telephone Company attachments on Union st, pole
locations on Laurel st and Grant avenue and permission to remove poles on Grant avenue, authorizing removal of trees on Summer and Woodbine sts., requesting mayor to petition for construction of a new armory, assigning hearings, Dec. 2 on rounding corner of River
st and Ashmun ave., for taking land in Hawthorn st for sewer; for laying sewer across railroad tracks at Cook st., also appropriating $3000 additional for Snow and Ice and $2000 additional for sidewalks, authorizing receipt of $54.18 from citizens of Newton Highlands for certain park improvements, assuming street betterments assessed on estate James Claffy, Cook st.

On recommendation of committees
leave to withdraw was granted W. C.
McIntosh and J. P. McGill for liquor transportation permits, of Sarah Platten
for rebate of junk license fee of Naimee Platten deceased. Inexpedient was reported on petitions of police officers for $1200 salary after five years service and on petition Chas. F. Osborne for $1500
salary as assistant inspector of wires.

Petition of the highway formen for salary of $19.50 per week was referred to the mayor on recommendation of the Finance Committee.

Awagon license was granted William Mathes and license to keep and sell gasoline off Washington st ward 5
to Chas. A. Ferson.

Orders were also adopted declaring
the result of the recent state election,
and calling meetings for the city election on December 10th.

The budget for 1908 as recommended by the Finance Committee was then taken up.

Alderman Day: You will notice that the Committee recommends some $2300 more than the Mayor's approval. This is not, however, exactly correct, very many of the items have since the first approval
of the Mayor been passed upon by him and have received his approval. You will notice that it is in excess of the appropriations for 1907 by $64,000. The increases above the Mayor's first approval
are for

Printing Public Documents	$50
Copying Old Records	100
Salary Auditor's Bookkeeper	300
Night Watchman, City Hall	50

Then there is an increase in Police Departments, $200 for the drivers of the patrol wagon, and $100 for the Inspector of Plumbing.

Previous to last year half of the salary of the City Physician was charged to the Health Department and half to the Charity Department. Last year it was thought best to put it all in the Health Department but it has been found not to work well in our collections of other cities therefore it was recommended by the Mayor after the list had been prepared that we charge this to the Charity Department.

There is an increase in the Health Department of $300 for inspection of schools.

The largest increase is under Education, the total being $1100. This includes $500 for evening schools, for it has been found that more wish to avail themselves of the opportunity for education in the evening.

The two vacation schools, the Nonantum and Newton Centre, amount to $600.
It was thought that this ought to be assumed by the City and the private societies who for the past 12 or 15 years have been aiding this ought to be relieved.

That makes the twenty-three hundred increase over the Mayor's approval and
this also has his approval.

I might refer to the fact that the increase being some $65,000 more than last year, the greatest increase seems to be in the Educational Department, there being an increase in salaries there and a large increase as a protection that we thought was necessary against other cities taking away our best teachers. Then there is an increase in Highways over 1907 of something like $18,000 and in the item of Serial Bonds $11,000, while under General Government also there is something like $2600 over 1907 and in Protection of Life and Property some $4500 over 1907.

Alderman Bowen: This is the wrong time to raise salaries of the heads of our departments. I do not believe that we can afford to do it. We could afford perhaps to give that few hundred dollars additional if we were in a position
where we could advance salaries justly,
if we advance those that are mentioned

I do not see any reason why we should not advance other worthy officials like our Water Commissioner the Chief of our Fire Department and Police Department. If we could afford it I would be in favor of advancing their salaries, but I cannot consistently vote to raise the salaries of those mentioned and not raise those others. It will cause dissension

July 6, 1907.

Some mothers wonder why their children seem to prefer bread and butter (or bread and milk) to meat and vegetables, for instance. This is because their rapidly growing little bodies crave the food which digests easily, and is a great body builder. You need never fear that bread is not as strengthening as meat for children. It is very much better for them and more economical.

HATHAWAY'S BREAD.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

To raise funds for a parish house for Trinity (Episcopal) church at Newton Centre a fair was held Tuesday evening
and Wednesday afternoon and evening
in Bray hall.

The attendance was all that could have been desired. There were many attractive features in charge of the young people of the parish, one of the most striking being a typical country store conducted by the men of the parish. This feature was in charge of the Men's club. The various attractive tables were well patronized, and the fair will realize a substantial sum in aid of the proposed building.

Second Annual New England Conclave

An event of great interest to workers
with boys will take place Friday, Nov.
28, namely, the second annual New England Conclave of the Knights of King Arthur. This conclave will be held at the Central Congregational church,
under the auspices of the Carlyle Castle.
All those interested in work with boys
will be heartily welcomed at the evening
conclave. Among those who will be present are: Rev. Frank L. Maseck, the National King, of Potsdam, N. Y., Mr.
C. I. Pettingill, Marquis of Massachusetts,
Amesbury, Mass., Rev. O. E.
Crocker, Marquis of Rhode Island,
Forestdale, R. I., Rev. E. T. Talmage,
Marquis of Connecticut, Watregan,
Connecticut, Rev. R. M. D. Adams,
Newton Centre, Mr. A. K. Sweet, Cambridge, Mr. N. G. Cooley, Auburndale, and Rev. J. T. Stocking, Newtonville.
Those interested may obtain programs
from the secretary Ronald D. Birch, Newtonville.

The people of Newton and vicinity
are fortunate in having the opportunity to hear Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the hero of Labrador. He is on his way to Washington, D. C., to attend the Y. M.
C. A. convention and has one Sunday,
Nov. 17th, in Boston. He will speak at Wellesley College in the evening and has been secured to speak in Eliot
church at the afternoon service at 4.30.
Dr. Grenfell needs no introduction in any part of the Christian world for his self-sacrificing work is well known and Christians of all creeds will be glad to hear him next Sunday.

THE NEWTON HOSPITAL

Twenty-Eighth Year

The Newton Hospital appeals to you for help in carrying on its work. It is open to all residents of the city, the rich and the poor. Those who are able to pay the actual cost of their care, but they are few in number compared to those who repay only a small part or nothing whatever. But the care of the unfortunate is a great and most pressing duty, and for this purpose the Hospital this year has already spent more than ten thousand dollars in excess of all receipts from every source applicable for the purpose.
To meet this deficit, to insure a continuance of this necessary work, the Hospital must look to your generosity. A larger amount is needed this year than usual for the reasons stated below. Will you not do your share? The Hospital is for all the residents: it must look to all for help.

The custom has become well established of making contributions on the last Sunday of November of every year,
—Hospital Sunday. A gift handed to an officer of your church will be credited to it, or, if you prefer, will you send direct in the enclosed addressed envelope to the Treasurer of the Hospital? Remember Hospital Sunday, November 24, 1907.

Frank A. Day,
A. Lawrence Edmonds,
Charles I. Travelli,
George Hutchinson,
Henry E. Bothfeld,
Finance Committee.

In presenting an appeal to the citizens of Newton for increased contributions
on Hospital Sunday, to meet the large deficit in the running expenses, the cause of such deficit should be explained. We are caring for more patients than ever before, from seventy to eighty daily, of whom many pay little or nothing towards the expense of their care. For all things necessary to this care, food, clothing,
coal, wages, we must pay from ten to thirty per cent more than heretofore,
because of the well-known general advance in prices within the year. Our expenses have increased in this proportion with no proportionate increase in income. One hundred and fifty people, on an average, are daily maintained under the Hospital roof,—patients, nurses,

officials, and help; and the Executive Committee, with the help of the Matron
and assistants, strive to limit our expenses in every way consistent with the proper welfare of the sick and the well.
We invite the citizens of Newton to visit their Hospital, that they may appreciate the great work required to maintain such an institution, and the urgent necessity for funds for which this appeal is made.

William O. Hunt,
Francis E. Porter,
Fred S. Keith,
George E. May,
William T. Farley,
Charles E. Kelsey,
William C. Bray,
Alonso R. Weed,
George Royal Pulsifer,
Executive Committee.

It is the duty and privilege of the Newton Hospital Aid Association to assist in the maintenance of the Hospital
in such ways as shall be deemed most suitable.

In this unique office it keeps in constant touch with all the work of the Hospital. It realizes to the fullest extent the labor and self-sacrifice involved
in the noble efforts put forth by officers, physicians, and attendants, in order that the Hospital may be enabled to give the most effective service to humanity. The demands for stronger financial support
are constantly increasing, as new and enlarged accommodations make a greater number of patients possible.

To every citizen of Newton is given the opportunity to help on this grand work. Will you not have a share in this service?

For the Executive Board of the Hospital Aid Association,

Mrs. H. H. Carter.
Mrs. H. P. Bellows.
Mrs. Samuel Ward.
Mrs. W. H. Gould.
Mrs. E. B. Haskell.

Mr. Morgan Buried

The funeral of Postmaster George H.
Morgan took place at 1:30 last Friday afternoon at the Newton Centre Unitarian church, where he had been an attendant.

The service was as simple as possible,
and was conducted by Rev. A. H. Brown
the pastor, who spoke highly of the efficiency of Mr. Morgan as a public official and of his sterling character.

The casket was literally covered with floral offerings, among which were handsome tributes from the postoffice employees of this city and former associates and friends.

The noon delivery of mail was omitted
throughout the city, and the main office
at Newton Centre and the several branch offices were closed for two hours during the service. City flags were at half staff.

As the remains were taken from the church the letter carriers, clerks and other postoffice employees who had long been associated with Postmaster Morgan stood in two long lines and viewed the body. The service was attended by a number of postoffice inspectors and a delegation from the Boston postoffice.

Burial was made late the same afternoon in the cemetery at Westwood, Mr.
Morgan's native town.

Dearborn-Quinn

Wade E. Dearborn, an efficient and popular patrolman of the Newton police department, was married Tuesday evening to Miss Margaret E. Quinn of 30 Jefferson street. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 by Rev. A. S. Malone at the parochial residence of the church of Our Lady.

The best man was Dana Parks of Newton, and the maid of honor was Miss Margaret W. Carley, a niece of the bride. The bride wore white net over lace and carried white carnations.

A reception took place from 8 to 10 at the home of Mrs. A. R. Carley, sister of the bride, at 50 Jefferson street, when a large number of friends offered congratulations. After a trip Mr. and Mrs.
Dearborn will reside in Newtonville.

Canadian Furs at Canadian Prices.

The high quality of Canadian Furs is well known to Americans. A custom's duty of 35 per cent prevents Americans who do not visit Canada from buying furs there. Our American house, 167 Tremont Street, Boston, will interest American buyers of Canadian furs. Here we receive our supply of raw skins from our own Canadian houses where they are collected direct from the trappers and admitted to the United States duty free in the undressed state.

All garments for our American business are manufactured by skilled American designers and finishers, and in selling direct to the wearer we eliminate intermediate profits.

Owing to its rigorous climate Canada produces the finest furs known to commerce. Silver Fox, Hudson Bay Sable, Mink, Otter, etc., are seen at their best. In dealing direct with us you secure the advantages that flow from a large and influential business following in our own stores in four Canadian cities, and a feeling of security and reliability that is always present when dealing with a house whose reputation has been merited by a constantly increasing patronage extending over a period of forty-two years, and whose products have been awarded five gold medals in different Canadian Expositions.

In comparing prices remember that quality is of first importance. Canadian furs average 35 to 50 per cent higher grade than those of more temperate climates, because nature produces the quality; the furriers make only the garment, and the dyer's art can make a southern mink to imitate the Canadian article. To insure reliability and value, buy Canadian Furs from Canadian furriers.

Women's Department.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

The Pierian Club held a meeting Wednesday, Oct. 30th at the home of Mrs. Willard, Champa avenue. An instrumental solo was given by Mrs. Locke. Papers were read by Mrs. Gallison, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Hemphill.

Mrs. William Gilmore was the hostess of the Waban Woman's Club at its opening meeting last week Monday.

The club members were received by the president, Mrs. Josephine K. Crain, the retiring president, Mrs. Nellie S. Pillsbury, and Mrs. Gilmore. Miss Winnetta Lamson entertained the club very delightfully with a series of songs, after which refreshments were served.

The Monday Club met November 4 with Mrs. Moulton of Walnut street. The autobiography of Andrew D. White was considered by club members.

The Newton Highlands Monday Club enjoyed a most delightful afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wells, when the music of Grieg was interpreted by Mr. Newton Swift. A social hour followed and tea was served by the hostess. The next meeting of the Monday Club will be with Mrs. Martell, Carver road.

The first meeting of the season of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held at the old Unitarian church on Friday, Nov. 8. The customary reception in October was omitted this year on account of the illness of Mrs. Walton and the recent bereavement of Mrs. H. K. Burrisson, the president. At the meeting on Friday the resignation of Mrs. Burrisson was read and accepted with great regret. The club voted to hold a new election at the meeting on Nov. 22nd. The program of the afternoon was in charge of the Education Committee, Mrs. T. M. Elwell, chairman, and consisted of a piano solo by Miss Puffer and "Vacation Experiences" by members. Mrs. G. D. Byfield told of a delightful trolley trip from Boston to the Berkshires and into the Green Mountains. Mrs. Phelps read a sketch on Kennebunkport, and Miss Burt told of Mount Washington experiences. An informal social hour followed during which the ladies had opportunity to meet new members and exchange greetings. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 22 when Miss Louise T. Merritt will speak of "Florida from behind an Easel," illustrated by water color sketches.

At the Social Science Club on Nov. 13 the paper of the morning was by Mrs. Anna L. Bailey on "Good Citizenship". Mrs. Bailey in presenting her subject remarked upon the wide range which it covered; pointed out the essentials necessary for true citizenship and suggested many things which may be done in the training of the children for the responsibilities of later life. Reforms come, she said, not in a day, by the making of better people. If only some of the men of great wealth would devote a portion of it to the making of men instead of piling it up! She cited the great advantages which the women of America possess above those of any other nation and urged that they have a care as to the way in which they use these privileges. The paper was full of suggestion and the members felt that they had had a large field of thought opened before them. The welcome announcement was made by the president that the city has taken over the Nonantum Vacation School in full. The next line of philanthropic work to be undertaken by the club will be decided at a later meeting.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club next Wednesday Prof. H. H. Powers will speak upon "The Place and Prospects of Art in America." Guests may be invited.

Christmas Fair

The Newton Nurses Alumnae Association are to hold a Christmas Fair in the Assembly room of the Newton Club on December 3 from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. also on Dec. 4th from 2 p. m. until 10.30 p. m. An orchestra will be in attendance. There will be on exhibition dolls dressed in the uniforms of other training schools, also booths containing fancy articles, baby things, aprons, stock collars, groceries, candy, ice cream etc. There will be fortune telling and palm reading. The nurses will appreciate any contributions received, they may be sent at any time to 9 Forest street, Newton. Highlands, or on Dec. 2nd at the Newton Club.

The proceeds of the Fair will be added to a fund of four hundred and fifty dollars received two years ago from the nurses concert given in Bray Hall, Newton Centre. It is hoped to add to this fund from time to time until a sufficient sum is realized to establish in a central part of Newton a graduate nurses' home to be used for educational purposes also to be a comfortable home for the nurses which will mean a great deal to them. Waltham has a home of this sort and all cities of any size have.

Knott & Company, 51 Franklin St., Boston, announces that their new goods are ready for inspection, consisting of the latest effects in lighting fixtures for electric, gas and combination. For designs and assortment of up-to-date goods they are not to be excelled in that city.

Amateur Dramatics

"Yankeeeland," the tuneful comic opera with a real plot, libretto by Mr. Leverett Bentley and music by Mr. Henry T. Wade, which was first presented by Newton amateurs two years ago, was reproduced at the Hunnewell Clubhouse Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in aid of the Y. M. C. A. There were large and enthusiastic audiences and the opera was well received. The cast:

Lieut. Lightfoot—John Bartley.
Peter Pendlebury—Ernest W. Wright.
Daniel Duemall—C. Asaph Haskell.
Martin Slattery—W. C. Harding.
Gregory Gathercoin—Leverett Bentley.
Detective Murphy—Walter V. McArthur.
Millicent—George E. Merrill.
Mathilde—Dr. Leslie H. Naylor.
Sallie Scribbler—Carl L. Ellison.
Mrs. Marigold—Albert F. Whittemore.
Gladys—Harry F. Morgan.
Dorothy—John Deegan.
Muriel—Seth A. Wood.
Marguerite—Kenneth Bailey.
Tom Tarpaullin—Robert Mahoney.
Steve Steere—Theodore Morton.
Ben Brison—Harry King.
Jack Joplin—William Hanson.
Indian brave—William Hanson.
Indian maid—Joseph Stuart.
Young women—George S. Bouden, C. Vincent Daiger and C. Wesley Currier.
Young men—Richard Hill, Arthur H. Sweeney, Charles W. Simms.

There were many of the principals of the original production in the show and they scored even bigger hits than two years ago. There were two new songs. "My Pretty Wildflower," sung in the first act by the Indian brave, Indian maid and chorus, took well and proved a charming Indian specialty. "I am a Bold Detective," sung in the second act by Slattery and the men was a comic specialty which made a big hit as that again scored by the comic quartet. The quartet dressed in oilskins, by the way, had a lot of new verses that abounded in hits on local men and events.

The other songs were: "Neptune is King," "We do the Unconventional," "Saucy Little Sunburned Summer Girl," "We've Heard the Call of Uncle Sam," "The Song of the Sea," "The Smile of Smiling Slattery," "I'm the Earl of Needthemon," sung by Mr. Bentley; "Yankeeeland," "Happy Bride and Groom," "Double Nine Twelve Ring Three," the novel telephone song by Dr. Naylor as Mathilde; "The Model Yellow Journal," "When we be on the Ocean," "It's Only when you're Dreaming."

Mr. Wade's melodious numbers were warmly praised, and the new songs proved among the most popular of the entire production. The stage manager was Ralph W. Bartlett, Herbert C. Fraser was business manager, M. H. Ward advertising manager, Mr. Wade accompanist, Richard Hill assistant accompanist and Carlton L. Ellison, Leverett Bentley, Herbert C. Fraser and M. H. Ward entertainment committee. The ushers were Harold Moore, Beverly Seord, William D. Ward, G. Sidney Hill and Edward P. Tuttle.

THEATRES

Tremont Theatre—A really remarkable bill is offered for the week to come,

one fully the equal of that of the week just ending. As was to be expected Vesta Victoria remains for a second week on her merits as a popular entertainer. Her associates will be the Labrakans, celebrated European acrobats; Leo Carillo, the noted caricaturist of the magazine known as "Variety"; Mlle. Agoust, one of the few successful female jugglers; Edith Helena, the wonderful vocalist, said to possess a voice having the greatest range ever known; Jean Clermont with his trained horses, monkeys, dogs, pigs, goats and chickens; the Duffin-Rodney horizontal bar performers; Collins and Hart, the "almost strong men" in a burlesque acrobatic act; New and exclusive motion pictures of local interest. There are daily matinees at the Tremont which offer excellent opportunities for ladies and children to avoid the crowds of the evenings.

Boston Theatre—The success which has attended the production of "The Soudan" at the Boston Theatre has fully justified the large expenditure attending it for the audiences of the last two weeks have tested the capacity of the big house at every performance. The opportunities for scenic work offered in "The Soudan" have been splendidly improved in this production which as a whole is one of the best examples of modern stage work seen in this country in recent years. The great Trafalgar Square scene unites realism and art in a way that makes it a series of stage pictures of fascinating interest and creates unlimited enthusiasm at every performance. The play will be continued all next week and the big advance sale makes an early application for seats desirable by those who wish to enjoy the presentation of this fine old melodrama.

The exhibition of Walter L. Palmers oil and water color paintings, at Gill's art galleries, 673 Boylston street, Boston, comprising mostly winter scenes in the painting of which he is not excelled, is to be extended until the evening of the 23rd because of the interest taken therein.

and we are making a mistake to do it, but unquestionably our City Engineer is entitled to more money and I would like to see him get it when the proper time comes.

Alderman Day: Of course in our business we do not hesitate in advancing salaries in some cases and not in others. I think the same rule should be adopted in this business to pick and choose. The committee have considered at length all these different requests for raises, their hearts would incline them to every request. The head has decided as we have decided and it was unanimous in the case of the advances to the Street Commissioner and City Engineer. The Mayor feels and we feel too that these are officials who are very valuable to us and that if we discern it right we were underpaying them and we thought their request for an advance as endorsed by the Mayor was entirely in order. When we have good clerks we want to keep them; it disorganizes the departments to let a clerk go who is worth more than we have been paying him for the lack of a few hundred dollars more. The other clerks have no right to criticize the employer who advances, it is his judgment, it is his business, this is ours, therefore we decided they are entitled to what we have granted them and we feel that any other course would not be consistent to the best interests of the City.

Alderman Condrin: I believe that some of the salaries should have been advanced but there are others that should not. I think it has been said that in some of our departments the work is not as great or will not be as great in the future as it has been, that it will be decreasing, and we propose to raise the salary in this department. Can the City afford to pay these wages? While these are good men and probably are worth it, and perhaps more if the work is there to do where the work is decreasing is it good policy to raise the salaries?

Alderman Day: Work may vary from year to year but because this year it is not expected it will be quite as large as last year, in the main the responsibilities of these officials is steadily increasing and if as is very probable the case we have underpaid them last year the fact that we are increasing them this year is as it were averting the thing and we feel that there can be no real objection on that ground. The Street Commissioner has a great deal under his care, the geographical size of our city and the many departments that he has to oversee, he has been asked to take a more honorable position and I have been assured at a higher salary even than we propose to pay him. Any thing we can do to guard against his leaving us or the other officials leaving us to tempting offers outside we are bound to do irrespective of whether there is five per cent less work to be done in the department; their vigilance will have to be as great although the work done by them may not be quite as large.

Alderman Doherty: I do not think the time is proper for the increases such as have been granted except that it can be done in a general way. No doubt these officials are worth it and can better their conditions elsewhere, it seems to me in order to have harmony in the department some notice should have been taken of the requests made by the different assistants. Undoubtedly the Street Commissioner is a very busy man and has great responsibilities, but much of the work of that department is carried on the shoulders of an able deputy, who asked for an increase in salary. There are other cases where an increase has been granted. Take the bookkeeper in the auditor's department, who gets $1800 a year as assistant to the auditor and from another position which he occupies and it seems to me that is a big salary for the kind of work he is called upon to perform. The Sealer of Weights and Measures, gets an increase of $250, I think uncalculated for. The business of this office does not require an official's whole time, the duties are not arduous, and it seems to me the increase is unnecessary. The call-firemen, are men that are called upon to leave their work or their homes or wherever they may be, at all hours of the day or night, whether dressed in working clothes or their best clothes, if they go to a fire and a suit of clothes is destroyed they have no redress and it seems to me for the chances they take in going to these fires they are worth some consideration and the small increase they ask for should be granted. I believe the increased cost of living demands these increases but if we cannot in our present state of finances grant these increases I believe we have established a bad precedent and have also created somewhat of a feeling of discontent in the various departments. The Committee are guided in their recommendations by the reports made to them by the various departments' heads and also by the observations made by the Mayor, but if this same committee had the time and opportunity to enter into this matter in detail, examine into it as closely as it calls for, their recommendations would be slightly different. It seems to me as a matter of expense the City of Newton could better control it, if they had a man whose business it was to inquire into the different departments and to examine carefully all bills, etc. The expenses of the city would be materially reduced and by granting a salary of $2000 to a controller, a man who had full powers to act, the city would be in a position by the saving made by his observations to grant increases all along the line from highest to lowest. In the case of these stenographers who have asked for an increase, it seems to me the pay they get is far in excess of the pay they would get in mercantile houses. In making these remarks I want it distinctly understood that I have no intention of criticizing the committee.

Alderman Day: Let me say the Committee welcomes criticism. Alderman Day stated in reply to a question about the $5000 miscellaneous for the Mayor's office, that he had not thought it necessary to ask for the items on that point nor had any of the members of the committee.

Alderman Day: Looking at the salary of the auditor's bookkeeper, in that department there is a peculiar condition. Our Auditor necessarily leaves a large part of the work on account of his age to the bookkeeper. The bookkeeper was fully competent to take the auditor's position should he resign and as the bookkeeper does so much of the work and relieves the auditor, we felt that it entirely proper to grant this increase. There were one or two cases where I would like to have consulted my heart and where the salary asked was only a small increase, but at the same time we endeavored to follow strict business principles.

Alderman Palmer: Personally I am present at every meeting of the Finance Committee, heard the evidence presented to them. I considered it one of the best civic educations one could have and I consider that this year the Finance Committee have done their work admirably well. I heartily coincide with what the chairman has said and in the way in which he and the committee have considered the advances made in salaries. I believe myself that it is not advisable nor businesslike to make a uniform or percentage advance in salaries of high grade officials. The information given by the mayor far outclasses any report that could have been made by a controller who could have been employed at $2000 a year. In my observations of course I have not been brought into so close contact with all of the officials as the Mayor has, but they are all splendid men and they are all working for the interest of the city. As far as the Street Commissioner is concerned I believe he has been underpaid in considering the work he does for the city; he is worth more than we propose to pay him, even if he does do a little less work. These remarks apply with just as great force with regard to the city engineer, relative to the class of work that he does and the salary that he is paid, he is an expert in his line, and I heartily concur with what the committee has asked us to do.

Alderman Hall stated in regard to the appropriation of $5000 for Mayor's Miscellaneous. That appropriation has always been regarded as a sort of waste-basket to cover matters that are not taken care of anywhere else, things like damage cases or judgments from the Court where they have to be paid are all charged to this appropriation. For the last two years there has been a working balance, there to take care of contracts which the Mayor had negotiated. I believe the recommendations made on a sound basis. The particular items that have been mentioned are almost amazing to me. I find that we have the reputation with our street commissioner and city engineer as being two of the most efficient men in their class in the State. They are men who are consulted by other officials in other cities and towns because of their standing and reputation.

Alderman Bowen: I do not wish to be mistaken in my policy with regard to the street commissioner and city engineer. I believe they are worth that money and I would vote to give them that money if other heads of departments could have an increase who I believe are entitled to it but are so humble they do not come before us to ask it.

Alderman Lyons: Earlier in the year I was one of the first men to ask for an increase. I started with the class of men I thought were entitled to it and it has been practically granted. I believe it is for the best interests of the city to increase the salaries of the different officials and I believe the City will be benefited by it. I think every member who was present at the Finance Committee meeting received the information which would warrant them in doing exactly what the Finance Committee saw fit to do. The total increase was $2300. I can see where that amount will be offset when we dispose with two of the Assessors who receive a salary of $1100 a year each as the Board has passed an order a short time ago reducing the number from five to three in 1909.

Alderman Day: I would like to explain in regard to the deputy street commissioner, it has been said that his request came in too late, but there was another reason why it was not granted, the request was for such a large increase that I think it prejudiced his case with us. I personally would have been willing to have made his salary $2000 instead of $1900.

Alderman White: I have felt that on general principles the present is not an opportune time to raise salaries of heads of departments, but I do feel very strongly on one subject mentioned by the member from Ward 6 and that is the water commissioner and I feel that his salary of $2300 is less by $500 than he should receive. Nearly all of us remember the time when the water department of Newton had a superintendent of water works at a high salary and we now know that the water commissioner does the superintendence and the work of running his office and his department is making an income for the city, we are getting a good return for an outlay of $2300 which we pay him.

Alderman Cabot: The chairman of the Finance Committee has opened the way and I am going to make the motion, that the salary of the deputy commissioner of streets be made $2300.

Alderman Day: In answering the alderman from Ward 5 I would like to say that since I have been on the Finance Committee it has not been the custom for the committee where neither the department nor the mayor recommended an increase to consider any different sum than has been paid. That may not be the proper way of looking at it but we naturally are not seeking for ways in which to spend the city's money.

Alderman Bosson: I feel that the committee has already recommended the maximum appropriation at this time. Personally I would not object if the majority of the Board was in favor of the deputy's salary being raised $100, but I would much prefer to let it stand as the committee recommended.

Alderman Day: The deputy street commissioner requested a raise of $600 not $300.

Alderman Doherty then moved to have the salary of the deputy street commissioner raised to $2100.

The motion to fix the salary at $2100 was defeated. It was then fixed at $2000 by a vote of 13 to 5.

Alderman Condrin: In regard to the call firemen, I think the Finance Committee should have granted some increase if it is only a slight one. The chief of the fire department said he would prefer to have permanent men instead of call men but we have the call men and until they are replaced by permanent men we ought to deal justly by the men according to the work they have to do.

Alderman Bosson: The Chief of Fire Department said that any more money the City was to expend in his department should be expended on permanent men.

Alderman Condrin: There was some doubt in my mind in regard to the increase in the department estimates to take care of the increase to the city laborers. It is the intention for each department beginning January first, to pay the laborers an increase in wages?

Alderman Day: The committee felt that any man who is worth $200 should receive $2 but if the man was worth only $1.75 that all he should get or if he is worth but $1.50 he should get that, and we agreed that every able bodied man was worth two dollars a day and should get it from the city but there was a vote taken to that effect, the superintendent of streets understands that is the sentiment of the mayor and the finance committee.

Alderman Condrin: I believe the city officials are worth all they are getting and more too, but with a reduced amount of work it did not seem an opportune time to raise salaries. The city engineer is a very valuable man for the city to have.

Alderman Lyons: I do not think there is a better street commissioner in the New England states than our present street commissioner and I am thoroughly satisfied to leave this matter of two dollars a day entirely in his hands.

The order for $1,166,113.80 was then unanimously adopted, followed by the passage of orders adopting the estimate of receipts for 1908 and establishing the rate of interest on unpaid taxes.

The board at 11:03 adjourned.

Langmaid-Learned

A chrysanthemum wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo A. Learned of Jewett street Tuesday evening, when Miss Evelyn Virginia Learned, their daughter, became the bride of Mr. Chase Langmaid, of Watertown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of Eliot church.

The ceremony took place under a beautiful floral canopy in the parlor. The bride was gown in white messaline trimmed with princess lace. Her veil was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Miriam Ardelle Learned, her sister, was maid of honor and was gown in pink messaline.

The flower girls were Miss Elizabeth Cossa of Boston, Miss Marion Stevens of Boston, Miss Elizabeth Scott of Melrose and Miss Esther Ely of Newton Centre. Two were gown in pink crepe de chine and two in blue.

The best man was Mr. Herbert Severance of Detroit, Mich. The ushers were Messrs Lester M. Snow of Boston, George Orr of Buffalo, Walter Wales of Boston and Hildreth Langmaid of Watertown.

A reception which followed from 8 to 9:30 was attended by about 300 guests. The drawing room was decorated in white chrysanthemums, the library in pink and the dining room in yellow. There were many handsome presents.

After a trip Mr. and Mrs. Langmaid will reside at 4 Center street, Watertown.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—Lovers of Dickens have a great treat in store for them in the engagement of Bransby Williams. His characterizations, the make-ups for which are taken from the drawings by Cruikshank, Barnard and Phiz, are remarkable in many ways and stamp him as an artist of the very highest class.

The return of Al Leach to vaudeville is one of the most notable events of a very eventful season. Assisted by the Three Rosebuds he presents a skit that is full of merry moments. The Willy Pantzer Troupe of acrobats were announced for last week, but circumstances held them back for a week, a fact that will only add to the welcome they will receive, for they are supreme in their line. The Novellos with their miniature circus scored so heavily this week that they have been retained as a leading feature. "The Old Neighborhood," the sketch presented by Callahan and St. George, is one of the best things in vaudeville today; while the Murray Sisters are two very pretty girls who well know what the public want in the way of songs. The bill will also include Phil Bennett, with pleasing vocalisms; Elsie Harvey and boys, in a dancing novelty, The Abbotts, in a sketch The Hurleys, great acrobats; Mozarto, a versatile instrumentalist; Hagan and Westcott, in a playlet, and the Kinetograph, with its customary quota of new motion pictures.

Orpheum—America's most versatile actress, acknowledged as the world's greatest protean player, Charlotte Parry, is the big feature of the Orpheum for the week beginning Monday, Nov. 16. Miss Parry will be seen in the tabloid drama "The Comstock Mystery" in which she will play eight characters. "The bathing beauty" Lalla Selbini, is another sensational feature on next week's bill. This charming artist gives a performance on a bicycle. While whirling about the stage, performing difficult manoeuvres, she disrobes with all the daring grace and beauty of Charmion until revealed in a costume that gives more freedom to her movements. A tiny pickaninny assistant furnishes the comedy in the cat. That unique "girl" act, Polly Pickles' Pets, in which the young women impersonate various animals is another big feature. Albert Hart, comedian, will spring some new stories and Friend & Downing will entertain with their patter and parodies. An act that will appeal particularly to the children is Paul Batt's Bears, a Parisian act which has scored an emphatic success in America. Among the other entertainers are Katie Rooney, the singing comedienne, Clark, Benjamin & Mahoney, a dainty trio of singers and dancers and the La Maze brothers, comic acrobats. New Modern pictures by the kinetograph will conclude the show.

The fifth annual sale of the Newton Ladies' Home Circle will take place on Thursday, Nov. 21st, in the A. O. U. W. Hall, West Newton.

The fall meeting of the Newton Federation was one of the most successful social affairs it has ever held. Mrs. George F. Lowell of Newtonville opened her fine house to the Federation on Monday, Nov. 11. From two until ten o'clock the articles left from the Bazaar were on sale. The president, Mrs. B. E. Taylor, greeted the guests as they came in and a delightfully informal social time was enjoyed. At intervals during the afternoon Miss Mary F. Sherwood sang in her charming manner two groups of songs. In the evening the musical program included songs by Miss Sherwood and two violin solos by Miss Olive Whitley. Both young women are accomplished musicians and it is needless to say added much to the pleasure of the guests. Tea and chocolate were on sale both afternoon and evening, while from five until eight a chafing dish supper was served in the dining room. Those presiding over the chafing dishes were: Messrs. Dennison, Hatfield, Morton, Meserve, Gorton, Walworth, Mrs. Kelsey, and Mrs. A. R. Bailey, Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. A. H. Clifford, Mrs. A. P. Walker, Mrs. Elizabeth Barker, Mrs. Nathan and Mrs. F. E. Anderson, Veivison, Spanish woodcock, creamed oysters, rarebit, mushrooms and creamed those who partook of the delicious viands. Late in the evening much merriment was occasioned by the auction sale of left-overs. A substantial sum was secured to increase the amount already contributed to the Clafin Fund. The Federation feels greatly indebted to Mrs. Lowell for her generous hospitality.

Bad Fire

What proved the worst fire with which the department in this city has had to battle with in recent years broke out yesterday noon in the factory of the Leather Tire Goods company and the Acme broom works at Newton Upper Falls, entailing a loss estimated at $50,000. A strong westerly wind carried the flames to many dwellings in the vicinity. Although 13 other structures were ignited only one, the dwelling of C. Frank Osborne on High st., was badly damaged.

Although the exact cause of the fire is not known it is believed it started from sparks from under a boiler in the quarters of the broom works. Shortly before the noon hour the engine began burning rubbish under the boiler, and a short time afterward flames broke out in the rear of the first floor.

The building was a 2 1/2 story wooden structure and was one of the landmarks of Newton Upper Falls. The original structure was built in 1825. For many years it was used as a rubber mill. About a dozen years ago the structure was rebuilt. Less than two years ago the Leather Tire Goods company, owned by Charles B. Woodworth and Desmond Woodworth of Newton Highlands, was established and began the manufacture of automobile tire covers in the building. Later part of the old mill was leased by the Acme broom works.

The employees of both concerns were about to leave the mill for dinner when the fire was discovered. An alarm was sounded from box 617, and many of the employees and other residents of the vicinity immediately began to fight the flames with buckets.

The mill burned like tinder and Chief Walter B. Randlett had a general alarm sounded.

The firemen soon realized that it would be impossible to confine the flames to the mill, and they were forced to give much attention to dwellings in the neighborhood. The high wind carried sparks and embers a long distance, and although more than a dozen houses caught fire the department by hard work saved every dwelling except that of Mr. Osborne. An L. and the rear part of his dwelling was gutted, causing a loss of $1500. The family lost considerable clothing and furniture.

Some of the contents of the mill were saved at great risk by the firemen. The loss to the Leather Tire Goods company was estimated at $40,000, that of the Acme broom works at $5000 and the loss on the building itself at $40,000. It is stated that the loss is partly covered by insurance.

Besides the house of Mr. Osborne on High street the flames ignited the dwellings of Henry Tibbets, 109 High st.; Richard H. Adams, 132 High st.; John A. McKenzie, 103 High st., and then caught the houses of Thomas Furdon, 1304 Boylston st.; Mrs. John Hill, 1305 Boylston st.; William H. Kerrivan, 1284 Boylston st.; a dwelling owned by Walter Chesley on the same thoroughfare and the church of Yahveh, 1276 Boylston street.

Running along Chestnut street the flames caught the upper part of the houses of Mrs. Mary Leach, 954 Chestnut st.; Thomas F. Shaughnessy, 966 Chestnut street and Samuel A. Piper, 937 Chestnut street.

By drenching these buildings the firemen, assisted by a large crew of volunteers, extinguished the fires with only comparatively slight damage resulting, except to the Osborne house. Some idea of the fierceness of the wind may be gained by the fact that sparks and embers were blown to the premises of Fred W. Cobb, 49 Rockland place, fully a third of a mile away from the mill. Mr. Cobb's dwelling was not damaged, but a henhouse on the premises caught fire and burned flat.

The firemen fought the flames in the mill ruins all the afternoon. For a time it looked as though every house in the vicinity was doomed. Along Boylston, Chestnut and High streets many of the families moved out their household effects and prepared for a hasty flight.

While about every resident of the vicinity came to the assistance of the firemen in every way possible the women of the village, headed by Mrs. W. C. Estabrook and Mrs. H. A. Smith prepared large quantities of sandwiches and coffee for the firemen. Mrs. Estabrook and Mrs. Smith set up a commissary department in the lee of the fire between the mill ruins and the bank of the Charles river.

Besides being strong enough to carry the sparks a long distance the wind was a biting cold one. Whenever the firemen stopped work for a few minutes rest they suffered from the cold. Police Capt. Ryan and Sergt. Clay were on hand with a large detail of police, who rendered assistance to many families.

The burning of the mill will throw many workmen out of employment. It is stated that both concerns which occupied the structure will find quarters as soon as possible, but it is said that it is not likely that the mill will be rebuilt.

Annual Meeting

The 37th anniversary of Co. C, Fifth Regiment and the 13th Anniversary of the Claflin Guard Veteran Association was held Wednesday evening at the United States Hotel, Boston. At the business meeting, which preceded the dinner, these officers were elected, President Edward J. Leland; first vice president, Mr. Lewis R. Spear; second vice president, Frederic W. Turner; secretary, Col. Robert Ball Edes; treasurer, Major Walter E. Lombard.

The dinner which immediately followed was enlivened with music by Mr. E. W. Harrison and excellent speaking from the principal guests. Seated at the head table were President Frank O. Locke, Representative W. F. Garcelon, Alderman Thomas Weston Jr., Capt. G. F. Guilford, W. A. Wetherbee, Commander W. W. Montgomery, Chas. Ward Post G. A. R., Edward I. Leland and W. E. Lombard. Others at the tables were Col. Edes, Major A. C. Warren, Major F. P. Barnes, J. W. Hahn, W. E. Glover, J. I. Farwell, C. A. Balcom, J. R. Dugan, Col. Harry Hartley, F. A. Barrows, C. F. Barrows, A. H. Handley, H. J. McCammon, Wm. Warren, Richard Cunningham, F. W. Turner, A. R. Kilburn, A. C. Walworth, Judge J. C. Kennedy, Harold Daniels, Lieut. W. P. Locke, M. C. Laffie and Reuben Forknall.

Major Lombard was toastmaster and introduced Mr. Wetherbee who responded to the toast, "The Grand Army of the Republic," and Commander Montgomery for "Charles Ward Post."

Alderman Weston responded for the City of Newton giving some facts regarding the armory situation and the militia of colonial times. Representative Garcelon responded for the Commonwealth and pleaded for a greater interest in the militia, and gave some interesting facts regarding the appropriation of the state for the soldier. Capt. Guilford and Judge Kennedy also spoke, and Mr. Thomas Bibber told some humorous stories.

Channing Alliance

A pretty sale was held by the Channing Alliance in the parlors of Channing church last week Thursday evening. The tables and those in charge were as follows: apron, Mrs. E. M. Moore; useful articles, Mrs. S. W. Shepardson assisted by the Sewing Circle Committee; fancy, Mrs. J. B. Simpson; mystery, Miss Harriet W. Stevens; handicraft, Mrs. Mitchell Wing; candy, Miss Georgia Emery assisted by the post office mission committee; Japanese tea room, Miss Carolyn B. Brown and Miss Caroline Lowe, pianist, Miss Florence Murray; china and water color novelties, Mrs. F. S. Belding. A book book was a feature containing receipts contributed by members of the Alliance and compiled by Mrs. A. C. Mudge. A chicken pie supper was served under the direction of a committee headed by Miss Grace M. Burt and Miss Jessie M. Fisher. The decorations were in charge of the Misses Boyd and Miss Helen Shepardson.

The entertainment consisted of a series of living pictures given in the afternoon and repeated in the evening. The pictures were cleverly conceived and splendidly executed. Mr. Wetherbee as the Drummer Boy of the Revolution and little Gwendolyn Claflin as Good Night deserving special mention. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Helen Wells, Mrs. C. S. Emmons, Mrs. A. W. Blakemore and Mrs. R. W. Bartlett.

Newton League

Three matches were rolled in the bowling tournament Wednesday evening, Alston Golf taking two from Newton on the latter's alleys. While Newton beat Riverside at Riverside and Magnus beat Hunnewell at Wellesley, by the same score, three straight strings. A remarkable feature of the evening was the fact that two strings were tied, one at Newtonville and one at Riverside. Newton Boat now has a clear lead with 8 won and 2 lost, Magnus follows with 8 won, 4 lost, Newton, 5 won, 4 lost, Alston, 7 won, 5 lost, Riverside, 4 won, 8 lost, North Gate, 3 won, 6 lost, Hunnewell, 2 won, 7 lost.

Currency Legislation.

In view of the present financial situation the following article of Congressman John W. Weeks, reprinted from a recent number of "Government", will be of interest in this city.

The Fifty-ninth Congress did more talking than any of its predecessors, but it was industrious in other ways, for more bills were introduced, more considered and more passed than by any other Congress; neither was this legislation entirely trivial or of local significance. Much of it was of great importance, especially the legislation of a remedial character and that which showed the prevailing tendency to place greater power in the hands of the National Government.

Some of the more important bills which became laws were the so-called Rate Bill, to perfect legislation applying to railway corporations; the Pure Food Bill, which had been pending in many Congresses, but was finally adopted in such form that hereafter people ought to know just what they are eating and drinking; the Meat Inspection Bill, recommended on account of represented unhealthy and uncleanly conditions in the Chicago packing houses; the removal of the tax on denatured alcohol, which, it is believed, will provide a fuel which may revolutionize motive power and illumination; the Consular Reform Bill, which puts our Consular Service on a civil service and business-like basis; the National Quarantine Bill, extending National control over our whole Quarantine Service; and many other pieces of legislation of nearly, if not quite, equal importance.

Notwithstanding this unusual record, the Fifty-ninth Congress failed to pass some bills of the first importance, notably the so-called Ship Subsidy Bill and the bill providing for a credit currency. Both will appear in the Sixtieth Congress in some form, and it is the latter which I am to discuss briefly in this article. Before referring to it, however, it seems proper to speak of the legislation which was adopted relating to banking and currency matters.

All bills introduced affecting banks or the currency are referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency. This committee had for several years a rather unenviable reputation, due to the fact that it had been unable to agree on any legislation which was submitted to it. In fact, it had become common to refer to it as the Sixteen to One Committee (there being sixteen members), the sixteen to one reference meaning that if one member favored any particular banking or currency legislation, the other sixteen were quite likely to be opposed to it. In the Fifty-ninth Congress, however, this committee reported several measures, some of them unanimously, and two or three of them were finally adopted. The first, and, to the residents of the Eastern States, the least important, was a bill which had been frequently proposed and urged by certain interests to enable national banks to take farm mortgages as security for loans. From the Eastern man's standpoint there is no occasion for such legislation, for in all our Eastern States we have savings banks which are authorized, among other things, to make loans on real estate, and in many states there are trust companies and loan corporations organized for this special purpose; but in the thinly settled districts of the West and South there has been for many years a demand that legislation of this character be adopted. In some of these sections the state banks, as now organized, do loan on real estate, taking mortgages as security, and being able to do this they naturally compete successfully with the national banks. In these same sections, however, and in many sections where state banks do not exist, there are many small national banks. The business of these banks is very largely with the farmers. During the crop period the farmer is frequently obliged to borrow, either to put in his crop or to mature and harvest it. Heretofore the national bank could not secure itself by taking a mortgage, but must either take the farmer's single name note or insist on the farmer obtaining additional security in the shape of endorsements from his neighbors, or others. The committee decided that it was safe and business-like to allow national banks to loan ten per cent of their capital and surplus on security of this kind. This would be a very small percentage of the total assets of the average bank, and would not be sufficient, in any case, to tie up the bank's funds so that it would not be able to carry on its usual commercial business. The objections to this bill were two-fold: first, that it was class legislation, as the law only enables the bank to loan on farm lands; and second, that it is not the business of commercial banks to loan on such security as real estate mortgages. As these loans, however, can, by the terms of the bill, run only for one year, it did not seem to Congress that the objection in either case was serious, and the bill was passed.

A bill of much more importance was that known as the Aldrich Bill, which provided, first, that gold certificates of the denomination of ten dollars might be issued on the deposit of gold bullion of equal value, under the same conditions as had heretofore applied in issuing twenty-dollar notes and notes of larger denominations; and that silver certificates of the denomination of one and two dollars might be issued, under the same conditions as had heretofore applied to five-dollar silver certificates. The purpose of this legislation is perfectly apparent, and there was no serious objection to it.

A second feature of the Aldrich Bill provided that the amount of national bank circulation which could be retired in any one month should be increased from three millions, the amount fixed when the National Banking Act was passed; that under the present law it would take very nearly twenty years to retire the total amount of national bank circulation, even if none were taken out during that entire time, and that even under the proposed change not more than one-sixth of the total amount of outstanding circulation could be retired in a year; certainly not a large proportion, when the whole tendency of currency legislation is to provide an elastic currency to enable banks to furnish additional circulation in case of emergency. Frequently there is a great demand for additional circulation, but the national banks have hesitated about taking it out, even if it showed a profit at the time, on account of the difficulty in retiring it, for money conditions change so that it might not continue to show a profit. This provision of the Aldrich Bill will, in a measure, rectify this condition, and it seemed to me wise legislation, though it was vigorously opposed by a large element in both Senate and House.

The third provision of importance in the Aldrich Bill was the one which authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to deposit customs receipts in national banks without first requiring that they be deposited in the Treasury or in a Sub-treasury. Heretofore internal revenue receipts, forming nearly as large a proportion of the total revenues of the Government as customs receipts, have been deposited directly in the national banks if the Secretary of the Treasury so directed, and there seemed to be no good reason why this authorization should not also apply to customs receipts, for under the previous method it took a large amount of money out of the channels of trade temporarily, and frequently for long periods, while as authorized by the proposed law this need not be necessary. An illustration of previous methods will show the necessity for a change. The importer receiving goods at Port Townsend, Washington, was obliged to draw the actual money from the banks, pay it to the Collector of the Port, who, in turn, forwarded the money to San Francisco for deposit in the Sub-treasury. The national banks from which the money had been drawn, in order to recoup themselves shipped the money from San Francisco back to themselves. This necessitated paying express charges both ways, it took money from the channels of trade, and there was always the possibility of loss in transit. In a like manner the collector of customs at the Port of Tampa, Florida, was obliged to send his collections either to the Treasury at Washington, or the Sub-treasury at New Orleans, from which places the money was sent back to Tampa or to whatever point it had been drawn to pay the customs duties, causing similar expense and delay instanced in the previous case. Under the present law the Secretary of the Treasury may designate banks in Seattle, Port Townsend or some other point on Puget Sound, in which the Collector of Customs at Port Townsend may deposit his receipts. In the same way he may designate the banks in Tampa in which customs receipts may be deposited, keeping the money in that town, or in the State of Florida, preventing the unnecessary expense of transporting it back and forth. Although this provision of the Aldrich Bill was also opposed in both the Senate and House, the bill, finally, without serious change, became a law. But this legislation, wise as it seems, was only perfecting our present currency laws; there is no radical change in its provisions and no attempt to provide additional currency.

For many years there has been a feeling that there should be some method of providing additional currency, to be used during the crop-moving periods and other periods of stringency; a currency which might be, and quite likely would be, retired as soon as the emergency had passed. This matter was taken up seriously by the American Bankers' Association at its annual meeting in the city of St. Louis during the summer of 1906. As a result of the discussion at that meeting a Currency Commission of fifteen members was appointed, with authority to put in form and submit to Congress the substance of the views which had been expressed at the Convention. This commission was made up of representative bank men from all sections of the United States, men who had, without exception, given much study to this question, and they came to a unanimous agreement in the report which they made, which was submitted to Congress and referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency. This report proposed a plan for the issuing of national bank currency credit notes, the recommendations being in the following form:

Credit Bank Notes

First. Any national bank having been actively doing business for one year, and having a surplus fund equal to twenty per cent of its capital, shall have authority to issue credit notes as follows, subject to the rules and regulations to be determined by the Comptroller of the Currency.

(a) An amount equal to forty per cent of its bond-secured circulation, but not to exceed twenty-five per cent of its capital, subject to a tax at the rate of two and one-half per cent per annum upon the average amount outstanding. Provided, that if at any time in the future the present proportion of the total outstanding unsecured United States bonds to the total capitalization of all going national banks shall diminish, then the authorized issue of credit notes shall be increased to a correspondingly greater percentage of its bond-secured notes.

(b) A further amount equal to twelve and one-half per cent of its capital, subject to a tax at the rate of five per cent per annum upon the average amount outstanding in excess of the amount first mentioned.

The total of credit notes and bond-secured notes shall not exceed the capital.

Reserve

Second. The same reserves shall be carried against credit notes as are now required by law to be carried against deposits.

Guaranty Fund

Third. The taxes provided upon credit notes shall be paid in gold to the Treasurer of the United States, and shall constitute a guaranty fund for the redemption of notes of failed banks, and for the payment of the expenses of printing and the cost of redemption. In order that the Guaranty Fund may be ample from the beginning, any bank making application to take out credit notes for issue shall deposit with the Treasurer of the United States in gold an amount equal to five per cent thereof. The unused portion of this initial payment shall be an asset of the contributing banks respectively, and shall be refunded from time to time when this may be done without reducing the Guaranty Fund below an amount equal to five per cent of the credit notes taken out.

Redemption

Fourth. The Comptroller of the Currency shall designate numerous redemption cities conveniently located in the various parts of the country. Through the agency of the banks in such cities adequate facilities shall be provided for active daily redemption of credit notes.

Fifth. The provision of existing law limiting the retirement of bond-secured notes to $3,000,000 per month shall be repealed.

Sixth. All public moneys above a reasonable working balance, from whatever source derived, shall be currently deposited from day to day in national banks without requiring collateral security or special guaranty therefor, but in no case shall the balance carried with any bank exceed fifty per cent of the capital thereof. All banks receiving such public moneys on deposit shall pay into the United States Treasury interest thereon at the rate of two per cent per annum.

A bill was framed on the lines of the report submitted by the Currency Commission, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and protracted hearings were given by that committee at which members of the Currency Commission and many others appeared, generally in advocacy of the proposition, though there was some opposition developed. There was a radical difference of opinion in the committee on the merits of this legislation, varying from those who believe it is inflation pure and simple to those who believe it the wisest and soundest basis for issuing currency. A similar currency is used in Scotland, England, Germany, France and Canada and many other countries, in some of these countries it being the only currency in circulation, and generally speaking it has given good satisfaction; but owing to our diversified currency system it is not the wish of any considerable number of those who have considered the subject that this currency be issued for any other than emergency purposes and of course if it were issued purely and simply as an emergency currency and it were announced that it were issued to prevent a crisis, that very fact would be a warning to the business community that financial conditions were unsound, and would tend to create distrust and distress which might otherwise be avoided. Therefore, it seems to me essential that if such currency is to be issued it be done in due form and in such a way that it will naturally be redeemed as soon as the necessity for its issuance is past.

The points to be considered are elasticity, safety, a suitable tax and suitable methods of redemption. Referring to the first of these, elasticity, we have to turn to other countries for our guide, and it is safe to say that in every country where this currency has been used it has met this desideratum. In every instance which I have examined, notes of this character have adjusted themselves to the varying business requirements. In Germany five banks issue credit notes, and may issue a total of $130,000,000 without tax. Issues beyond this amount are taxed five per cent per annum. When notes are issued beyond the amount which can be issued without tax, it is looked upon as a response to commercial demands, and through the daily redemption methods in vogue such excess is rapidly retired.

The credit notes of France are not taxed, and the authorized issue, $1,000,000,000, has never been reached, probably because the volume of business in France has never required such a large amount. It has been found in France that the outstanding notes fluctuate daily and adjust themselves to the needs of commerce.

The credit notes of Canada are taxed to maintain a Guaranty Fund, and for that purpose only. The authorized issue is equivalent to the capital of the banks issuing them, and it has been found that the amount outstanding responds very quickly to business demands. At present the issue is practically up to the maximum limit, though ordinarily such condition obtains in the spring and fall.

In Scotland the currency system is very similar to that in Canada. One peculiarity of the automatic adjustment of the outstanding volume of its currency is that experience shows that the entire volume is redeemed every eighteen days, while in Canada the redemption of the entire outstanding currency takes thirty days.

Therefore, if we are to be governed by the instances referred to, we may assume that a credit currency will provide the elasticity which is so largely lacking in our present outstanding circulation.

The reasonable safety of this currency seems to be assured. During the operation of our present National Banking System, failed banks have had outstanding at the time of failure something over $17,000,000 of bond-secured notes. The total assets of these banks realized have been seventy-eight per cent of their liabilities. The tax upon circulation since the organization of the National Banking System, one per cent up to 1900, and one-half per cent since, would have realized on the total amount of notes which these banks had outstanding nearly $30,000,000, which would be at least eighteen times the amount required to cover such losses. In other words, a tax of one-eighth of one per cent would seem to be quite sufficient to cover any possible loss on account of the failure of a bank; and as no one has proposed a tax of less than two and one-half per cent, these notes would seem to be safe without question. As indicated in the report of the commission, the tax proposed was two and one-half per cent up to a limited issue, and five per cent for an additional issue of twelve and one-half per cent of the capital of the bank. In the bill reported by the Committee on Banking and Currency the tax on the original issue was placed at three per cent, and many members of the committee were in favor of making even this rate materially higher, and there was quite as much diversity of opinion on what constitutes a suitable tax as on any other feature of the bill. If we were to take the experience of other countries, a very small tax would seem to be sufficient to meet every contingency, but, in my judgment, this currency, if issued, should remain outstanding only as long as there is a business necessity for it, and I do not believe it would be retired, or entirely retired, under our complex banking system unless there were a decline in money rates to a figure lower than the tax. In this country we never see rates on commercial paper below three per cent, and very seldom below four per cent. Therefore, it seemed to me that the tax should be made at least four per cent, and possibly as high as five per cent, in which case there would be no doubt of the immediate retirement of these notes whenever the demand for them had ceased. If the rate were made five per cent, the cost to the issuing bank would be six and two-thirds per cent. If the rate were made four per cent, the cost to the issuing bank would be about five and one-half per cent, so that on the whole it would seem as if a tax of between four and five per cent would be a sufficient rate to impose. If banks are to make any considerable profit on this currency, they will naturally issue as much as possible and keep it out as long a time as possible; but if it is issued for the benefit of the business community, and not for the benefit of the bank, the bank will issue it only under stress and will retire it at the first opportunity. In issuing currency of this character we have a very different problem from that which obtains in other countries, for in the countries referred to there are comparatively few banks, but under the proposition which we are considering every national bank would be authorized to issue more or less, and therefore the question of redemption is one of the most difficult to meet satisfactorily.

It seems reasonable to assume that if it is profitable to issue these notes, no bank would ever pay out a competitor's note, but would send it in for retirement and issue its own note instead. Therefore, no bank would have to concern itself about retiring its own notes; so if we were considering these notes from the standpoint of a profit which they might give to the issuing bank, the whole incentive for retiring would be whether a bank receiving the notes of another bank could issue its own and make money by so doing. In this case, the lower the tax the greater would be the incentive for forcing in a competitor's notes; but if the purpose of the note is to furnish an emergency currency, without regard to the profit, it seems to me that the higher tax is the more desirable.

While primarily this is a banker's problem, it is, in fact, one which concerns every business man, and it is quite true that any additional cost, such as a high tax on this currency, would ultimately fall on the bank's customers rather than on the bank; but my experience is that the average business man wishes to be assured that in case of necessity he can get money to conduct his business. The rate may be burdensome for the time being, but he expects to buy the money his necessities require and pay the market price for it. His constant fear is that he will not be able to buy it at any price. Therefore, when the business community fully understands that there must be some other form of currency to meet every possible business contingency in this country, and that that form of currency should be such that it would be retired promptly when not needed, there will be such a demand for action that Congress will respond without delay with suitable legislation. And it is the part of wisdom that every business man consider this subject before the emergency arises, because action cannot be taken in a day, or month, and possibly not for a year if Congress does not happen to be in session. One of the weaknesses of our present hodge-podge currency system is that, in every case, when any part of our existing currency has been authorized, it has been the result, not of careful and mature consideration and preparation before the necessity arose, but has been caused by war necessities or commercial distress. My judgment is that nothing is more important or more essential to the stability of our commercial interests than that some suitable legislation of the character referred to in this article be adopted without any considerable delay.

The primary election results indicate but few contests at the coming city election, although there is still time for independent nominations to be made. The Republicans have chosen an admirable candidate for mayor in the person of ex-alderman George Hutchinson. His service at City Hall has made him familiar with municipal matters and his broad business experience, combined with an unusual public spirit, amply qualify him for the position of chief executive of our city. The Republican candidates for aldermen at large, with two exceptions, are members of the present board and further comment is superfluous. The nomination of Mr. Charles W. Leonard in ward 2 is excellent in every respect, and Mr. Miller is highly regarded in ward 4. For school committee the same policy has been followed and all the candidates are members of the present board, and here, again, further comment is unnecessary. For aldermen by ward, the Republicans endorse a Democrat William J. Doherty, whose course in the board has received the warmest commendations from his associates. Mr. Charles F. Avery, the candidate in ward 2, is the type of business man, Newton prefers to honor. Mr. Williamson in ward 3, who has been selected to make the fight against Alderman Condrin, is a business man who would add strength to the board, but we fear is hardly popular enough to defeat the present alderman in a ward so nearly Democratic as ward three. Alderman Converse, serving at present as alderman at large from ward 4 has been drafted to run for ward alderman against Alderman Lyons. Mr. Converse, we believe should have been slated for the nomination for alderman at large, as his business experience would be of value while the new Technical High school is under construction. It is possible of course to elect Mr. Converse as ward alderman, but the popularity of Alderman Lyons will leave the result in doubt until the last ballot is counted. Alderman Bacon in ward 5 and Alderman Day in ward 7 are strong candidates whose election is not in doubt for an instant. In ward 6 the friendly contest between Mr. George W. Pratt and Mr. Burton Payne Gray, was settled most decidedly in favor of the older man, whose election in December will follow as a matter of course. Mr. Pratt made a splendid showing for a young man, and we trust that the future will hold aldermanic honors for one who has shown such a large amount of public spirit.

The Democratic nomination for mayor goes to Mr. Thomas W. Proctor of Chestnut Hill, who has declined that doubtful honor, conferred by five votes. The party has made nominations for several offices but the candidates have little chance for election save for ward aldermen in wards 3 and 4 where the present aldermen are striving for reelection. Aldermen Condrin and Lyons can be elected, if the Republican vote fails to turn out—a contingency extremely likely to occur.

Bids for the construction of the proposed new Technical high school are being requested by the Public Buildings Commissioner and the probable cost will soon become public. In the meantime estimates ranging from $250,000 to $350,000 have been made and the subject is being viewed with hesitation by some of our prominent taxpayers. Taken by itself, there is good ground for an adverse opinion as to the present expediency in entering upon so large a project, and yet when it is known that the city has reached the point where another High School of some sort is absolutely needed, on account of the overcrowding of the present building, the mature deliberations of a competent tribunal are entitled to great weight.

Thanksgiving time and Hospital Sunday are closely associated in this city, and from the good work that the Hospital is doing, it should be a cause of thanksgiving all the year round, that the city has such an institution within its borders. At the same time it is not to be forgotten that the public should contribute to its support and the holiday season is best adapted to open the strings of the heart as well as of the purse. We do not deem it necessary to detail the many excellent reasons why everyone should add his mite to the Hospital Sunday fund, the facts are so manifest and the need so great that a bare notice that next Sunday is Hospital Sunday should be sufficient.

The action of the aldermen last week in authorizing a petition for the erection of a new armory under the provisions of law which become operative early next month is the sensible way to dispose of what might have otherwise become a troublesome question. The plan of rushing thru an order authorizing the immediate erection of an armory, in order to compel the state to assume the burden December second is not in accordance with the Newton manner of procedure.

Depositors in our local savings banks who contemplate withdrawing their money on account of the present unsettled financial conditions, are reminded that there has been a large increase in petty burglaries in the vicinity of Boston during the past few weeks. The banks are far safer custodians of money than old stockings and bureau drawers.

Attention is invited to an article on the Nonantum Day Nursery in another column.

The November meeting of the school committee was held Wednesday evening. Mr. Gorham presiding.

Mary A. Laselle was appointed a teacher in the Mason school for the balance of the school year.

The annual report of the committee was adopted and 2500 copies ordered printed. A petition was received from 150 persons in the Mason district requesting that the school sessions be changed to one session three days and two sessions for the remaining two days of the week. Supt. Spaulding reported that he had canvassed the district and found 80 per cent in favor and 20 per cent opposed to the change. The matter was assigned to the next meeting.

The Schoolhouse committee was authorized to contract for furnishing the two new schools now being constructed.

The Polymnia

The Polymnia gave its first guest night to associate members and friends on Monday evening at the home of Mr. J. G. Tompion, Otis street, Newtonville.

The program was a most pleasing one throughout and showed much careful work. Especial mention should be made of the work of the Polymnia. The marked advancement during the past year was noticeable, both in the delicate rendering of the Mendelssohn "Ave Maria", and in the dash and spirit of the "Beautiful Blue Danube". Great credit is due its members and to Miss Martinez, the director, whose masterly work at the piano gave delight to the audience. Her rendition of the "Romanza" from Mignon was thoroughly artistic and pleasing and was a notable number of the program.

The cello and violin solos, and the trio for strings (Miss Rosalind Kempton, violin, Mr. Prescott H. Wellman, cello, and Mrs. Albert P. Carter, piano) were notable features of the evening and deserved much praise. The program was supplemented by a piano solo by Miss Martinez "The Spinning Song" from "The Flying Dutchman", played by special request and rendered in a most delightful manner. Others taking part in the program were the Misses Cotton at the piano and Miss Partridge, who sang a group of songs. The Polymnia offer an opportunity for a few more associate members and the excellence of this first musical speaks well for the season's work.

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

Abstract of an address delivered before the New York State Federation by Mrs. Lorenzo P. Brown, of the Craftsman Workshop of Syracuse.

Can the children of my household believe in the honesty of my purpose if I surround them with gilt and spindle-legged furniture which was never meant for anything but to appear fine? Will they cluster about the table of chilly marble to do their lessons in the early evening hours, or, later in life, look longingly back upon a home where jarring colors and perishable stuffs made them long for freedom?

No amount of tastefully arranged furniture can animate that room and make it homelike until some one has entered it to stay, some one who will put into it a human interest.

You are fully aware that every object in the home, whether of wood, metal, or fabric, should have a reason for being there; that in its structure and ornamentation the material of which it is made should be the first consideration. You do not need to be told that cross-stitch embroidery is bad art when employed upon a fabric where a weave does not plainly suggest it; that to glue impossible ornaments on your furniture is equally bad; that a chair which is better fitted for some other purpose than to sit upon may be well made and beautifully ornamented, but is still not a good chair because it lacks the first essential of its being; that a lamp intended merely for ornament and useless for lighting purposes is not good art, because it is false. You know also that gold wall paper is not a friendly or becoming background for the various members of your family whom you really wish to see in the best possible setting, and that you have but to turn to Nature herself for her color schemes.—Federation Bulletin.

Mrs. P. S. Peterson, Chairman. Suggestions to the Club Women of the United States.

I. Make the grounds around your own home as attractive as possible. Study local needs. Endeavor to improve the condition and increase the number of trees in your own vicinity.

Encourage systematic planting of street trees and their protection from injury.

Plant shade-trees on all roadsides leading into the country. Observe Arbor Day with appropriate exercises.

Secure the planting of Memorial and Anniversary trees, also seed and berry bearing trees and shrubs for the native birds.

Encourage study of native trees, their characteristics and value.

Strive to have your town or city acquire for park purposes, tracts of land adjacent, both open and wooded, especially those having undisturbed timber growth upon them. Within these parks Nature should be left unrestrained as far as possible, and the preservation of wild plant life a dominant feature.

II. Every Club now without a Forestry Committee is earnestly requested to appoint one.

In discussing the forestry question in the clubs, emphasize, not simply the aesthetic and human sides, but the economic and utilitarian.

Urge the need of forest preservation, protection, and scientific handling, and the prime importance of public ownership and administration of forest lands, notably those controlling stream flow.

III. See that the fact is made clear that the question of forestry includes the two great questions of wood and water, wood constituting one of our most indispensable resources, and water, upon which largely depends the success of agriculture, commerce, and manufacturing, being immediately related to the maintenance of forest cover on hill and mountain slopes. Note also the connection between forests and the public health.

IV. Urge the clubs to study forestry, and to see that books on forestry are included in Travelling Libraries and brought to the notice of the clubs. Have books on forestry added to all local libraries and periodical literature secured for reading-rooms, etc.

A list of books and Forest Service Bulletins will be sent on application. The American Forestry Association will supply libraries with the Proceedings of the American Forestry Congress (a one-dollar book) for the cost of postage and packing,—twenty cents.

V. The Forest Service at Washington will advise, assist and co-operate with clubs or individuals working along forestry lines.

VI. The American Forestry Association, with a membership of over six thousand, desires to publish in its monthly magazine, Forestry and Irrigation, reports of the work the women's clubs are doing in the line of forestry, and to co-operate with the clubs in all practicable ways for the promotion of the forestry movement. Among the ways suggested are arranging lectures, distributing literature, writing Congressmen concerning proposed legislation, and enlarging the membership of the Association.

VII.

Outlines for programs and suggestive subjects for papers will be sent on application to Mrs. P. S. Peterson, Chairman, Lincoln and Peterson Avenues, Chicago, Illinois.

The local management is making the Newton Women's Exchange, 275 Washington street very attractive to the women of this vicinity. Representatives from the neighborhoods of the different Newtons are actively engaged in getting consignments of artistic merit and practical worth in readiness for the holiday demand. The Exchange also serves as a central meeting place for busy women, where they can write a note or meet a friend.

The following officers are in charge: President, Mrs. Frank A. Pickernell; vice president, Mrs. John T. Lodge; urer, Mrs. Edwin T. Fearing; director, Mrs. Edward T. Fearing; directors, Mrs. Charles M. Boyd, Miss Adams, Miss Henry, Mrs. Edward P. Tuttle, Mrs. William H. Lucas of Newtonville, Mrs. A. Stuart Pratt of West Newton, Mrs. Converse of Auburndale.

New Parish House

Trinity church while being one of the smaller Episcopal parishes of the city is nevertheless a flourishing one. The church is situated on Center street at the corner of Homer, a short distance from Commonwealth avenue. It is proposed to build the parish house on the lot adjoining, with the end of the building facing Homer street.

The first story of the parish house will be of concrete with timbered stucco above. It will be built in harmony with the church edifice, which it is also proposed to enlarge.

While the parish house will be one story and basement, like the church, the lower floor will have windows on all sides. This floor will provide commodious rooms for the Woman's auxiliary, the vestry and the Men's club. The quarters of the Men's club will have an attractive fireplace. There will be serving, boiler and storage rooms.

The entire main floor will be made into a hall having a seating capacity of 200, with stage of ample size. The high roof will form the ceiling. A one-story passageway will provide for communication to the basement of the church, which has heretofore been used for supporters and entertainments.

Day Nursery

It may even yet surprise some Newton people to be told that there is a very needy home mission field within the limits of our own city. But such is the case. We have a considerable population of foreign peoples, settled for the most part in the north end of the city, and presenting as many problems as the writer has ever seen in larger cities.

The North Church is doing a good work, but the presence in the community of so many foreigners makes it imperative that there should be a social effort that does not bear a church label. The Boys' Club and the Girls' Club have been, and are doing a most important work. Last of all, the Nonantum Day Nursery, has been established and has been rendering a splendid service.

Here the widow, deserted or hard working mother, may leave her young children as she goes to work and be sure that they will be well cared for. Here the older children come for dinner, and for the hours after school. The writer has just left there for dinner, four boys, children of a deserted mother, who otherwise would have had only such scanty lunch as they themselves could have found in their cold, bare rooms.

The nursery is fast becoming a social centre. Miss Turner, at its head, is an experienced worker, thoroughly active to the needs of the community, and equipped to grapple with them.

This is a work which has a right to expect our united support. No denominationalism enters into it. It is a work for citizenship and humanity, in which we all can engage. We have at our very doors a chance to do something to solve the problems of immigration, poverty and public morality.

The nursery needs $150 a month. It would seem as if each of our four churches in Newton could support the work for at least a month. If any one doubts whether this investment is worth while, let him visit the nursery.

Visit the Nursery at 281 Watertown street, Nonantum, or interview any of these officers: Mrs. J. P. Tolman, president, West Newton; Miss Grace Weston, vice president, Newton; Mrs. G. H. Wilkins, secretary, Newtonville and Mrs. Rebecca Sherman, treasurer, Newtonville.

(Rev.) J. T. Stocking.

Campaign Costs

"Nothing paid to anyone at any time," was the statement of election expenses filed at city hall by Representative William F. Garcelon, republican candidate for representative from this city.

Representative E. B. Bishop paid $25. He made one payment, which was turned over to W. L. Sanborn, treasurer of the ward 6 republican committee on Sept. 25.

Representative John F. Lothrop also paid $25 for his election expenses. He made two payments. One of $15 was made to the republican state committee Oct. 28 and another of $10 was turned over to the Republican Club of Newtonville the same day.

The campaign of Charles S. Dennison of Newtonville, who was defeated for senator in the 1st Middlesex district by James H. Vahey of Watertown, in one of the closest contests known in years in the district, cost Mr. Dennison $631.81. Sums aggregating this amount were paid in three amounts, Oct. 8 he turned over $100 to the republican state committee, Oct. 28 he gave the Dennison club of Framingham $200 and on Nov. 11 he paid the Dennison club $331.81 additional.

Solon W. Bingham of this city, who was candidate for secretary of state on the prohibition ticket, paid $25 to the prohibition state committee Oct. 10.

One Express That Made Good

"It's not my nature to be a knocker," asserted a sarcastic commuter as he counted fence pickets from his seat in an inward-bound train on the you-know-what railroad, "and I believe that honest effort on the part of the employees of this road should receive praise and not condemnation," says Bud Brier in the Globe.

Getting no noticeable rah-rahs from his hearers he continued: "Yes, I think that when an engineer does more than is expected of him he ought to be given a better job. Last night I caught a train from the South station that made its exit as if it meant business. It was labeled express to Newton, but the best of it was that it really made good. Why, we were the happiest-looking crowd ever seen on one of their trains. Some one cheered when the engineer refused to make the customary stop at that Commonwealth-av livery stable.

"Yes, it certainly was an express. We flew through Allston and Brighton and approached Newton at a great old clip. Then we heard the brakes grip and the train came to a reluctant stop. It was so dark that we could see but little, nothing more, in fact, than a stone wall. What had happened? Why, the engineer had tried to make time so hard that he had forgotten all about the stopping game, and had dumped us about 100 yards beyond the Newton station. And yet the common people grumbled, my friends. To be sure, they had to walk back over the ties, but what of that? For my part, I think the engineer ought to be given a boost."

Correct Fall Styles in Raincoats now being shown at Prescott Bros. Rubber Store, 159 Summer St., Boston. Their elegant show window is the attraction of this part of the city, and passers-by to and from the South Station can easily make selections from the large and varied assortment at reasonable prices.

St. Bernard's Aid

An excellent entertainment was given last Friday evening in Mague hall, West Newton, by the St. Bernard's Aid Society, under the direction of Mr. James R. Condrin.

There was an audience which packed the hall to its capacity. The first part of the program consisted of many moving pictures depicting subjects comic, serious and picturesque. Fred A. Randall sang several solos "with pictures," and John J. Henley was pianist.

The latter part of the evening was given over to the original sketch, "A Modern Sewing Society," in which the parts were cleverly played by Miss Bertha Neagle, Miss Sarah Clancy, Miss Julia A. Francy, Miss B. T. McGrath, Miss Mollie Nolan, Miss Anastacia R. Peters, Miss Nellie Duncan, Miss Annie Fanning, Miss Jennie Kneeland, Miss Kathleen Nolan, Miss Louise Hargeden, Miss Agnes Hargeden, Miss Agnes Kneeland and Miss Minnie Connelly. What transpired in the meeting kept the audience in continual merriment. The participants lost no opportunity to work in local hits.

The officers of St. Bernard's aid society are Miss Margaret T. Caine pres, Miss Julia A. Francy vice pres, Miss Anastacia R. Peters fin sec, Miss B. T. McGrath rec sec, Miss Mary J. Hargeden treas. The trustees are James R. Condrin, Bernard D. Farrell and Daniel J. Kneeland.

Real Estate

Henry H. Read has leased Mr. Charles C. Kearns new house situated corner Parker and Stearns street, Newton Centre, to Mr. Henry C. Hunt who moves from Newton.

Auto Burned

Fire broke out in the small, wooden garage of Charles J. Brown, 113 Washington street, Hummelville, shortly after 7:30 Friday night, destroying the building and a Packard automobile owned by Mr. Brown and valued at $3500.

A short time earlier the family noticed a grass fire in the rear of the house but thought little of it. The next thing they knew the garage was in flames. When the fire reached the gasoline in the machine there were two explosions, the second one being so severe that it was felt throughout the vicinity.

An alarm was sounded from box 112. While the apparatus was making its way up the hill John F. Flood of 371 Washington street climbed onto an L of the dwelling house and with a garden hose kept the fire from spreading to that building. He was forced to jump because of the heat just as the firemen got several streams on the blaze.

Tax Rate

The rate of taxation in Newton is less than the average rate for the cities and towns within the metropolitan district and barring such rich places as Nahant, Brookline and Milton, is the lowest of the most desirable residential cities in Eastern Massachusetts. The rate, $16.40 is the same as last year, notwithstanding large increases in the state and metropolitan assessments.

The 1907 rate in neighboring cities and towns is as follows: Arlington, $18.80; Belmont, $18.60; Boston, $15.91; Brookline, $10.80; Cambridge, $18.80; Chelsea, $20.80; Dedham, $16.80; Everett, $18.50; Hyde Park, $17.00; Lexington, $20.60; Malden, $18.00; Medford, $20.00; Melrose, $17.00; Milton, $11.20; Nahant, $9.00; Quincy, $19.70; Revere, $22.00; Somerville, $17.40; Waltham, $16.70; Wellesley, $12.00; Winchester, $17.80; Winthrop, $17.70; Weston, $8.70.

Cavite, Philippine islands, is to have an electric light and power plant at an early date.

THEATRES

Orpheum—Quality vaudeville of the highest quality has been breaking all records at the Orpheum this season, but the program outlined for the week of Nov. 25 must take precedence as the choicest offering yet submitted at that big playhouse. The favorites everywhere, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew and company comprise the headline feature with their one act classic "Billy's Tombstones," an original farce by Kenneth Lee. The wonderful performing Gillette's Dogs, appeal to grown-ups as well as children because of the marvelous sagacity of the canines. Dave Genaro and Ray Bailey and company in "Tony, the Bootblack" will make their last appearance in Boston vaudeville. The Le Brun Grand Opera Trio in selections from "Il Trovatore," the most polished singing act on the variety stage, is another of the big features. The trio is headed by Mlle. Antoinette LeBrun, formerly leading soprano of the Italian Grand Opera Company of New York, and the Savage English Grand Opera Company. Billy Clifford and his hat, not to say anything of a bright sparkling monologue, will also be welcome Orpheum visitors next week. The Eight Bedouin Arabs, those whirlwinds of the desert who have created so much talk; Haynes and Johnson, Tom Moore, Shields and Paul, and the kinetograph, are also on the same program.

Park Theatre—This week the only really important change in the theatres was the introduction to Boston playgoers of Henry Arthur Jones' great play, "The Hypocrites," which Charles Frohman presents at the Park Theatre for a run. As a complete study in elegant and forcible dialogue, Mr. Jones' play is a model. It is a play which raps powerfully at the heart's door—a splendid play that cannot be pondered over without enlargement of benevolent inclination, without humane sincerity and toleration and without a fine uplifting sentiment as a reward. It is probably the greatest play that Mr. Jones has ever written. Mr. Jones' hypocrites for the most part do not cringe or sneak in their plotting against right and heaven. They are agreeable hypocrites, elegant hypocrites, polite and unscrupulous as Gagliostro. Clear, trenchant dialogue carries the various scenes to an exciting close and to the superbly dramatic climax that is at the end of the third act. Richard Bennett surprised all of his friends with his magnificent portrayal of the curate hero and Jessie Millward has lost none of her charm for her interpretation of Mrs. Wilmore, is absorbingly delightful, and too she wears such beautiful clothes. Helen Tracy, Mabel Morrison, Louis Massen, Arthur Elliot, J. R. Crawford, Olive Temple, W. H. Denny and Donald MacLaren gave creditable account of themselves. Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given during the engagement at the Park and there will be an extra matinee Thanksgiving Day.

Keith's Theatre—A holiday week always brings a holiday bill to Keith's. Bransby Williams will present a new series of his remarkable character types from Dickens. One of the big hits in Boston theatricals last season was the presentation of George Ade's very bright sketch, "Mrs. Peckham's Carouse," by May Irwin. This season it is in the hands of Flo Irwin and company, and both sketch and players have been highly complimented wherever it has been played. Stuart Barnes, with his bright songs and smart sayings; the Majestic Musical Four, whose instrumental selections have a comedy accompaniment; Clayton Kennedy, pianologist, comedian and dancer, and Mattie Rooney, as cute a sonnette as can be named, in a lively skit; and Ha Grannan, a pretty and talented comedienne, will all have places on the list. Europe will furnish two remarkable "sight acts" in the Picchiani Troupe of marvellous tumblers, and Lina Marriard, "The Golden Amazon," whose equestrian act is much out of the ordinary. The Rinaldos, hoopologists; Robertson and Funchette, in a bunch of songs and dances; Ellen Richards, wire performer; L. A. Street, with novelties in juggling, and the Kinetograph will complete the show. An extra performance will be given Thanksgiving from 10 A. M. until 1 P. M. particularly for the children. All of the big acts will take part, assisted by the full orchestra, a special scale of prices with the best seats at 50 cents, will be in force.

Grand Opera House—"Bunco in Arizona," a new play by Miss Lillian Mortimer, the popular author-actress, in which she will be seen in the title of "Bunco," will be the Thanksgiving week attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House. The James L. Veronee Amusement Company, who are the managers and producers of all Miss Mortimer's plays, have spared no expense in making "Bunco in Arizona" the finest, and most realistic western comedy-drama ever presented before the public. Aside from the regular cast of actors Manager Veronee has arranged with the agent of an Indian reservation for a number of thorough full-blooded Indians direct from their hunting grounds and he has also engaged a number of expert cowboys with their bronchos who have spent their life-time on the rolling prairie. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday—Thanksgiving Day, and Saturday.

Advice to Boston

(From the Springfield Union.)
If Boston is in need of a commission Government it is a good deal worse than we are yet ready to believe. Such Government is fit only for an emergency which requires extraordinary measures, when the people find that they are temporarily unable to rule themselves. Backed by tremendous public sentiment and the necessities of the occasion, it can be made effectual at such a time. To hold commission Government up as a fetish, having supernatural powers in itself, apart from particular circumstances, is to fall into a state of mental confusion which is unfortunate but altogether too common.

Of course, the small grafters who are new enconced on the sunny side of the city treasury will fight against the commission system, but that does not prove the virtue of that system. It merely shows that they dread an upheaval and that they suspect that government by commission would make graft, like many other things, more select and exclusive in its beneficiaries. It would, at least, cause a shakeup, and while a commission might eventually appreciate the services of small grafters, the ranks which are now held by defenders of the present regime would perhaps be filled by others.

There is no special virtue in the commission system. In its best, it is alluring but deceiving. In its worst, it is the least desirable form of Government, for its injustices are harder to reach and remedy. If Boston cannot elect one good mayor, how is it going to choose and retain in office five courageous, able and honest commissioners? We do not believe that the citizens of Boston will be fooled by the blandishments of the commission system. Instead, let them try this fall the remedy of choosing a Republican mayor and overturning the present Board of Aldermen.

Forknall-MacAdams

The wedding of Miss Margaret MacAdams and Mr. Edward Everett Forknall took place last Tuesday evening at the home of the bride, 67 Morse street, Newton. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. Charles Day of the Baptist church, Watertown. The bride couple preceded by the bridesmaid and best man, entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Olive Forknall, assisted by Mr. Fuller, violinist. They were married under an arch of white chrysanthemums and asparagus vine. The bride was gown in white Swiss muslin, over white silk, cut en traine. Her wedding veil was caught up with white rose buds, and she carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid, Miss Sadie MacAdams, sister of the bride was dressed in white silk and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The best man was Mr. J. P. MacKenzie of Newton. A reception followed until ten o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Forknall being assisted in receiving by Mrs. MacAdams and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Forknall. The guests were presented by Messrs. Thomas MacAdams of Newton and LeRoy O. Fuller of Waltham.

Many beautiful wedding presents were on exhibition during the evening. A wedding supper was served and the happy couple started on a trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Forknall will reside in Newton and will be at home after January first.

The Japanese Girl

"The Japanese Girl," a picturesque operetta, was successfully presented by West Newton young people before a large audience Thursday and Friday evenings of last week in the clubhouse of The Players on Washington street. It was the first of a series of entertainments which will be given the present season. The cast:

O Hanu San—Miss Sanderson.
O Kiti San—Miss M. Linnell.
O Kiti San—Miss Stimets.
Chaya—Mrs. Furush.
Nora Twinn—Mrs. Bell.
Dora Twinn—Miss Curtis.
Minerva Knowall—Miss Zeller.
Chorus—Mrs. Hodson, Mrs. Nowers, Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Denton, Mrs. Earl, Miss H. Linnell, Miss G. Sanderson, Miss Hulme, Miss Fish, Miss Stanton, Miss Wells, Miss Denton, Miss Symonds.

The operetta dealt with a custom prevalent in Japan. When a near relative has to be absent for a considerable period he often leaves a growing plant, a tree or a singing bird which is called by his name and regarded as his substitute. The first act opened with a number of Japanese girls visiting O Hanu San, who was about to celebrate her 18th birthday. In the second act two English girls touring Japan with their governess were impelled by curiosity to enter the garden and while their governess was sketching they slipped away. The Japanese girls upon returning pretended to resent the intrusion. O Hanu San came to the rescue and invited the English women to remain for the birthday celebration.

The "celebration" gave an opportunity for a number of typical Japanese songs, there being 19 musical numbers in all. The performance was under the direction of Miss Lina S. Williams and F. W. Archibald. Miss Bell was pianist and there was an orchestra of eight pieces.

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

Seldom has a larger and more appreciative audience greeted a speaker at the Social Science Club than welcomed Prof. H. H. Powers on Wednesday morning. Prof. Powers' subject was, "The Place and Prospects of Art in America," and he treated it in a much broader manner than had been anticipated. Art, he said, is a broader thing than mere pictures and statues. It develops along two stages, the utilitarian phase and the aesthetic phase. The race that is strictly utilitarian might just as well be stricken out of existence. The fruit of our toil should come to us as a joy. The thing made for the love of the doing has in it the true standard of art. Material wealth is necessary to the development of art, without a surplus art is impossible. Until we get rich we can't have an art. The question should be, Shall I use my surplus to develop character or to develop corruption and decay? The aesthetic development has the supreme place in the evolution of a nation. Now what form is it going to take in America? Nations seldom duplicate each other or seldom develop all phases of art. He then showed how little along the conventional lines of music, painting, sculpture and drama has America really accomplished. We are not likely to duplicate the art of any other country. Our art ideals are unique. They will develop into something we do for the love of the doing. Art is always closely related to the other activities of life. To him the co-operative instinct of the American people is to be their standard of art. He asked the question, What is the most beautiful thing in Newton? Is it this or that building, this or that natural beauty? Go stand on one of the railroad bridges and watch the sweeping curves of the four tracks of the railroad, and express train as it thunders past; the enormous creative instinct that has made that possible was to him the most beautiful thing in Newton. The art temper of our day will manifest itself in these great constructive industrial things.

The discussion that followed the lecture was full of interest and many additional points were brought out.

There will be no meeting of the club next week.

On Nov. 18 the Monday Club met with Mrs. Martell. It was a "home reciprocity" afternoon. Each member was invited to bring her pet recipe and her pet economy. These covered a wide range, from soups to desserts. It certainly was a profitable afternoon and many requested to have it repeated in the near future. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Bartlett, Jackson street, Newton Centre. Topic: "Thanksgiving in the olden time."

The Review Club of Anburndale met with Mrs. Frank C. Haddock, on Tuesday morning, November 12. The subject of the meeting was "French Painting of the 17th and 18th Centuries." Papers were read by Mrs. Samuel Dike, Mrs. VanVogten and Mrs. M. E. Heron.

The club will continue the study of French painting on November 26, at the home of Mrs. Guy M. Winslow, 145 Woodland road.

The Newton Equal Suffrage League held a novel entertainment on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, West Newton. The amusement of a "Dutch Tea" conveyed little to the initiated, but upon the guests were soon informed for they were greeted by ladies in quaint Dutch costume. Whist, both plain and bridge, under the direction of Mrs. F. D. Sampson and Mrs. Langley was enjoyed by a large number of ladies. The trophies, bowls of yellow ribbon, were carried off by Miss Minnie Wheeler and Miss Boynton. In addition to the whist there was a sale of aprons, handkerchiefs, cake and candy. The apron table was presided over by Mrs. G. D. Byfield. Mrs. W. A. Clark and Mrs. L. A. Brown; the cake table by Mrs. W. D. Frong and Mrs. E. D. Young; the candy by Mrs. S. I. Eaton and Mrs. J. W. Crowell, assisted by Miss Hasbrook and Miss Gorton. During the afternoon instrumental music by Miss Marjorie Rice, violin, and Miss Florence Carter, piano, under the direction of Mrs. Barker, added much to the pleasure of the guests. After the playing was over the ladies adjourned to the dining room where Dutch tea was served by Mrs. A. L. Bailey and Mrs. Collins assisted by Mrs. G. A. Simonds, Mrs. Jackson, Miss G. A. Simonds, Mrs. W. A. Clark, Mrs. W. D. Frong and Miss Wales. Mrs. W. B. Simonds and Miss West revealed many unusual and unexpected fates. Several new members were added to the list and a number of women were induced to register, while a substantial sum was added to the treasury, as the result of an attractive and enjoyable affair.

A Sad Affair

Illness caused Mrs. Jessie F. Hedges, aged 32, wife of William T. Hedges, a traveling salesman, to commit suicide and take the lives of her two children, William F., aged 11 years, and Butler T., aged 6 years, by turning on the gas and closing the windows and door of a spare sleeping room in their home, 20 Lowell avenue, Newtonville, Wednesday night. The three bodies were found lying in the bed yesterday morning by Miss Catherine McIntosh, a servant, who started to search for the family when they did not come down stairs for breakfast, and who immediately called in a neighbor Mr. A. H. Terrill.

Dr. George H. Talbot was called at once and found that the woman and boys were beyond human assistance.

Medical Examiner George L. West found that deaths of all three were caused by asphyxiation. Not only had the door and windows been securely closed, but the hole of the door had been stuffed with a bit of paper. The one gas jet in the bed room was turned on full.

Mr. Hedges, who had been away since Tuesday was located in Westfield by means of his route list which Mrs. Hedges had written out on a pad beside the telephone.

The Hedges family came to Newtonville two years ago last spring from Mansfield, O., and Mrs. Hedges appear-

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The annual Thanksgiving food sale, given by the Woman's Auxiliary will be held at the Association rooms from 2.30 to 5 P. M. Saturday Nov. 23. Most everything that is good to eat can be obtained. Come early and get your choice of the dainties.

The basketball teams play at Cambridge Thursday evening and at Brockton on Thanksgiving day. J. A. Wilson has been chosen acting captain of the first team and Walter Connors of the second.

Each Monday evening a Bible class led by Mr. Maynard is held in the rooms. The discussions hinge on the parables of Jesus. Supper is served at 6:15 and the class meets at the close. Any young man who would like to join this class will be welcome.

The Sunday afternoon meetings for boys and young men are interesting. Good speakers give the addresses which are adapted to the needs of young men. The boys meet at 3:30 and the young men at 4:15.

The International Convention at Washington Nov. 22 to 26 will be of great interest to all Association members. This convention meets once in three years and many questions relating to the policy of the Association Brotherhood are settled. The best speakers in the country have been secured to address the convention among whom are Hon. J. A. MacDonald of Toronto, William J. Bryan, Dr. Chas. Parkhurst, Ambassador James Bryce, Governor Glenn of North Carolina, Robert Watchorn and Robert E. Spier. Those who have been chosen to represent the Newton Association are S. M. Sayford, Allan C. Emery, C. L. Ellison, Franklin W. Ganse and H. W. Bascom.

The First Aid class under the teaching of Dr. M. E. Gleason is learning to give first aid in case of accident. This is an opportunity which ought to interest a large number. Inquire at the office for information.

The first indoor athletic meet of the season will be held Wednesday Nov. 27. A large entry list is expected.

Organ Recital

Next Monday evening Mr. John Hermandt, F. A. G. O. will give his 22nd free organ recital in First Baptist church, Newton Centre, assisted by the soprano soloist of the church, Miss Adalyn Riley. The program is as follows: Third Sonata in A—Mendelssohn.
a. Con moto Maestoso.
b. Un poco meno forte.
c. Andante tranquillo.
Offertoire in C—Clausmann.
Soprano solo "Hear ye Israel" from Elijah—Mendelssohn.
Nocturne in A flat—Horatio Parker.
"On Wings of Music"—Mendelssohn.
"The Nightingale has a Lyre of Gold"—Whitpley.
Canticle—Wheeldon.
Grand Chœur—Wheeldon.

Stubborn Fire

A stubborn fire broke out shortly before 8:30 Sunday morning in the coal sheds of A. Brackett & Son, 564 Washington street, causing a loss of about $3,000. It is believed that sparks from a locomotive on the main line of the Boston & Albany railroad started the blaze. Several tons of baled hay were stored in the sheds, and many of the bails were partly burned. A number of wagons that were in the lower part of the sheds were also partly burned. The flames spread to a box freight car which was on a siding and badly scorched it. For about two hours the firemen had a hard fight in extinguishing the fire. It is said the loss is partly covered by insurance.

Funeral of George E. Alden

The funeral of George E. Alden, who died at the age of 74 after a three months' illness, having been engaged in the West India trade for half a century, took place at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the family home, 547 Center street.

The service was conducted by Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, pastor of Channing church, who spoke highly of Mr. Alden's character and business ability. There were many floral offerings, and the service was attended by many former business associates. Burial was made in the Newton cemetery.

High School Notes

The tennis team took two out of three singles matches and one match in doubles from the Wellesley high tennis team at the Neighborhood club courts, West Newton, Monday afternoon. Wellesley's players were good on defensive work and it was only by hard playing that the Newton team won out. The summary: Singles.
Holbrook, Newton, beat T. Shepard, Wellesley, 6-2, 7-5.
Paul, Newton, beat P. Shepard, Wellesley, 6-2, 8-6.
Whitney, Wellesley, beat Wood, Newton, 7-5, 6-3.

Doubles.

Wood and Paul, Newton, beat T. Shepard and Whitney, Wellesley, 7-6.

Shapleigh-Galt

Roger Wentworth Shapleigh of Newton, and Miss Serine Mayer Galt of St. Louis, Mo., were married last week Thursday evening in the First Congregational church, Colorado Springs, Col., Rev. James B. Gregg, the pastor, formerly of Boston, officiating. The church was well filled with guests, relatives and friends of the couple, including the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. W. Shapleigh and his sister, Miss Alice Shapleigh of Newton.

The bride was gowned in white duchesse satin en princess, with a bertha of rose point lace and carried lilies of the valley and maiden hair ferns. Miss Alice Shapleigh as maid of honor was gowned in pink crepe de chine and carried pink chrysanthemums. Alexander Galt, a brother, attended the bride. After the ceremony a supper was given.

Mr. Shapleigh left Newton two years ago. He is a mining engineer. The bride is of an old and wealthy St. Louis family, the daughter of Mrs. Smith P. Galt of 63 Vandeventer place. Her mother and three brothers were present. Mr. and Mrs. Shapleigh will live in Colorado Springs.

Dartmouth Music

The glee, mandolin and guitar clubs of Dartmouth college made their first appearance this season in greater Boston at a concert last Friday evening in Temple hall, Newtonville. There was a large audience and the various numbers were well received.

The glee club opened the program with Cleon's march, "Onward." These numbers were then rendered: "Popularity", mandolin club; reading, A. C. Keough; selection by quintet, Messrs. Rugg, Smith, Prentice, Badger and Watson; "Lock Lamond", glee club; "Red Mill", mandolin club; "The Longshoreman", glee club; cornet solo, C. C. Warren; "Big Chief Battle Ax", mandolin club; reading, Mr. Keough; Hayover winter song, glee club. The last number was the Dartmouth song.

Police Paragraphs

"I plead guilty of assault in self defence," said John W. Brown, aged 19, who lives at 40 Winchester street, Newton Highlands, when arraigned in the police court Monday morning on a charge of assault of James Tylor, a colored young man.

Testimony brought out the assertion that Brown and Tylor's mother-in-law had an altercation in the Mt. Zion Baptist church (colored) at West Newton last week Thursday, and that when Brown came out of the church he and Tylor came to blows. Brown was fined $10.

Inspectors Fletcher and O'Halloran returned Sunday from New York, bringing Harry S. Ashton, aged 31, a waiter who said his home was at 129 Cedar street, New York, and who is charged with larceny of jewelry from a Newton Centre dwelling.

It is alleged that less than a fortnight ago Ashton stole several rings valued at about $300 from the house of R. C. Whitmore, 12 Irving street. Ashton, it is alleged, called at the house one day and asked for food. The police say that while he was eating a breakfast in the kitchen he took advantage of the temporary absence from the room of members of the family and stole several rings. The police assert that they traced him to Worcester on a freight train, then to New Haven and from that city to New York. One of the rings is said to have been Mrs. Whitmore's wedding ring. The police believe they have located the place where Ashton is said to have pawned the jewelry. In court Monday morning, Ashton pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the House of Correction for 4 months.

Campaign Costs

Seward W. Jones, successful candidate for councillor in the 6th district, paid $294.50 for election expenses. The largest item was $163.75 for luncheon at Young's hotel, Boston, for the delegates to the 6th councillor convention on Nov. 11. To the republican state committee he paid $50, district committee $40.75, Waltham city committee $25 and Watertown town committee $15.

Additional Service

Newton Centre, Mass., November 18th, 1907.
Mr. Alfred E. Alvord, Pres., Newton Centre Improvement Ass'n,
Dear Sir:—

The Committee of the Association appointed in February, last to consider the question of better street railway facilities in Newton Centre secured a fifteen-minute schedule from Paul Street to Lake Street during the greater portion of each day. That service was discontinued by the Street Railway Company October 1st, last and a thirty-minute service substituted because the patronage did not warrant the increased service. Your Committee has again taken the matter up with the Railway officials with the result that the following schedule will be put into immediate effect, its continuance to be dependent on the result in traffic:

An additional car will be operated between Newton Highlands and Lake Street leaving Newton Highlands at 7.30 A. M. and continuing until 9.30 A. M. and in the afternoon leaving Newton Highlands at 4.30 P. M. and continuing until 7.30 P. M. thereby giving our people 15 minute service during these hours. During the remainder of the day a single car on a thirty-minute schedule will be operated.

Yours very truly,
Burton Payne Gray,
Edward H. Haskell,
C. M. Goddard,
Henry Bailly,
Salmon W. Wilder,
Committee.

Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street, Boston, is a good place to dine. tf

THEATRES

Tremont Theatre—American vaudeville has been revolutionized and placed upon the highest plane it has ever enjoyed. This is instantly proved by a glance at the bills provided from week to week at the Tremont Theatre by Klaw & Erlanger. Everybody knows that they have never been equalled; that the public is now getting its full money's worth of entertainment. The resources of this great firm are such that these splendid entertainments will be continued. For the week of the 25th instant, for instance, the stars and acts will be: Louis Mann and company in a condensation of "All on account of Eliza"; John Mudge. "The military girl"; Johnny Johns, black-face comedian; Alexander and Bertie on the Roman rings; Vasco, "The mad musician"; Will Rogers, "King of the Lariat"; Willie Hale and his revolving globe; Quigley brothers, famous comedians; the Okabe family of Japanese acrobats and new and exclusive animated pictures. There are daily matinees at the Tremont which begin promptly at 2 o'clock.

Hollis Street Theatre—Charles Frohman brings Miss Hattie Williams and her 70 fun-makers in "The Little Cherub" to Boston this Thanksgiving week for a brief visit. By arrangement with Manager Rich they will appear this time at the Hollis Street Theatre where Miss Williams and the "Cherub" singers, dancers and entertainers will be at home to Boston friends for just one fortnight. It is a short stay, but it will be a brilliant and a merry one. Miss Williams, who delighted local theatre-goers for nearly three months last season, will return with all the happy and dazzling comedy cohorts that she led to victory here last season—an extensive and varied corps of comedians, half a hundred pretty girls in numerous radiant costumes, several clever specialty people and last but not least her own dashing, bubbly, beautiful and melodious self with "Experience" and all the songs that tickled the ears and thrilled the hearts of those who heard them. They are all songs that can be heard again and enjoyed just as heartily as they were the first time. "The Little Cherub" returned to the Criterion Theatre in New York last midsummer Miss Williams created a sensation by adding to her already brilliant performance a series of burlesque imitations—"Near-imitations", she modestly called them—of such prominent actors as Maude Adams, William Gillette, Ethel Barrymore, Rose Stahl and Montgomery & Stone. They were recognized at once as wonderfully clever both in fun and mimicry. They are not the only novelty in "The Little Cherub" in its present form. Many new features are interwoven with the old song-hits and the old whirls of fun and avalanches of stage beauties. During the limited engagement there will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday at 2 o'clock sharp, and a special performance Thanksgiving afternoon. Owing to the many musical numbers and novelties the evening performances will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Largest of all animals that ever lived on this planet is the great sulphur-bottom whale of the Pacific ocean. One specimen was 95 feet in length and 35 feet in girth. Its estimated weight was 294,000 pounds.

A speaker at a recent meeting of the United Irish League of Great Britain, in Dublin, urged his hearers to "continue the campaign in England in the past as they had done in the future."

W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. had a largely attended and very interesting meeting at Mrs. Rand's on Tuesday evening at which four new members were received. A committee was appointed to solicit funds and food to send in to the Boston headquarters, from which many baskets are sent out every year at Thanksgiving and Christmas to the infirm and shut ins. The next regular meeting Dec. 17th will be devoted to making and filling the comfort bags for the sailors; last year sixty bags were filled.

A special meeting to which the mens club of the Baptist church are invited will be held on the evening of the 10th when a Parliamentary Drill will be conducted by the state president, Mrs. Katharine Lent Stevenson.

Nonantum.

CITY PRIMARIES

Gray Beats Pratt in Ward 6

Municipal primaries were held in seven wards last Tuesday from noon until ten P. M. With the exception of the ward alderman fight in ward 6 on the Republican side where Burton Payne Gray won by a wide margin and a small contest over ward committee in Ward 3 on the part of the Democrats, the primaries were marked with apathy. The entire number of ballots cast was 757, of which 600 were Republican, 136 Democratic and 21 Independence League. Of the 600 Republican ballots, 396 were polled in Ward 6. Ex alderman George Hutchinson of West Newton was unanimously named for mayor by the Republicans, receiving 506 votes. The aldermen at large with the vote of each are as follows: Ward 1, Stephen W. Holmes 451, Ward 2, Charles W. Leonard, 456, Ward 3, Benjamin S. Palmer, 453, Ward 4, Franklin T. Miller, 452, Ward 5, Thomas W. White, 436, Ward 6, Allston Burr, 471, Ward 7, Charles A. Clarke 441. Geo. W. McNear received one vote for alderman at large from ward 4 in that ward.

For School committee Ward 1, Fred H. Tucker, 438, Ward 2, Marcus Morton, 446, Ward 3, S. Edward Howard, 438, Ward 4, William H. Rice, 497, Ward 5, (for unexpired term) William H. Rice, 480, Ward 6, Henry E. Bothfield, 447. For aldermen by ward, the results were as follows: Ward 1, William J. Doherty, 11, Ward 2, Charles F. Avery, 37, Ward 3, Robert W. Williamson, 38, Ward 4, Howard P. Converse, 44, Ward 5, Lewis H. Bacon, 49, Ward 6, Burton Payne Gray, 282, George W. Pratt, 106, Ward 7, Frank A. Day, 9. The ward and city committee elected are Ward 1, William S. Bowen, Edwin O. Childs, Walter R. Furbush, Frank D. Frisbie, Frederick L. Trowbridge, Ward 2, Albert P. Carter, Edward P. Hatch, Edward K. Hall, Herbert K. Hallett, Eliza L. Avery, Ward 3, Daniel G. Wing, Arthur G. Hosmer, John A. Potter, Henry M. Davis, Chas. E. Hatfield, Ward 4, Horace M. Bunker, Howard P. Converse, David W. G. White, Irving C. Paul, Frederic G. Melcher, Ward 7, C. B. Allen, Madison Bunker, Arnold Scott, W. F. Garcelon, Alfred H. Wing. In ward 6, Arthur Muldoon, H. C. Hawkes and Sumner Clement each received one vote.

The Democrats had no candidates on the printed ballot for many offices and many scattering votes were cast in consequence. For mayor, Thos. W. Proctor, had 5, W. J. Doherty, 2, Jesse C. Ivy, 3, Daniel O'Donnell, J. O'Connor and J. M. Barry, one each. For aldermen at large there were a few votes in ward 3, Jas. Ryan 2, M. J. O'Halloran, Andrew C. Moran and John S. Foley, 1 each for Ward 3, and John A. Duane, 1 in the same ward for ward 4. In Ward 4, Daniel M. Chamberlain had 2 votes for the nomination from ward 5, and in ward 5, Lewis H. Bacon and Andrew C. Huyler had one vote each for ward 5. For school committee, Thos. Manning had one vote in ward 2, for nomination from that ward, and there was one vote in ward 3 for David J. B. Duane, from ward 3. For alderman by ward, William J. Doherty, ward 1 had 22, Ward 2, George E. Johnson, 8, Ward 3, James R. Condrin, 53, Ward 4, Thomas J. Lyons, 18, Ward 5, Lewis H. Bacon, 3, William H. McOwen, 1, Ward 6, Burton Payne Gray, 2. Vote for ward and city committee was as follows: Ward 1, Michael F. Barry, 20, Cornelius W. Keefe, 15, Amos T. Goyash, 14, W. J. Doherty, 1, H. J. ## The Home Newspaper

Mr. Warren, the advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, thus describes the ideal advertising medium. He says:

"The ideal advertising medium is the home newspaper. It is a paper which is so filled with good thoughts for every member of the family that it finds a warm welcome and an eager reading wherever it goes. It is free from crime and scandal and unwholesome things. It is not boastful nor too much given to finding fault. It wins the confidence of the people by its simplicity, honesty, purity and progressiveness. It handles the news of the day in a manner which appeals to the better class of people and to the better nature of all people. It emphasizes the hopeful features of the news rather than the discordant ones. It has a permanent location for its special features and has a reputation for correctness. It regulates its advertising pages by reasonable requirements regarding display and illustrations, so that the page presents a pleasing whole."

Miss Clymena Townsend, aged 80, is one of the smartest old ladies in Sidney, Me. At present she is doing the work for a family of nine persons, beside making 25 pounds of butter weekly.

Burdett College of Business and Short-hand, 18 Boylston St., Boston, is certainly one of the most progressive business schools in the country. Another step forward has been made this week in equipping a new room with the latest model typewriters. The Touch Typewriting Department at Burdett College is deserving of praise for the high standard of work which it insists upon before it will bestow a diploma. The large attendance at Burdett is one of the indications of the faith which the public has in the methods of the working policy of Burdett to keep pace with the latest and best in business life.

Those Three Stars

The three bright stars most prominently seen in the South about 7 o'clock every clear evening must strike most observers as singular and very unusual.

One of these stars is rather low down toward the horizon, the other two higher up, one to the right and the other to the left, and all three so situated as to form a very large triangle. This triangle is worth a little close inspection, and to this end we ought to look at it squarely in the face so as to get a good impression of each star "lest we forget."

Most of the sky scenery may be seen over again in the same place at the same time year after year, but there are some exceptions, most unmistakable exceptions, and this is one of them.

The cause of the changes in these sky pictures is the presence of planets; the advent of one planet will make a difference, but the coming of two into a region of the sky rather sparsely populated, makes a most marked change; and this is just what we here witness, and it is this that makes star gazers more than usually interested in the scene. The lower star in the triangle is a fixed star of the first magnitude and never spars very high in the sky, but glides along a little above the horizon and sinks out of sight in the west, after having shone its own little day or night of about 5 or 6 hours. This star belongs to the Southern Fish, or Pisces Australes, and bears the name of Fomalhaut, and is often spoken of as "the lone star" there being but few stars in its vicinity of a smaller size.

The other two stars higher up in the sky are the planets Mars and Saturn. Mars is to the west, or on our right as we look to the South, and is the brightest of the three—it was a good deal brighter two or three months ago—but it is now steadily waning on account of its drifting farther and farther from us, or on account of our more rapid movement, we are racing away from him. In making his circuit round the sun, Mars is nearly twice as long as we are. His orbit is not only larger than ours, but being farther from the Sun, he is much slower in his movement; the velocity of our Earth is about 18 miles a second, while that of Mars is but 14 miles or less.

The star higher up to the left is Saturn, the most gorgeous of all the planets, and as such may be truthfully called "the Planet beautiful", for he wears the "coat of many colors", comely known as the beautiful rings, which, when seen through the telescope, in their best condition is a sight that cannot well be forgotten.

Saturn too, is distinguished by his very large family of Satellites or moons, now known to have ten or more. As a shining star however, he cannot at his very best equal that of Mars in the same condition though but a dwarf in size, it is nearness to the Sun that counts. Saturn is about 700 times larger than the Earth, and ought to be near 2000 times larger than little Mars.

Mars has been traversing the constellation of Capricornus, and has now reached the eastern side of the cluster whose shape is that of a depressed triangle, which can easily be recognized by anyone with good sight. Saturn is in the next constellation east of the one Mars is moving in, and moving very slowly compared with the latter. It will be interesting to note how rapidly Mars will catch up to his big brother, and disfigure the triangle. J. West. Waverley, Mass. Nov. 14, 1907.

Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street, Boston, is a good place to dine. tf

Newton Savings Bank

Sec. 41, Chap. 113, Revised Laws. "Such corporation shall publish and publish in three successive issues of a newspaper of the county in which it is established, a list of the amounts standing to the credit of depositors who have not been entitled to dividends on the whole amount standing to their credit for the two years last preceding, because the same exceed the amount on which interest is allowed, with the names and last known residences of the persons to whose credit such amounts stand."

Under the foregoing statute the Newton Savings Bank publishes the following Amount of Deposit, $1764. Depositor, Isaac Lee. Last known residence, Wayland. Nov. 19, 1907.

TO THE HONORABLE THE JUSTICES OF THE LAND COURT IN AND FOR THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Respectfully represents James B. Welch of Newton in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth, that James Welch late of said Newton, deceased, intestate, died on the twenty-eighth day of October in the year 1902 leaving a widow, Alice Welch, and as his only heirs at law and next of kin, Mary Kent of said Newton, daughter; Michael A. Welch, of Portland, Oregon, son; Kate Bragie of Cambridge, Mass., daughter, James B. Welch of Newton, son; William Welch of said Newton, son; George Welch of said Newton, son; Frank Welch of said Newton, son; and Alice Welch of said Newton, daughter.

That said James Welch at the time of his decease was the owner in fee simple of a lot of land with the buildings thereon, situated in said Newton and bounded and described as follows: Commencing at a point about one hundred and ninety-six feet Southerly from Homer street, at a stake and stones on the Easterly side of a private way, and thence running Southerly by said way sixty-two and 1-2 feet to a stake and stones; thence Southerly fifty-seven and 3-4 degrees East by land formerly of Ebenezer Stone five hundred and thirty-six feet to a stake and stones; thence turning and running North-easterly on the Westerly side of said ditch sixty-six and 1-2 feet to a stake and stones; thence turning and running North-easterly thirty-seven and 1-2 feet West by land formerly of said Stone, three hundred sixty-two feet to the point of beginning: Containing one half acre, more or less.

That the recorded title of said real estate is encumbered by an undischarged mortgage covering said premises given by said James Welch to Lawrence Welch, then of Boston in our County of Middlesex, dated March 30, 1897, and recorded in Book 763, page 471.

That said mortgage, and his widow and children herebefore mentioned, have had continuous and uninterrupted possession of said real estate since the year 1894, being for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time for the full performance of the conditions of said mortgage; that no payment on account of the amount secured by said mortgage has been made, and no act in recognition of its existence as a valid mortgage has been done within said twenty years; and your petitioner believes that said mortgage was long since paid and by accident or misadventure the discharge thereof has not been recorded in said Registry of Deeds.

WHEREFORE your petitioner, being the owner of an undivided eighth interest, and title in and to said premises, subject to the dower rights of said Alice Welch, widow of said James Welch, prays that such notice may be ordered to be given to the representatives of Lawrence Welch, and those interested in his estate, and to all other persons interested in said estate, as your Honorable Court may order, and that the decree may be entered setting forth such finding of the Court in relation thereto and ordering that from and after such decree no action shall be brought by any person to claim a title under said said mortgage; and that said mortgage be released and cancelled upon the records.

Rev. Dr. Alexander S. Twombly, aged 75, for many years a widely known congregational clergyman, died last Tuesday night at his home, 244 Franklin street.Dr. Twombly was a native of Boston.
After being graduated from the Boston
Latin school he entered Yale university, graduating in 1854. The following year
he entered Andover theological seminary and upon his graduation became pastor of a Congregational church at Cherry Valley.After serving there he accepted a call to an Albany (N. Y.) church, but remained in the latter pastorate only a short time. He then became the first pastor of the State church at Stanford, Conn. Later he became pastor of the Winthrop Congregational church at Charlestown, remaining there 19 years.
In 1891, the year he retired from the ministry, he received the degree of doctor of divinity from Yale.He removed to this city and in recent years had devoted most of his time to literary work. Among the books and essays of which he was author were criticisms on Michael Angelo and Milton and a book on "Hawaii and its People."Dr. Twombly is survived by a widow and five sons.
The funeral was held from the house
Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev.
Dr. Wolcott Calkins officiating assisted by Rev. Wm. Barnett Wright of Buffalo and was of the simplest character.
Later the remains were taken to Mount Auburn for burial.CITY HALL NOTESBids will be received for the proposed new Technical High School on Dec. 2,
at 2 P. M. by the Public Buildings Commissioner.Ward 2 was the first to report the result of the primary election Tuesday evening, coming in at 10.10 o'clock.
Ward six was the last at 1.03 A. M.The new atlases of the city have been received and are well liked. The work was done under the direction of City Engineer Farnham.Mr. Thomas W. Proctor has withdrawn as the Democratic candidate for mayor.Registration closed for the city election Wednesday night with 6459 men and 695 women on the list. This is an increase of 84 over the state election for men and of 20 over last year for women.
The largest precincts are Ward 3, precinct 1, with 700, Ward 4, precinct
1 with 690, Ward 2, precinct 1 with 676
and Ward 7 with 643.A freight brakeman, C. J. McNamara aged about 30, whom the police think is a resident of either Boston or Worcester, sustained a fractured skull by striking the girders of the Washington-street bridge over the main line of the Boston & Albany railroad tracks at West Newton Wednesday afternoon.The brakeman had just climbed to the top of the tender of an outward bound freight that passed through West Newton shortly before 3 o'clock on track 1.
When fellow trainman saw him start to get his footing on top of the tender the train passed under the bridge. The brakeman's head struck the girders,
fracturing his skull and throwing him to the roadbed. The train was stopped as quickly as possible and a doctor summoned. The brakeman was badly bruised about his breast, shoulders and arms and was taken to the Newton hospital in the police ambulance.GolfThe annual meeting of the Woodland Golf Club was held Wednesday evening in Auburndale. It was voted to increase the annual dues to $40 a year and also to ratify the action of the directors in assessing each member $16. The membership of the club is now 330, which is the largest in the history of the club.
The following officers were elected: President,
A. C. Burnett; vice-president,
C. A. Sibley; secretary, H. S. Tripp;
treasurer, L. R. Folsom.Boston Theatre—At the Boston Theatre next week the stock company is to make a production of "Trilby" the play
made by Paul M. Potter from DuMaurier's novel. Manager Morison has planned to make this production a notable one in the matter of stage settings and the scene of the first act showing a studio
in the Latin quarter of Paris promises to be something of a revelation in its reproduction of the surroundings in that Bohemia of Paris. The leading characters promise to show the Boston Theatre stock company to particularly good advantage, the cast being thus distributed: Talbot Wynne (Trilby), Wilson Melrose; Alexander McAlister (the Laird); Walter Walker; William Bagot

Address of Rev. Lyman Abbott Before The Unitarian Club

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott spoke last week Thursday evening to the Unitarian Club and an audience which filled Channing church. Mr. George Hutchinson, president of the club, in presenting Dr. Abbott said: "We count it our privilege to listen to Dr. Abbott as one who is distinguished for the breadth and the fairness of his thought, as well as the clearness and force of his expression."

Dr. Abbott said: "The question on which I am to speak to you concerns all lovers of their country, all lovers of their race. That any man will be able to offer a solution to the problem which we are confronting, I do not for a moment believe. That we shall solve it by shutting our eyes to it and keeping our mouths closed concerning it I do not believe. I am not bringing any ready-made and complete solution of our industrial problem. I am bringing to you a contribution from one who has given it such study as he could give in his office, in his library, through books, through reports; but who has not had the advantage which some of you have had of studying it directly, in contact with living, vital, practical industrial conditions. If it is important that the business men should get sometimes the broad view of the student, it is quite as important that the student should correct his theoretical views by the practical experience of the business man. I ask you to take what I have to say and put it in with your own experience and your own studies, that out of your own reflection a clearer and better understanding may eventually emerge."

When our fathers founded this country, they only partially believed in democracy, the reign of the common people. They had reacted against the old autocracy of the old world but they were not ready to entrust the reins of government, education, religion or industry in the hands of the common people. They surrounded the political democracy with many guards, some of which possibly unwisely, some of which we have practically discarded. They put many limitations upon the right of suffrage.

The notion was current in this colony of Massachusetts, that only church members should vote or hold office; under the impression that church members would always vote aright, and always administer offices with purity. Whether it was that they did not find that experience justified their assumption, I will not undertake to say; but that old qualification on the suffrage has long since been abolished. The property qualification has followed the samehanded qualification. The intellectual qualification you have here in Massachusetts, but if my memory serves me right, it is not a very exalted intellectual qualification. In short, we have in this country at large come to trust the power in the hands of the common people, so far as the suffrage is concerned. Our fathers did not leave the people, even with this qualified suffrage, to elect the President of the United States. We do not even today nominally elect a president of the United States. Next fall we shall suppose that we are going to elect a President, but we shall not elect a President. We shall elect, you in Massachusetts, a board of presidential electors; and we in New York another board of presidential electors; and the people in other states each their own board of presidential electors, and then all these electors will come together, and they will elect a president of the United States.

Now the first presidential election was in good faith carried on on the assumption that the presidential electors would elect the President. Our fathers did not trust the people of the United States to elect their own President. They were to elect certain wise men and the wise men to select the President. In a somewhat similar fashion they did not trust the people of the various states to elect their senators. You in Massachusetts, we in New York do not elect senators. I do not know about you in Massachusetts, but I am quite sure that we should not have elected to the Senate of the United States either of the two senators that now honor our state by their presence in the United States Senate if the people of our state had elected them.

We elect a certain legislature, and then the legislature, which is supposed to contain the virtue and the wisdom and the excellence of the people of the state, are wise enough and virtuous enough to elect a senator. That was the provision of our fathers; and it is in the Constitution; and it cannot be changed except by changing the Constitution. That is, it could not if the Americans were not a rather ingenious people. But they have found a way of changing it without changing the Constitution, and they have pursued the same course we have in respect to the election of President. In something like half the states of the Union, the people when they vote for legislators also indicate whom they expect those legislators to elect as their senators and those legislators obey the popular will. So today in something like half of the states of the Union the people do directly—well, indirectly directly—elect the senators for their several states in the Senate of the United States. Not only that, we have practically changed the construction of our legislative bodies. In the Parliament of Great Britain, members of the Parliament sit on opposite sides and carry on a living, real debate. Nobody except a member of the government may even take a pencil out of his pocket and write a note on a piece of paper. No man may read a book. Every man must be attending to the debates that are going on. In the Senate of the United States and in the House of Representatives, if you have ever attended any of their sessions, you will observe that there is not anybody, deliberative or undeliberative, in the wide world, not even, I think, a football team, so hard to address. They do not expect to listen to anybody who speaks; and only the most extraordinary ability can secure any attention whatever, either the Senate and the House of Representatives to any address. All the work is done in the committee rooms. Because the Senate and the House of Representatives are no longer what our fathers intended they should be—bodies to determine what the law should be. They do not determine what the laws shall be; the people determine what the laws shall be, and the men in the House of Representatives and the men in the Senate of the United States simply shape those laws, determine what form they shall take. They are a set of experts whom we order to carry out our will, and sometimes they do it well, and sometimes not so well.

I have for over twenty-five years been a member of a conference which has met every year at Lake Mohonk, in the State of New York. That conference has been a meeting of gentlemen all more or less concerned with the Indian question. They have met there every year, perhaps 150 of them to discuss the Indian question; they have debated what the Indian policy should be. And I venture to say that that Lake Mohonk Conference has more influence in determining what the policy of this country shall be toward the Indians than any committee in either the Senate or the House of Representatives. It has formulated public sentiment; it has created public sentiment; and then, obedient to the public sentiment which that conference has created and that conference has helped to formulate, the Senate and the House of Representatives have shaped the policy of the country accordingly.

Now what is true in that one particular domain is true in a score of others. The bankers get together to determine what the banking laws ought to be; the railroad men get together to discuss what the railroad laws ought to be; shippers also get together to discuss what the railroad laws ought to be; men in various assemblies meet and discuss and debate, and determine the policy of the country, and the Congress formulates, crystallizes, organizes and legalizes the will of the people. When a few years ago the question came before this country whether we would have a gold currency or a silver currency, or a currency partly gold and partly silver, we did not leave it to bank presidents to decide; we did not leave it to a few financiers to decide; the whole people formed themselves into a great debating society. All through the west, financial schools were organized by the gold party and by the silver party, to educate the people in the problems of finance. And in spite of the fact that I may be talking to you bankers here, I venture to say that when they get through that debating society there were a great many of the plain people who knew more about the fundamental principles of finance than some of the bankers had known before.

Now we have been moving along through this hundred years toward a pure democracy. We elect our own President; we are growing more and more to elect our own senators; we are formulating in our own private assemblies, through our public discussions, through our public discussions, through our newspapers, the laws we wish to be enacted, and sending men to Congress to shape the laws which we in our wisdom or in our folly have decided shall be enacted. We have adopted in some of our states the initiative, in others the referendum, in others the recall—all these steps toward a larger, purer democracy. I think not one toward less of the reign of the common people in political affairs.

Now while this progress toward a purer democracy has been going on in politics, there has been a tendency toward less democracy going on in industry. One hundred years ago, or a little over when our Constitution was formed, the industries of this country were very largely individualistic. I can remember—when in the homes in Maine, the spinning wheel was in common use, and the loom was in occasional use. Not far from my grandfather's home there was a carding mill, and the farmer would shear the sheep, and the wool would be taken to the carding mill and carded, and then carried back and spun and woven into cloth. There were not a great many spinning wheels. I used to go from Boston down to my country home at Farmington. I went in a train as far as Portland or in a steamboat as far as Hallowell (that was as far as a corporation could carry me) and then by stage coach.

Now the loom has gone, and the spinning wheel has gone, and the stage coach has gone; and there has come in the great mill with its clanking looms, the great mill with its thousands of spinning wheels; the great railroad with its locomotives; the great trolley lines that are taking the place of the old omnibuses; industry has become organized. You are going to talk a month from now about organized labor. You cannot carry on the business of this country for a day without organized labor. The question is not whether labor shall be organized, but how it shall be organized. You cannot carry on a railroad without organization. You cannot carry on a railroad and let a man say, "This morning I will go at eight o'clock, and tomorrow morning I will go at nine o'clock, and the next day I will go at all." You cannot carry on a railroad and have men say, "Today I will run a locomotive and tomorrow I will be a conductor and the next day I will be a brakeman." The railroad must be a great labor organization. The factory must be a great labor organization. All the great industries of the country are carried on by organized labor. The great industries of the country, except the agricultural industries, are carried on by great organizations of labor. And that is due to two great changes which have taken place in industrial conditions in the country within the last hundred years. The first is the invention of machinery, steam, electricity, the driving forces of the busy wheels. The second is the equally great invention, which is not so often commented on, of the division of labor. Mr. Ruskin says somewhere that a laborer no longer makes a pin, he only makes the point of a pin. That is pretty nearly the truth: one man can do one thing better if he gives the whole of his time to it than if he does many things. And so you have the great machinery, the driving forces, and then in the factory and in the railroad, the individual man doing the one thing he has learned how to do. One of the pathetic things in life is this: when a man has learned how to do one thing well and he cannot do any other one thing well but that one thing, and then there comes a change in the trade, or in the demand and there is no longer a need for that one man, and he absolutely knows not how to do any other thing at all, and he drops out of life.

Now in connection with these great labor organizations there has been another invention. First, the invention of steam and electricity, the division of labor, and then the invention of the combination of capital; that is, the corporation. Of certain democratic aspects of the corporation I shall speak presently. But now I call your attention to the fact that in the last one hundred years capital has necessarily been combined in order to carry on these great operations.

One man could save money enough to buy a single loom and run it; but one man could not save enough to carry on a great factory with multitudinous looms; it required a combination of capitalists. And that combination of capitalists, in order to do their work well, must borrow money of other combinations of capitalists, because they must have more money than their own capital in order to do this work. And thus we have had first the partnership; then the little corporation; then the greater corporation, and finally the combination of corporations, which we call a trust. These have grown up and they are not democratic; they are monarchic or they are oligarchic; they are autocratic. They are not governed by the people who are carrying on the work; but by a few men at the head, by the captains of industry, by bosses; by small bodies of directors. I am not impugning attacking or criticizing them, I am only trying to put before you this fact: that on the one hand for a hundred years we have been moving along politically with a wider and wider distribution of political power, with a wider and wider distribution of educational power, with a larger and larger development of the school system, with a larger and larger reign of the common people in politics, in religion and in education; and for a hundred years we have been moving along toward a less and less control of industry by the individual laborer, less and less control of industry by any popular combination of laborers, and more and more an industrial system which is autocratic or oligarchic. And the problem before us in this twentieth century I believe, and this is the truth I want to set before you—is how to reconcile these two movements, how to reconcile and harmonize a society in which there has been one great movement toward democracy in politics and democracy in education, and another great movement toward autocracy in industry.

In the first place it is proposed by some to give up our democratic experiment altogether. This is not a popular view in America; and it is not often proposed publicly on the platform, or in the newspaper press. But Sir Henry Maine, in his book on "Popular Institutions," has shown that democratic institutions are of comparatively recent origin—they have not existed in anything like the present form for more than one hundred years; and he contends that political democracy is as yet an experiment—it is on trial; we have not proved that democracy is the best form of government.

And there are today some men in America who are of the opinion that we have proved that it is not the best form of government; that it has failed in our cities, that it has more or less failed in our towns and in our states; that it has even failed in our national government. These are the political pessimists of our age. They do not know exactly where they would go; they are not quite sure in what direction they would lead us; but they are quite sure we have gone too far on the road of the government of the people, by the people, and for the people. I shall assume that we do not propose any of us to abandon the experiment of American government by the common people to try the Russian experiment of government by a few wise men.

The second conception is that we must have two forms of government for the two forms of activity; that democracy is very well for politics and that democracy is very well for schools, and democracy is very well for churches, but democracy will not do for industry. That you can have a democratic government and a democratic school system and a democratic religious assembly, but you cannot have a democratic railroad or a democratic factory. It depends upon what we mean by democracy whether that is true or not. Let us see exactly what we mean by democracy. Democracy is the reign of the common people. It is distinguished from monarchy, which is the reign of the one; from oligarchy, which is the reign of the few; from bureaucracy, which is the reign of the office holders; and from aristocracy, which is the reign of the best; it is the reign of the common people.

Now this democracy, this reign of the common people, does not prevent us from having one man to administer certain functions of our government, as a President, or a Governor. It does not mean that we must have the administration of our government tied up in a council; or that the people must vote on every question of administration. It does not mean that we may not have a comparatively few men such as we can pick out, or whom we will send to Washington or to Boston or to Albany, to decide how and in what way this government of the common people shall be carried on. It does not mean that we shall not have great body of office holders on whom we shall depend for the carrying out of the administration of this government in all its details. Nor does it mean that we may not by proper qualifications exclude the worst of the community from any share in the government; not merely the worst, but those that are not merely the worst. It does not mean that we may not require a certain length of residence in the state or in the district; it does not mean that we may not require a certain property qualification or a certain educational qualification, or a certain patriotic qualification. For my part, for example, to be specific, I do not think that any one of the constitutions of the Southern States is undemocratic. Six now of the Southern States have adopted constitutions which have been very sharply criticized in the North. I believe those constitutions are wise. I do not say they are together honestly carried out—that is

An unjust discrimination is made in the Bigelow school district whenever the no school signal is rung at 8.15 on stormy days for the grammar school children of the city. As the one session begins at 8.30 it has been decreed that there shall be school in the Bigelow
district unless the no signal rings for the High school at 7.15. It therefore follows that the little children attending the fourth grade are deemed to be the equals
in stormy weather of their older brothers and sisters who attend the High school. This is only one of the lesser evils of the five hour session scheme inflicted upon a community by a school committee, which yields to a manufactured sentiment, against its own better judgment.

We are fortunate this week in being able to present to our readers the two splendid addresses of Dr. Abbott and Mr. Robins. One, the thoughtful theory of the careful student, the other, the practical experiences of a man in actual touch with "common people." However contrasted these opinions may appear,
both speakers have a splendid optimism
in the ultimate solution of the problem
thru hard and patient work.

In obtaining the opinions of the parents of Newton Centre pupils as to the kind of school session desired, Supt. of Schools Spaulding neither expressed an opinion himself nor attempted to influence the result. He simply did his duty.

Miss Sherwood

The following comment by Mr. Philip Hale the Boston Herald critic of the work of Miss Mary Fay Sherwood, last Monday afternoon will be of interest to the many friends of Miss Sherwood in this city.

Miss Sherwood sang two groups of songs. She was more impressive in the first group than in the second, partly because the songs of the first group were on the whole of finer quality, partly because she sang them better. Her interpretation of Bizet's Pastorale was delightful in its joyous spirit. That of Schubert's song was one of rare beauty.
Seldom have I heard the song sung by any singer, even the most renowned,
with such comprehension of text and music. The song by Ganz, the pianist, is of little consequence. The one by Debussy, one of his earlier ones, was sung charmingly, with much finesse.

In MacDowell's "Mosses" her rhetoric
was more conspicuous than her vocal mechanism, and she has not yet reached the stage of proficiency where she can do full justice to Bizet's "Tarantelle."
On the other hand, she sang Mr. Fox's
"Thou'rt Like a Flower" with such quiet intensity and poetic feeling that she was obliged to repeat it.

Miss Sherwood's voice is not a large one; but it has beautiful quality and is well adapted for lyric display and for effective coloratura. At present her intellectual and emotional nature does not find full expression. Singers of her natural gifts are rare, for she can be more than a performer of fluent routine who sees on the page only notes and thinks solely of tone production.

Seldom does a singer of Miss Sherwood's age and concert experience show
such ability to differentiate in sentiment. Seldom is there a young singer of such pronounced individuality. At present she should perfect her mechanism which is by no means at present
mediocre, halting or disturbing.

Historical Calendar

An unusually attractive calendar for 1908 has just been published by the C.
Burr School of Auburndale under the direction of Miss E. J. McKenzie, the principal. It is high quality, exclusively Newton events and is called the Newton Historical Calendar. It is filled with some attractive cuts of interesting places
and things relating to Newton and its reading matter is ably edited. The calendar sells for fifty cents and the proceeds
are to be used for the purchase of works of art for the Burr School.

Mr. Hinckley Dead

Mr. Edward Crocker Hinckley, president of the F. E. Jones Co. of Boston and a promising young business man died suddenly at his home on Sterling street, West Newton, last Saturday evening. Mr. Hinckley had been slightly ill
and had taken to his bed on the advice of his physician. As the nurse turned away to leave him that night, he suddenly gasped and immediately expired,
death being caused by cerebral embolism.
Mr. Hinckley was a native of West Newton and 33 years of age. He is survived by a widow, a daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Samuel Barnard of West Newton, and two small children.
Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from his late residence and were attended by a large number of friends. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of the Unitarian church officiated and the interment was at Newton Cemetery.

MUNICIPAL CORRUPTION

people are with -on one day, and not the next, if the other side comes to them with enough money. The next morning
the police returns came out and said
that our man was beaten by 84 votes.
We knew he was elected by 434 votes. It meant that after the election had closed,
and the vote had been counted, Morris
had gone to those people and required
them to make false returns.

Just as soon as I had found out there had been a false count, I went down to some of the best people and said "There is an election being stolen out of this ward; and we have opened a fight. If this thing is allowed to go through, then
the whole conscience, courage and hope of the people of that community will be battered. And under pressure they let me prepare a statement that appeared on the first page of a morning paper.

$5000 has been provided to prosecute any persons guilty of election frauds in the 17th ward and guarantee a fund of $10,000 has been arranged, and we pledge ourselves to support the prosecution of any persons found guilty, to the end of their penitentiary sentence.

That came out with these important,
valuable names underneath it the next morning. It had a wonderful effect on some judges. They got cold feet. We went down before the election commission and found that the real returns appeared before the election commission.
Morris was powerful enough with the board of election commission to take away the original certification and put in others that were true. And under pressure he had done it, when he had found his own men had fallen down. So it came out that the police returns were curiously muddled and our man should have been elected alderman.

That looks to you like the end of the fight; it was just the beginning. We have been fighting and winning right along ever since.

There came a time when Morris began to recognize that we were growing weaker, and so he sent for me. He did just what every big boss always does every time, when he is really menaced so far as his power and control is concerned.

Here Mr. Robins gave the detail of a conversation in which O'Connor offered to send him to the Council, to the Legislature, the State senate or to Congress.
That was the last interview with Morris. We defeated him absolutely. For six years we have been in absolute control
of that ward; so that we send a Republican to the City Council. He is honest, simple, straight-forward as any man will tell you who knows Chicago. Not very bright; nothing very powerful about him
but on the square. We sent him to the Council one year by from 400 to 1000;
the next year by from 800 to 1700 majority. We have done it for six years;
and we are going to do it some more years.

Everything we have done, we have done with the people. It has grown up in the common life of the community. It has been an understanding and a fellowship in the common life; looking out and seeing what life means for the poorest workingman, and recognizing where his real interests lie. When you make that issue, and make it clear in any city, in any ward, the battle is won. It is not going to come out of the privileged class.
It is not going to come out of good government speeches, eloquent appeals and all that sort of thing. It is going to come out of the real work with the people, working out day by day in terms that they can understand, the witness to the eternal truth that justice, and fairness,
and honesty and cooperation are the law
of all life. The way that we are going to solve this great problem of industrial democracy; the way that we are going to bring into the life of the whole people
an understanding of where their interests are and how they can vindicate them
at the polls. And against that method
the power of the corruptionist, the red fire, the bands, the noise and the shouting are as powerless as the beating of the waves of the sea against the wall.
We have won, and you can win anywhere. There is not a ward in Boston that cannot be redeemed on the same basis. Because it is simply human life worked out step at a time, from political corruption to political purity; from an utterly vile peonage control, to an absolute independence, non partisan citizenship, that goes the distance at each election step by step. And while that ward is overwhelmingly for public ownership, it has been forced upon them out of the conditions of the time. If public service corporation would render service instead of bribing City Councils and Legislators, instead of watering stock, and trying to make dishonest dollars out of the suffering of the people, that they are supposed to serve, we would not be public ownership people. We would be glad to leave those industries in the hands of honest private persons. But we refuse to leave them in the hands of historical and corrupt private persons, giving them power to corrupt the life of the whole people.

In reply to questions Mr. Robins said:
There are two wards in my city that are hopeless. The 1st and 18th wards cannot be dealt with as the 17th ward;
the heart of that people is dead. They are the lodging house wards, and they are the light district. They have a custom of always getting together. When you learn the big truth that the economic condition of making homeless men,
giving up 75,000 people living in lodgings; 40,000 of whom are exploited and degraded human beings. Those people come in with just three ideas, whiskey,
women and the gambler's trance as the result of what they know of life. You have the economic basis of prostitution
so well established and founded, that all your Good Shepherd Homes in the world will redeem this one girl and the other, God be with them, and it is blessed that they be redeemed, while ten others
are led into the life from pressure on the one hand and weakness on the other. They represent a good many different groups. But one group is pretty big and growing bigger in this country,
in spite of tenement reform and Jacob Ries and other splendid facts in the life of America. There is the rear tenement on the west side. There is a boy and a girl standing there on that top step. They are 14 or 16 years old; gray blooded folk. They are children of good red-blooded peasant people, plenty of energy
and willingness to work for their brother, and doing it every day, and yet getting so little out of it that they have to have this particular tenement, and buy meat of condemned cattle; they have been drinking formaldehyde milk; refuse vegetables condemned in the bigger markets, brought out here and sold under crooked municipal administration and never getting any fair chance in the schools. There they are incompetent for six months in the year. I have record of 900 of them; records run down, with affidavits, until I find that this boy worked six months then the foreman said he seemed to get tired. Then he began to spoil material; and the foreman fired him. Then the boy got a job in the American Tin Can Company; and he did very good work there under the stimulating of fear on the one hand, and new job on the other, such interests as came to him. Then the monotony came and he did not have enough power to make good for the intensive industry of our time; the periods of idleness became longer, periods of employment shorter.

He went out to the lumber camp, one of the new kind, that work on the industrial and social human drift from the great city; live in lousy bunks, and come into the city after three months with a certain amount of money in their pocket
and desire for excitement, and some way
to forget it all, that is overwhelming
and drives you to the green table, and to the red wine, and to many other evil things. When that boy comes back into the city, where does he go? Into the 18th or the 1st ward.

Hinky Dink and Bathhouse John,
both of them being aldermen, will see that this people are registered and if they vote only once you are mighty lucky. They will get full and fined in the police court. The only way you can judge that man is to have been in his boots and had a hungry belly and de-fected life.

And the girl started where she is going to start early in the sweat shop.
Worked 12 hours a day. She never did have any intelligence; gray blood. She soiled material; or before she has time
to be discharged because of that failure,
she goes to the dance hall for a little excitement; she loves color and music and admiration. She goes to the only place provided by our Christian civilization practically, for her. There are other places so high she will never reach them.
That is the way with a whole lot of clarity. It hangs so high that many people never can reach it. This girl has told her wonderful stories of opulence;
wonderful stories of what she would be;
what she could do; the clothes she could have, by this young man who is connected with that house in the 1st or 18th
ward, and he takes her out to dinner
where there is soft music; and it is any wonder that to that girl this reason seems as though he were a hero. The first thing she is inside the house of ill-fame; and then they say she might just as well surrender. Her name has gone, and she is an inmate of this house.
The mistress of which is paying tribute to Hinky Dink.

When the majority of the population
of a ward is a disinherited and degenerated corrupt population their obedience to supreme moral law is Hinky Dink or Bathhouse John, the just representatives of a degraded and exploited and disin-herited electorate. But there are men who do not know life, and who sit on the municipal voters boards they want to fight that rotten situation in the 1st ward
by dealing with Mr. Kenna, rather than by dealing with great causes. They say
"Go out and make a fight." Because I am a "practical man, and a man whom they expect to do those kinds of things;
and because they must have the lesson,
we go out and make fight against Hinky Dink. We get a man and begin making a race. I am told to go down and get money. I go to someone like Marshall Field who draws a check for $500 and says "It is a lovely work, splendid piece of work you are doing. It is splendid thing when a young man of privilege and opportunity is willing to turn his attention to the best interests of a community. Good morning." And I went out in ten minutes from the time I left his private office (and I can prove this).
Mr. Field told his private secretary to call up Mr. Kenna. Alderman Kenna
came up to see Mr. Field. In the presence of his private secretary, Mr. Field said, "Here is a check for $1000. I understand they are going to put up a campaign against you this year. If you need any more money, let me know.
Good morning, Mr. Kenna." That is another side of the story that is worth knowing. That is our first citizen, and a man who has made more money out of Chicago than any other man. That is his contribution to the conscience and citizenship of the second greatest industrial station in the world. Where decent is on such a strange plane as probably it has been, I say to you, as long as that day continues, and as long as social conscience of the powerful and greatness of that quality the 1st and 18th wards are hopeless. But I wish you to see this endless chain. I wish you could see Mr.
Kenna go into the Health Commissioner's office and find there that I have complained about a tenement up in my ward,
that is insanitary. That tenement is owned by one of the big estates and I know that the more profit the owner has, the more he is to hold the job of agent. When I complained about it the order was sent out.
He knows he has a lot more property,
and if this thing goes on it will cost a good thousand dollars and he will lose his job. He sends for Mr. Kenna, because he can do things. He says, "This Settlement fellow up there is making a whole lot of trouble; narrow the life out of me. He has an order to fix an em-
ent. That is a very good tenement;
perfectly good tenement. If he keeps on he will drive us crazy. Can't you do something? Why, sure, Kenna can do something for a powerful man who can do something for him sometime. What of it if a few more Dagoes die. Hand me
the book." And he writes in a big hand,
you can make it out if you study it,
"Stay" order entered by the alderman. Let the inspector who draws general order
out of me. He has an order to fix an ement and he will probably find himself in charges before the Civil Service Commission. And Kenna, by the money he gets and the votes he takes from the exploited men and women coming out of that insanitary tenement uses his power
to preserve the very physical conditions that will send back new generations of boys and girls disinherited and gray-blooded to be exploited again, to the third and fourth generation. But there are other wards where it is extending; and ultimately the fight will be won. It will be won because of the conscience, and courage, and interest of men and women, plain ordinary folk in the main, because they bear its burdens. You privileged people as compared with the people I am talking of, do not feel so much; it is far removed from you. You have an academic interest in it. You all believe in good government; but you probably will not suffer very much for it; and so we are thrown back in our hope upon the group of toil, upon that group that bears the burden, and suffers

the tremendous loss. But I cannot help thinking that the refrigerated Christianity there is in the land is sometime going to wake up, and throw out, and exercise itself powerfully; and that the ministers with the eternal fire of God in their minds, and the love of individual souls triumphing over what might seem to be self-interest, are going to denounce
men who will take rents from insanitary tenements; who will take rents from the house rented for purposes of prostitution; who will exploit children in factories, in mills, who are of tender years,
taking away the juice and power in the early years, that ought to last them over
a long life; make them child labor
tramps and vagabonds in the earth later;
and those men who will work girls during the busy season four hours overtime
without giving them anything for it except supper money, and sometimes not that. The time will come when ministers of the Gospel will denounce such people
as enemies of the community, as long as they live and serve and work that way, even though they be captains of industry, and worth millions, and be powerful in the city and church and state. I cannot help believing that that time will come in the earth, God speed it, because in a great way we are bound together and the temptations that are in Boston, fostered by unjust conditions and unfair treatment of the working world, will menace the purity, will menace the hope, will menace the strength of your children, guard them as you may.
We are bound together in this story; we are going to save the whole people, or we will save none, ultimately. That is the old lesson of civilization. The rule of the protected and specially privileged classes is an old failure. Greece had it.
That splendid civilization rose up and because of injustice it perished from the earth. Rome had it; her armies went out and conquered the world; and they came back and surrendered dominion because of the slaves that were disinherited in the streets of Rome. And just as truly, and more truly in a democracy like ours, the common conscience, and virtue of the homes of the working world will become ultimately the common conscience and virtue of all the homes. And you will have men in high office controlling the destinies of city, and state, and nation,
who will either advance the moral tone
of the whole people, or who will demoralize the moral tone of the whole people.
You cannot escape it. The Master knew exactly what he was talking about, when He recognized that in the outcast and
the lost was the menace of his own time.
I believe the time will come, and it is on the way, when the great, splendid heritage of the privileged class in America,
men and women who have courage and red blood and so many resources will turn back upon the unfortunate and the exploited class, and turn into the stream
of life, the power and beauty which they have; recognizing that if they simply take from the world, they go down into the grave of dishonor, mendicants and beggars in the earth, by just so much privilege as they therein had.

To that end—the Master served and died. To that end the soldiers of the Civil War gave up their lives. To that end the struggle of civilization goes on in all courageous hearts. For nothing less than that will answer the sphinx of fate that has sat across the pathway of the nations of the world. We will never,
never, the red blood and the conscience,
and the courage of America will answer.
The people who can build skyscrapers
and pile up wealth will know how to distribute it so to get manhood and womanhood out of the mass of the people. And we will address ourselves to this problem and this nation will have the youth nobler than its childhood, maturity diviner than its youth, not because of any manifest destiny anywhere,
but because of the working out day by day, of the conscience, and the wisdom and formed purpose of the best men and women of every class, of every station,
and of every nationality, faith in this
our republic, that is dedicated to human justice, and human freedom; to that great ideal that for the first time in the history of mankind had voice and expression among men; the belief in a great people rather than great persons,
or great classes, of great people sound
to its core from the man who digs the ditches hoping and believing for himself and his family, and his children, and his home, to the man who in the highest station in society recognizes his obligation to the ditch digger and under God
tries to make good his daily life.

Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street,

Garity.

THEATRES

Boston Theatre—At the Boston Theatre next week the attraction will be Joseph Arthur's American drama "Blue Jeans" which has always enjoyed great popularity with Boston audiences. Manager Morrison promises a very elaborate production of this play and the military band on the stage will undoubtedly rival anything known in even a circus parade. The season of the Boston Theatre stock company thus far has exceeded in success the most sanguine expectations and the organization has fully established itself as one of the institutions of the amusement life of Boston and vicinity. Manager Morrison's plans for the coming week promise even a more enjoyable season of performances than that of the last few months and indicate his confidence in the continued support of the great public he has so successfully appealed to since last September.

Orpheum—Have you ever seen the Elinore Sisters? If you are a vaudeville fan you can't help recalling the tall girl with the green dress and white gloves and the long feather in her hat who reaches her long arm over the orchestra. Kate Elinore, has for years been one of the most popular comedienne on the stage, and in her act which is full of lively repartee she has the quick wit of her attractive sister. They will be one of the big features at the Orpheum the week of December 2nd. Jo Maxwell's big company of singers will appear in a spectacular production entitled "A Night in a Police Station" which has made a hit everywhere it has been shown. Another great comedy feature is Felix Barry who has one of the greatest collections of rapid fire laughs. Others equally well known are Raymond and Caverly, the Dutch comedians; Byers and Hermann in a spectacular pantomime; the Shenk Brothers, a company of remarkable acrobats; the Dixey serenade, one of the liveliest colored troupes on the stage with an act that has made a hit everywhere that it has appeared; Netta Vest, an attractive young woman who sings and does impersonations; Goldsmith and Hoppe, in a musical act and the Kinetograph with a series of the best pictures ever seen in Boston.

Keith's Theatre—Americans who are familiar with the music halls of London know that there is one singer who stands supreme, and a comedienne whose name is always at the top of the bills. Marie Lloyd is her name and next Monday will find her the headliner of Keith's. Her songs are all her own, with catchy, swinging melodies that will remain in the memory and become speedily popular. "The Boy Comic" as James I. Morton is popularly known, will have a fresh fund of his nonsense talk. "Our Boys in Blue" have just returned from Europe, where they made a sensation with their wonderful military act. Ed. F. Reynolds, America's greatest ventriloquist, with his remarkable mechanical figures and stage effects; Work and Ower, with their unique acrobatic act; the Macarte Sisters, in their attractive exhibition on the wire; Bruno and Russell, with that lively singing and dancing skit, "The Insurance Agent"; the Meredith Sisters, the original "Hawthorne Girls", singers and dancers; and the Dixon Brothers, musical clowns, will all have prominent spots on the big bill. Bailey and Fletcher, with imitations of stage favorites; Brooks and Janette, conversationalists, and new pictures in the Kinetograph will round out the program.

Tremont Theatre—Klaw & Erlanger's vaudeville festival at the Tremont Theatre gains more and more of public favor as the weeks roll along. For the week to come a really remarkable bill will be offered. Trixie Friganza, a most popular comedienne, will present a fascinating singing and dancing act. Henry and Alice Taylor will be seen in a sensational juggling and sharp-shooting act. Radie Furrman is said to be one of the daintiest singing and dancing sopranos on the stage. Maud Hall Macey and company will present a little comedy-drama full of fun. Jack Wentworth is declared to be one of the best trained animals on the current stage. Cinquavalli, the famous jester returns for a farewell week. The celebrated Mlle. Liane d'Eve is a woman of youth and beauty, and in an improvised dressing-room upon the stage, makes the changes of costume for her songs in full view of her audience. There are daily matinees at the Tremont at 2 o'clock. The evening performances begin at 8 o'clock.

Politics

Mr. Louis H. Warner of Northampton a former representative of the First Hampden district and for some time chairman of the Northampton Republican City Committee has accepted the position of private secretary to Congressman John W. Warner and will go to Washington next Friday.

Correspondence

Editor, Newton Graphic:
Dear Sir: Can you imagine a day more suitable to ring the "No School" signal than Monday last?

And with bells and whistles in surrounding cities and towns sounding their signals the small children in Newton were trying to reach their several school houses without being more than drenched to the skin. No good scholar likes to be marked absent yet the attendance was so reduced that regular work could not be accomplished and with "grippe" colds prevalent there is no doubt that a noticeable increase will occur this week.

If the Supt. is not capable to decide these questions let the Mayor take a hand.

Respectfully, Common Sense.

To the Editor of the Graphic:
The report comes from Washington that inspectors have left that city to look over the situation in Newton concerning the proposed annexation to the Boston postal system.

This is surely Newton's opportunity, and should not be lost through public indifference. Our case is almost identical with that of Cambridge. Very many strongly opposed joining their postoffice with that of the city across the Charles, fearing that in some way Cambridge would lose her identity. After the annexation was an accomplished fact the very same people were truly thankful that their objections had been overruled. If we join Boston service will be much better. Mail will partly at least be carried by postal cars and we will in just that measure be freed from the annoying delays on the Albany. We have everything to gain with nothing to lose. I am sure I voice the desire of a large proportion of the people when I say "join us to Boston."

Yours truly, George S. Dyer.

Newtonville, Nov. 27th.

We have yet failed to obtain definite details of the "better service" which our correspondent predicts. Newton with a scattered population of 40,000 is not comparable with Cambridge with large business centres and a population of 100,000. We learn by careful inquiry that other residential places in the Boston district have but three daily deliveries, as Newton has at present. It is extremely doubtful if the postal car service will extend beyond the limits of the Boston Elevated, and we have yet to be convinced that the Boston district offers any inducement for the Newton postal service. (Ed.)

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands spent the afternoon of Nov. 25 on the "History of Thanksgiving and curious old Thanksgiving Customs," which proved a most interesting subject. The club will meet next week with Mrs. William Moore of Hillside road.

The Social Science Club will hold an unusually important business meeting at the Hunnewell Club on Dec. 4.

At the meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Nov. 22 Mrs. A. H. Clifford was elected president to complete the unexpired term of Mrs. Burrison. The paper of the afternoon by Miss Louise T. Merritt entitled "Florida behind an Ease" and illustrated by water color sketches was greatly enjoyed by all. Miss Merritt is a true lover of nature and in her winter's sojourn in Florida made friends with the trees, the birds and the strange sights on "very hand. These she portrayed in so entertaining a manner that her hearers saw them with her and were loath to return to the bleak November afternoon. Mrs. Chester Morton favored the members with three appropriate Southern songs, "Dixieland," "Old Folks at Home" and "My Old Kentucky Home."

The first social meeting of the Pierian club for this year was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Edith Cooper of Newton Highlands on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 20. The program consisted of piano solos by Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Crooks and vocal solos by Mrs. Cooper. She sang old English ballads among them being, "Cherry Ripe." Three literary games were played, the prizes being won by Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Flint. At four o'clock an "English Tea" was served in the pretty dining room over which Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Threlfall presided. Among the English dishes served were seed loaf, currant loaf, sandwiches, lemon cheese cakes, scones and wafers. Mrs. Cooper had as guests Mrs. Crooks of Philadelphia, Miss Loring of Concord, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. Newell and Mrs. Flint of Newton Highlands, and Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Threlfall of Upper Falls. About thirty were present and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent by all. The committee for the afternoon were Mrs. Child and Mrs. Churchill.

The Newton Ladies Home Circle will hold a whist at the residence of Mrs. W. I. Furbush, Watertown street, West Newton, Wed. Dec. 4, at 2.15 p. m.

CITY HALL NOTES

The members of the board of aldermen were the guests of Alderman Edward B. Bowen at dinner last Monday evening at the Brae Burn Country Club. The affair was a splendid success, enlivened with the receipt of humorous messages, the presentation of numerous favors and excellent stories.

think that all families were going in a steady procession into the divorce courts, because when a man lives happily with his wife that is commonplace; there is nothing exciting about it. When they bicker and quarrel a little—well, that is sufficiently commonplace not to say anything about it (laughter). It is only when they quarrel so much that they go into the courts and publish it to the world that the newspapers take it up. So the great mass of the American people are carrying on business honestly. And when some gamblers get hold of one institution or another institution and wreck it or threaten it with wreck, that is exploited. It ought to be; we ought to know it. But we ought not to think that all men are thieves because we have caught one thief.

Now the corporation honestly administered is a great democratic contrivance for the distribution of wealth created in profit-sharing, and for the concentration of wealth in efficient administration. And all we need are two things. First: such governmental supervision of the great corporations that the thieves will have less chance than they have had recently in the city that I have come from. They have less chance in Massachusetts. I am glad to say, than they do in some other states. Secondly, such a development of the plain, simple, ordinary, commonplace virtues that may shall recognize that "Thou shalt not steal" is a law not merely to put up behind the chance of the pupil, but to be put up over the door of the life insurance company. (Laughter.)

I do not know that I should make any such address as this if I thought the question were merely of industrial conditions. To me it is not a question merely of industrial conditions. I believe heartily, thoroughly, profoundly in my fellowman. I believe in God, and I believe in my God because I believe in my fellowman. I believe in the God that I see in my fellowman; I believe in the God that I hear speaking to me in my own heart; I believe in the God who bears witness to himself in the self-denials, in the services, in the integrities, in the unrighteousness, in the noble lives that are lived about me. I believe in humanity; I believe in its possibilities; I believe in its essential greatness; I believe in its vital and fundamental goodness. I believe, therefore, in this great democratic movement, in the movement for the reign of the common people. I believe in the consciences of the common people rather than in the consciences of kings. I believe in the consciences of the common people rather than in the consciences of a few scholars. I believe in the consciences of the common people rather than in the consciences of the few, of the richest, of the wisest and the strongest. I believe that the remedy for the evils of democracy is more democracy; a greater trust in the common people, a larger diffusion, first of virtue, next of intelligence, thirdly of political power; and last of all, but—certainly coming here in America—the distribution of wealth and the universal welfare and happiness which a well-ordered distribution of wealth brings with it.

I say at the end what I said at the beginning. I have not come with a panacea. I have not come with a solution of our problems, but I have come to tell you what is my faith. Think it over and see what measure of truth there is in it. And if it be true, then do what you can in your place to hasten on that reign of the common people which is the kingdom of God. (Applause.)

Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street, Boston, is a good place to dine. If

Address of Mr. Raymond Robins Before The Central Club

Mr. Raymond Robins of Chicago spoke last Friday evening before the Central club of the Central church, Newtonville, on "Municipal Corruption and the Way Out."

In introducing Mr. Robins, the President, Mr. Chas. W. Davidson, said:

The speaker of the evening comes to us with a varied experience in his life. As a business man of the west, as a farmer on the plains, as an explorer in the mines of the Rocky Mountains, as a man living in the Settlement in Chicago, as a political boss in one of the toughest wards of Chicago. I say a political boss, the best kind of a political boss, a man who has been shot at by thugs of the city, and left for dead; a man who prefers to live in that ward where he has a home, prefers to live among the real human people, where he can do real human work. And he comes to us tonight with a distinct message. Mr. Robins is not a man of theories, or a man of dreams; but a man of real human experience. And he will present to us tonight some real human, hard, cold facts.

Mr. Robins said: I will not talk to you about any theories of government, nor theories of social order. I know more about disorder than I do of order. And yet I know how a west side in Chicago that was very corrupt was absolutely in the hands of a vicious boss, was retaken by the people, as the result of six years of effort and cooperation by the people of the community. I am going to tell you the story just about as it occurred; and want you to see the forces that grew up around the struggle. And if there is any philosophy in it, or science of government in it, well and good. There is a method in it that if applied elsewhere in the land will redeem our corrupted wards, and re-establish popular control, control of the people over their government.

When I went to live in the 17th Ward of Chicago, one of the river wards, where 65,000 people lived, and 32 nationalities were represented, 18 national groups existed in the ward of sufficient moment, so that we had literature in that number of tongues to reach them by written word. The average home was four rooms, and many three, in more or less low grade tenements. The general average of wage low down the scale; the streets dirty; the saloons and gambling holes flourishing; the sanitation of the ward infamous. The general condition of the physical and intellectual and moral life of the people was about as bad, and not much worse than certain wards, say in New York or Boston. We did not go with the idea that we had any particular purpose, but with the very firm conviction that this government of ours is going to be administered by its people ultimately in the interest of human life; and that corrupt control of a great working, living, moving population is not possible if the right sort of work is done by men and women. That is, it is up to the people to re-take control of their government; and that it will be taken by just ordinary, simple, human ways. We went into our work, possibly, because we thought it was hard, and was, therefore, worth while; possibly because some people thought it was impossible, and we were very sure it was possible. But we did not go in to be politicians; we did not go in to take up any theory of government; we went in to work with the life of the community, the people. And if we became politicians in the struggle, and ultimately took control of the political machinery of that ward, and sent aldermen to the City Council, and legislators to the Legislature at Springfield; and controlled the politics of the community, in the name of the people, and by the people, we were forced to it step by step; and it was altogether contrary to our purpose at the time.

Our first important move was when a typhoid epidemic broke out in the ward; and little children began to die rather rapidly. We found that the explanations of the epidemic did not explain. Gentle men said it was the water supply; and we found that the same pumping station supplying our ward supplied one of the outlying wards, where there was a more privileged group; and their children were not dying of typhoid fever, and in our ward they were. We went further and exploited one explanation after another, until we found it was traceable to the open vaults left in the tenements of that community; and to the insanitary conditions of the back yards, through the entire ward. We found that the reason that that ward was in this condition was not because there were not plenty of laws on the statute books. There were all the laws necessary to have made a clean and decent ward so far as sanitation was concerned. There was ample power in the health department ample power in the sanitary bureau to keep that ward clean. But it was not kept clean. We found that there intervened between the law and the service that should have been rendered to the people a group of inspectors; a chief sanitary inspector and thirteen more, developed in the inquiry. They were taking $5. from this landlord; and $10 from that landlord; and so much money from this tenement and so much from that tenement, where they did not want to keep the yards decent. That was the reason why these children were dying like flies. We found for instance that while there was some typhoid in the Lake Shore ward, seven little children died in our ward and one in the Lake Shore ward.

We found the legal evidence; we had this chief sanitary inspector and the thirteen inspectors indicted by the Grand Jury. Then we came upon this other fact in politics; that to remove a dishonest man is no gain, unless you put an honest man back in his place. That if you take men who have been reaping graft for a number of years, and replace them with young crooks who have not had a chance to get rich, that they really milk the people more completely and effectively than the old group and the "scound" would pray to have the old crooks, because they had learned a certain amount of humanity in the process of their education. So we were face to face with a bio human fact, that mere removals do not count for anything; that there are just as many crooks outside of our penitentiaries as there are in them; and that the job of putting all the crooks into penitentiaries might seriously affect the population. We said, "We have got these men out; now we want to put honest, efficient men in something that the city never had. It is wonderful how many good people there are in the world who are willing to help you in a thing like that. As the fact goes deeper and begins to affect property value, some of these people will leave and begin to talk on the other side.

We wrote to the head of the department of sanitation in the Boston School of Technology; and got the advice of the best sanitarians in this country. We brought on to Chicago four or five of the best sanitary experts in this country including Charles B. Ball, who had been in the tenement house inspection in New York. We brought him to Chicago; and with these other able men, we went before our civil service commission and demanded that they be admitted to the examinations and Mr. Ball headed the list. He was not appointed; and then he was appointed and removed by a crooked judge on the bench; who enjoined his exercising the duties of chief sanitary inspector on the claim he was not a citizen; which has been decided the other way three times. He was a mere creature of the political boss; and he did what he was told, as many judges do. This particular decision against us forced us to the Supreme Court. We went up and came down three times; and spent $13,000 and two or three years; but Charles B. Ball is Chief Sanitary Inspector of the City of Chicago today; and he has a corps of twenty-five honest inspectors underneath him, so far as we know today. We may learn tomorrow some are taking graft; we will know if they are.

That was our first break in that political society, and what occurred in that contest to several lives of this little group opened up to us a whole field of political necessity; not of desire nor choice, but of necessity. It developed that the most powerful person in the ward, and a man who had appointed three or four of these inspectors, was one Morris O'Connor. Morris O'Connor was boss of the ward. He ran a good, big, husky saloon and gambling hall; with rooms upstairs where women might be led astray; and he was close to the police station so that his protection would be sure; so that he would not make any mistake and raid him. He was splendidly established in business. He had grown rich. And we found that in the Grand Jury room and in the trial of these dishonest crooks that we had removed, the band of Morris appeared, protecting and defending them, all the way from the trial court to the penitentiary; and finally going up to the Governor and asking him for a pardon for these men. That educated us a little; there was more coming.

While we were working on this insani-tary condition, we ran across a few cases of children dying from other causes. We found that it was due to formaldehyde milk, not the best kind of stuff to raise babies on, apparently, because they seemed to die rather than live. We found that was supplied by two or three powerful milk dealers in the ward who were under the special protection of Morris O'Connor also; therefore, the inspector of their milk did not say anything at all. It was always good milk even though it was full of disease. We found little babies dying because of that condition, and we traced that back to Morris, and had one of those men sent over the road to the penitentiary. But we found that just as soon as he was gone there were some fellows ready to take the risk with Morris behind them. They thought it was a spur to have him started, and we could not hold the gain.

We found little gray blooded children, little, incompetent, narrow-chested folk that later on in life would be the worst product in the slums; girls in the houses of prostitution; unable to meet the industrial demands of our intensive industrial age; and therefore falling out daily from honest industry into the life of crime and idleness. We followed that situation rather carefully and found two things; that were of great interest. Tracing things along a step at a time, we found that cattle, condemned out in the stock yards, that the government inspector would not allow Mr. Armour to put into cans and send out to the public, were brought down at night, under the protection of the dishonest crook, who was the inspector of the Hyde Park police station and sold to these little butcher-ers; and then sold by them to this ignorant and helpless population. That had something to do with the condition of the children.

Then we found that there were a great number of rear tenements in that ward in which there were a great number of dark rooms; that the sanitary condition of many of these tenements were such that the sewer gas was constantly in the room. That does not make for red blood and power in children after they have lived under those conditions for eight or ten years. We found that there was very powerful influence working to keep that condition. And when we got behind it and began pushing rather strong and effectively with knowledge, we found that some very powerful real estate interests in the buildings out there; and were getting very good rents from them. They did not want to be bothered. We made complaints and our complaints did not go very far and we began to find that people who complained at City Hall and had delegates behind them, and could go into conventions with twenty-five or thirty votes, that they listened to those people, even though they were thick-necked crooks; even though they could not talk the tongue; that that power was recognized. We said, we will have

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

Julius Laurens Clarke

After a lingering illness Julius L. Clarke, aged 93, the first City Clerk of Newton and a former state auditor and insurance commissioner, died Friday night at the Newton home for aged, Newton Upper Falls, where he had passed the last years of his life. He was one of the oldest residents of this city, and was the oldest living state auditor. A generation ago he was one of the best known men in Massachusetts.

Julius Laurens Clarke was born in Chatham, now Portland, Conn., Nov. 13, 1813, and was the son of Rev. Eben Liscomb and Mary Starkweather. His parents during his childhood lived in Granby, Conn., Winchendon and Berlin, Mass., in each of which places he attended school. He worked for about a year as a clerk in Hartford, Conn., and then entered the Kimball Union Academy to fit for college. His voice failing him, his college course was abandoned and he came to Worcester, where he was employed in the dry goods business, first as clerk and later as proprietor. After-wards he was associated with Elihu Burritt in the editorship of the Christian Citizen, and began the publication of the first daily paper in Worcester, called the Worcester Transcript, now the Telegram. Some years later he became one of the editorial staff of the Springfield Republican. In 1857 he entered the State Auditor's office, and became State Auditor in 1864, serving until 1869. Governor Banks appointed Mr. Clarke as bank register, the entire business in that connection passing into his charge.

As a charter member of the Worcester city guards in 1840, one of the first Massachusetts companies to enlist after the attack on Fort Sumter, and which entered the service under command of Gen. Devens, he was anxious to join his comrades for the front, but Gov. Andrews objected, the then auditor being in feeble health and the duties devolving upon the chief clerk of that department becoming more and more important in connection with war expenditures. Under these circumstances the words of Gov. Andrew to Mr. Clarke were almost prophetic:

"Before we get through with this matter we shall have a big bill against Uncle Sam, and I want some one to be personally familiar with all our expenditures on war account chargeable to the United States, so as to be able to give any required information at the war department."

"I want you to go to Washington and post yourself up on army rules, regulations and prices, so as to be able to adjust all war claims in accordance therewith."

Mr. Clarke accomplished that mission, and as the first result brought back a check for nearly $60,000, the payment of which had been for some time delayed, though much needed at the state treasury department.

While connected with the financial interests of the state as auditor and as bank register of Massachusetts, he was made the custodian of an immense trust, and the entire business relating to the accountability of banks organized under the general laws of the commonwealth to the state was placed in his sole custody.

In 1869 Mr. Clarke was appointed insurance commissioner, retaining that office until 1876, when he was again elected State Auditor. In 1872 he was invited by the Russian government to the international congress at St. Petersburg, where he was the recipient of special favors. He was re-elected State Auditor in 1877, 1878, and 1879, and in 1880, 1881 and 1882 again served the state as insurance commissioner.

Mr. Clarke's municipal services cover a term as assistant town auditor in 1782-73, city clerk in 1874-75, a trustee of the Free Library since 1876 and its secretary since 1879, and for several years a member of the city school committee. He was also chairman of the library committee of the American Statistical Association, and trustee and clerk of the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Mr. Clarke became a member of Worcester Lodge, I. O. O. F., in 1844 and had been prominent in the order ever since, serving as past master of the grand lodge in 1874, and as grand treasurer from 1876 to 1891. He had also been a member of the Second Congregational church at West Newton since 1862, and was elected as its clerk in 1863, and as deacon in 1868, resigning both offices in 1900.

Mr. Clarke married Miss Sarah Sawyer of Berlin, Mass., and they have had two daughters, Sarah Maria and Helen Frances, the wife and younger daughter now being dead.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Newton home for the aged, Newton Upper Falls.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. Edward Park of West Newton, and there was also an Odd Fellows' service in charge of Rev. Mr. Wade. The services were attended by delegations from Worcester lodge, I. O. O. F., of which Mr. Clarke had once been noble grand; the Worcester city guards, of which he was the last charter member, and the Newton lodges of Odd Fellows. There was no music.

There were many handsome floral tributes which literally buried the casket. The burial was in Newton cemetery and a salute was fired over the grave.

Unusual Gifts

While abroad, Miss Caroline selected in addition to her stock of millinery, a few choice effects for the holidays. Some excellent designs in Arts and Crafts work has been added to the display; and a specially low price has been made on all of her imported millinery for the balance of the season.

The novelties, jewelry and millinery, though exclusive and unusual, cost no more than ordinary things. Shop 486 Boylston St., Boston. In the block of Brunswick Hotel.

Stanley--Caine

The wedding of Miss Margaret T. Caine daughter of Mrs. Catherine Caine, 59 River St., West Newton, and Mr. Lawrence W. Stanley of Newtonville took place Monday Nov. 25 at St. Bernard's church, West Newton at 9 a. m. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles J. Galligan. Miss Julia M. Caine sister of the bride was bridesmaid and Mr. Dennis T. Ryan of Newtonville was best man.

The bride wore white silk Messaline with Irish point lace.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Stanley will reside at 59 River street, West Newton.

From the view point of an investment, it is probable that no wiser expenditure of time and money can be made than in acquiring an education, and especially an education which is so practical in its nature as to enable one to earn a good livelihood. It is a tribute to public school superintendents that during the past few years the courses of instruction in many of the leading schools in the country have been enriched by instruction in Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Typewriting. Among the schools which specialize in business subjects is the widely known Burdett College of Business and Shorthand at 18 Boylston St., Boston, a school which many parents select in which to educate their sons and daughters for business life because its modern methods of doing things appeal to their common sense.
